Churchill Says Pact Would End War Threat

Renews Call for Meet Of Big Four Leaders

MARGATE, England (CP)—Prime Minister Churchill said today he had a "sure hope" that an East-West non-aggression pact supported by the United States would prevent a third world war.

The 78-year-old statesman, addressing the Conservative party conference, renewed his call for an informal meeting of the Big Four heads of state.

Reviving his proposal for a non-aggression pact patterned after the 1925 Treaty of Locaro, Churchill declared:

"When . . . I spoke about the master thought of Locarno in a speech on May 11 I meant of course the plan of everybody going against the aggressor whoever he may be and helping the victim, large or small.

"That is no more than the United Nations was set up to do.

"We are told that the Locarno Treaty failed and did not prevent war. There was a very good reason for that. The United States was not in it.

"Had the United States taken before the First World War or between the wars the same interest and made the same exertions to preserve peace and uphold freedom which—I thank God—she is doing now, there might never have been a first war and there would certainly never have been a second.

"With their mighty aid, I have sure hope there will not be a third."

FRIENDLY TALKS

Churchill became ill shortly after this May 11 proposal and had been out of action since.

Of his proposal for a meeting of President Eisenhower, Soviet Premier Georgi Malenkov and French Premier Joseph Laniel, Churchill declared:

"Five months ago on May 11, I made a speech in the House of Commons. I have not spoken since. This is the first time in my political life that I have kept quiet for so long.

"I asked for very little. I held out no glittering or exciting hopes about Russia. I thought that friendly, informal, personal talks between the leading figures in the countries mainly involved might do good and would not easily do much harm, and that good thing might lead to another.

RAISED "STIR"

"This humble, modest plan announced as the policy of Her Majesty's government raised a considerable stir all over the place. And though we have not yet been able to persuade our trusted Allies to adopt it in the form suggested no one can say that it is dead.

"I still think that the leading men of the various nations ought to be able to meet together—without trying to cut attitudes before excitable publics or using regiments of experts to marshal all the difficulties and objections—and let us try to see whether there is not something better for us all than tearing and blasting each other to pieces, which we can certainly do. . . .

"The interest of Britain, of Europe and of the NATO alliance is not to play Russia against Germany or Germany against Russia but to make them both feel they live in safety with each other in spite of their problems and differences.

"For us to have a very definite part in all of this, it is our duty to see our growing influence both with Germany and Russia to relieve them of any anxiety they might feel about each other . . ."

NO ELECTION IN 1953-54

MARGATE (CP) — Prime Minister Churchill told Conservatives gathered in this Kentish seaside resort that his government had no intention of calling a general election in Britain this year or next.

There had been much speculation during the party conference here that the Conservatives might call for an election next year.

'Act on EDC' British PM Warns France

MARGATE, Eng. (Reuters)—Prime Minister Churchill today bluntly warned France that if she does not implement the European army plan he will demand West Germany's rearmament within the 14-nation North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Speaking before the annual Conservative party conference, Churchill urged France to stop dithering over the six-nation European Defense Community which was conceived by France herself three years ago.

Under the plan Germany is to contribute 300,000 troops and thousands of planes to Western Defense against communism. France's traditional fears of Germany have delayed progress in putting the project into effect.

FBI Probes All Tangled Angles Of Kidnap Tale

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Methodical investigation of all facets of the Greenlease kidnap-slaying was pushed today by authorities seeking to clear up discrepancies in stories told by the boy's admitted abductors.

Carl Austin Hall, 34, who planned the kidnapping, and Bonnie Brown Heady, 41-year-old divorcee who took Bobby Greenlease, 6, from his private school, were to be brought here from St. Louis where they were arrested Wednesday.

Officials in St. Louis said details of the transfer were being withheld for security reasons.

Florida Croplands Threatened by Hurricane Blow

MIAMI (UP)—U.S. Engineers alerted sandbag crews as floods swollen by a tropical deluge spilled across 10,000 square miles of Florida croplands today and threatened to engulf canals.

Forty-man teams equipped with two-way radios patrolled miles of dikes guarding south Florida truck farms from brimfull drainage canals in the wake of a tempest that already had delt crops a $7,000,000 blow Friday.

Tito's Troops Enter Trieste

Angry Yugoslav Premier Warns Italians Not to Move Army

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP)—President Tito sent tough Slav troop reinforcements into the Yugoslav Zone B of Trieste today and angrily warned that Italian military entry into Allied Zone A of the free territory would be considered "an act of aggression."

Angrily rejecting the decision by Britain and the United States to withdraw their troops and turn zone A over to the Italians, Tito offered a counter-proposal which he said would be his last.

Tito's new "solution" to the seven-year problem called for turning zone B into an autonomous unit under Yugoslav sovereignty for "10 or more years" and making the big port city of Trieste—Allied-occupied zone A—another autonomous unit under Italian sovereignty.

The Yugoslav leader warned the West if this proposal was not given serious consideration "then there will be no peace in this part of Europe."

In a fiery speech at the southern Serbian textile city of Leskovac, Tito told a huge throng "we have decided to protect our rights in the spirit of the United Nations, which also include the right to use armed force."

"The peoples of Yugoslavia in their demonstrations asked that our army be sent to zone B and I may declare that units of the Yugoslav army have already entered into zone B."

ANGRY PROTESTS

Tito spoke just two days after Britain and the United States announced their decision to withdraw their occupation troops from zone A and turn its administration over to Italy. The decision touched off a wave of angry protest demonstrations in Yugoslavia. They continued today.

U.S. Troops Point Guns At Seoul

PANMUNJOM (AP)—United States "alert troops" with tanks and flame-throwers took up positions pointing south today in an ominous warning against South Korean threats to attack Indian soldiers guarding war prisoners in the neutral zone.

The show of strength followed an Indian appeal for American aid in curbing any South Korean drive toward the compounds housing 22,600 anti-Communist North Korean and Chinese PWs.

The U.S. state department only Friday assured India it would take precautions to head off possible South Korean interference.

The state department also disclosed that it had—prior to the Indian appeal—warned South Korea that the United Nations command will forcibly resist any attempt to free the PWs or attack Indian troops.

South Korea, which considers India pro-Communist, has repeatedly threatened to drive the Indians from Korea—by force, if necessary.

Smooth Passage Seen For New Liquor Bill

In Full Operation in 18 Months to Two Years Bonner Predicts as Second Reading Given

The provincial government's liquor bill failed to stir up any heated debating in the Legislature Friday as all parties generally agreed with its principle.

The bill, which completely revamps the province's drinking system for the first time in 32 years, is expected to have a much smoother passage through the House than predicted before the session.

Only a few members spoke on the second reading which will continue Tuesday afternoon.

There was no really harsh criticism of the bill, which sets up a system of serving hard liquor by the glass for the first time.

Among the criticisms were: Liquor Control Board given too much authority; no definite statement that ICB will be increased to three members; no provision made to spend some of liquor profits on alcohol research, education and rehabilitation. Some opposition members also criticized the local option clause.

The CCF party did not have a policy on the bill. Individual members gave their own opinions which were not necessarily those of the party, it was explained.

Attorney-General Robert Bonner was the only Socred to speak to the bill. He said he expected the new liquor laws would be in full operation within 18 months to two years.

Observers are wondering if any of the well-known "dries" on the government side will participate in the debate.

Main objection came from the Liberals who, however, said they would support the bill.

Liberal Leader Art Laing said there should be no local option clause. He called for open competition.

Dutch Plane, Carrying 76, May Win Race

CHRISTCHURCH, N.Z. (UP)—A Royal Dutch Airlines Liftmaster seemed certain today to win the transport section of the 12,270-mile London-to-New Zealand air race.

The huge Dutch DC-6A, carrying a full load of 76 passengers and crew, including 15 brides-to-be flying to their Dutch immigrant sweethearts, was due into Christchurch Airport this afternoon.

That would make it hours behind the sleek British European Airways turbo-prop Viscount, which landed at 1.20 a.m. PST today, but the KLM plane has the enormous handicap of 44 hours. The Viscount, as a scratch plane, was not eligible for prize money.

The only other airplane in the transport section of the race, a New Zealand Air Force Hastings transport, abandoned the contest at Colombo, Ceylon, because of a defective engine.

The Liftmaster's last stop was at Brisbane, Australia, where it stayed on the ground for 37 minutes to give its passengers, including 27 women, their first chance to stretch their legs since they left London 44 hours earlier.

The plane's last hop to Christchurch is 1,551 miles, and is expected to take about five and a half hours.

The Liftmaster shattered existing transport plane records from London to Melbourne, covering the 11,200 miles in 35 hours and 47 minutes, at an average speed of 305 mph.

First prize in the transport section is $28,000.

Transport Board Order Official

OTTAWA (BUP)—The Board of Transport commissioners today made their recent freight rate equalization order official.

A formal judgment published today directed the railway companies to lower their mileage rates on class goods in the west by five per cent and authorized them to raise similar rates in the east by "not more than ten per cent."

The move was designed as a step towards equalizing rates in the western provinces with those in Ontario and Quebec. It was announced by Chief Commissioner J. D. Kearney during open hearings of the board last week.

The new rates must be put into effect by November 15.

Murky Thanksgiving Prospect for City

Showery Monday May Not Spoil Holiday Week-End Sports Card

Passage of a storm Friday left clear skies that will continue well into Saturday night, weatherman William Mackie said today.

"It's even better than we'd hoped for," he said, "but I don't think it will last. A storm still in the Pacific should give increasing cloud Sunday morning, and rain by Sunday afternoon."

Most of the many sports events planned for the holiday week-end (see page 8 for detailed program) will proceed as scheduled, but too heavy rain could upset the B.C. championship auto racing meet at Shearing Speedway, Monday at 2.45, and the Victoria Motorcycle Club hill climb at Mount Douglas, Monday at 1.30.

The weatherman expects showery weather Monday morning and partial clearing in the afternoon. Temperatures on the week-end will range between 48 and 60 degrees, and winds will be light.

Heavy fog at Patricia Bay airport "washed out" all TCA flights between Victoria and Vancouver, from 9 p.m. Friday to 6.15 a.m. today.

The 9 p.m. plane from Vancouver crossed from the mainland to Pat Bay, but was compelled to return when the low ceiling prevented landing.

Airline traffic, which was exceptionally heavy because of the Thanksgiving holiday weekend, was diverted to the Canadian Pacific's night steamers. The midnight boat out of Vancouver arrived here today with every stateroom occupied, as well as every chair on board.

CPR announced today that Ss. Princess Patricia will make a special stop off Portlock Point on the east side of Prevost Island, at 4 p.m. Monday to pick up Gulf Islands passengers bound for Vancouver.

NO PAPER ON MONDAY

Thanksgiving Day, Monday, will be observed as a holiday by the Times staff. There will be no regular editions of the paper.

Ousted Guiana Cabinet Heads To Stand Trial

GEORGETOWN, British Guiana (UP) — Informed sources said today charges were being prepared against government leaders of this South American colony who were ousted yesterday by Britain.

British security officers accompanied by locksmiths sorted through the desks of the five cabinet ministers fired along with Premier Cheddi Jagan yesterday.

The sources said the attorney-general would bring suitable charges against the ringleaders of Jagan's People's Progressive Party to support Britain's accusations that it tried to turn the colony into a "Communist state."

British troops moved in this week to back the action of British Gov. Sir Alfred Savage. They fanned out across the colony to guard against any reaction to the crackdown. Informed sources said the troops will remain for a long time.

In London, Labor members of Parliament gave signs of starting a row over the government's ouster of the Guiana government elected last April under the new constitution.

Informed sources said a new general election may be held in about a year under conditions that will prevent pro-Communists from regaining control. (See Jagan, page 3.)

Reds Propose New Talks At Panmunjom

Allied Reaction Favors Acceptance

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UP) — Communist China and North Korea proposed today that details for a political conference on Korea's future be settled in a meeting at Panmunjom, and first unofficial reaction was that it would be accepted.

Washington sources said "Panmunjom would be no problem" if the Reds really want to make necessary pre-conference arrangements.

The latest Red proposal came in the midst of mounting tension over the Korean situation, including fears that the whole truce structure might collapse.

FAVORABLE REACTION

In separate notes, China Premier Chou En-Lai and North Korean Foreign Minister Nam Il asked that the time, place and membership of the conference, be discussed in the war-flattened farm village where the armistice was signed.

The Communist message was addressed through Sweden to United Nations Secretary Gen. Dag Hammarskjold and Assembly President Madame Pandit and was received at UN headquarters Saturday morning. It had been broadcast earlier by Peiping radio.

Immediate state department and UN reaction was unofficial but favorable.

Beitz told police he picked up the passenger in Port Arthur and drove him to Intola, a small farming community 12 miles west of here.

Win Mainland Back, Chiang Urges Troops

100,000 Taipeh Residents at Rally

TAIPEH, Formosa (UP) —Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek told soldiers and cheering countrymen today they must double their efforts to "wipe out the Communists and retake the lost mainland."

Chiang addressed a mass rally on the 42nd anniversary of the founding of the Republic of China by Dr. Sun Yat-Sen.

About 100,000 Taipeh residents lined the streets to see Chiang ride to the reviewing stand for a dress parade and show of strength.

The burst of applause was so spontaneous and enthusiastic that Chiang often had to halt his caravan to wave back at the crowd.

Civilians also showered their admiration of 63 anti-Communist prisoners of the United Nations who arrived Thursday morning from Pusan, Korea.

Wayne Richards, commander of the American Veterans of Foreign Wars, and 12 visiting American generals, attened the rally.

THE ROAD BACK

Maj.-Gen. William C. Chase, Chiang's top American military adviser, presented an American-made M-18 tank to Nationalist soldiers while F-84 Thunderjets roared overhead.

In a brief address, Chase told Chiang's military and naval forces "you have traveled far along 'the road back'."

In Hong Kong thousands of Chinese living on the doorstep of Red China flouted Communist rulers of their homeland in celebrating the Republic of China's birthday.

Thousands of Nationalist flags, banners and decorations far out-numbered banners Communists produced on the Oct. 1 anniversary of the Communist regime in China.

It was the second straight year Nationalist sympathizers have won the "battle of banners" in this colony on the border of China, underlining the skidding influence of Communists in Hong Kong.

SMOOTH PASSAGE

"The best way to arrive at moderation in retail distribution is to introduce real competition," he said.

The government should steer away from any policy of protecting retailers, he contended.

HOME DELIVERIES ASKED

Mr. Laing thinks the government should allow delivery of liquor to homes. He's convinced a lot of the accidents involving drinking drivers are caused by persons going out to buy more liquor.

Taxi deliveries with proper safeguards were suggested by the Liberal.

Bruce Brown (Lib., Prince Rupert) had two main objections.

He said the bill gives the Liquor Control Board too much authority, and there should be no local option.

"Let competition take its course and we won't have to worry about monopolies," he said.

He said the bill should provide for a minimum of three men on the LCB. The bill reads "not more than three," which, he said, means a one-man board could continue.

The Liberal MLA considered the authority of the LCB under the new bill even greater than under the old system.

Mr. Brown, dealing with granting of licenses, said all applicants with the necessary qualifications should be granted licenses.

"Let competition take its course," he stated. "We don't limit the number of grocery stores."

He didn't like the term "monopoly tax," the government's proposal to end profiteering in liquor licenses.

"It implies, at least, that there is still a monopoly, and that is what we're trying to overcome."

Too much, he added, is left up to regulations to be administered by the LCB, leaving the situation open to abuse, he said.

Mr. Brown said the government should open all liquor outlets to native Indians.

NO RESEARCH FUNDS

CCF Leader Arnold Webster criticized the government for not following the Stevens Commission recommendation that funds be set aside for establishment of an Alcohol Research Foundation.

Mr. Bonner's explanation that the government intended to give aid to the Vancouver research organization was inadequate, Mr. Webster said.

"This is too important a matter to be left to a local organization," he said.

Mr. Webster said there should be a continuing examination of the liquor problem by a government agency.

He hoped the government is working toward a long-range objective to create a climate in dealing with liquor which will make total abstinence socially admirable, moderation socially acceptable, and drunkenness socially reprehensible.

He supported a "food with drink" policy, he said, but the food should be given first place in any liquor establishment.

Mr. Webster regretted the bill doesn't make provision for music in public houses. He agreed there should be no floor shows.

The LCB should be a three-man set-up, serving three, five and 10-year terms to ensure continuity.

"Leaving it all up to one man invites possible failure."

Liquor advertising, the CCF leader stated, should be kept to a minimum. It must be confusing, he said, for children to be taught the danger of liquor and then see it advertised everywhere.

He warned the government other regimes have been handicapped by liquor interests, and 25 years ago there was an inquiry into contributions by the liquor interests to public bodies.

"In my opinion, there is no more corrupt influence upon public office than that brought on by persons engaged in the liquor business," said Mr. Webster.

He urged the government to guard against entering into any arrangements with liquor interests which may handicap "honest and courageous administration" of the new law.

Dr. Larry Giovando (PC, Nanaimo), will support the bill.

But he said the new legislation should allow the working man to go into a public house, have a sandwich and watch television.

LOCAL OPTION HIT

Robert Strachan (CCF, Cowichan-Newcastle), opposed the local option clause, saying it's not in the true tradition of democracy.

The province voted as a whole for a change, he said, so there should be no further vote.

He regretted the government didn't make provision to use liquor profits to establish research facilities on liquor.

Aiding the Vancouver alcohol research group wasn't enough.

"This government has demonstrated an amazing proclivity for shouldering its responsibilities to other groups," he stated.

If the government doesn't take revenue from liquor profits to promote alcohol education and rehabilitation, he said, it is trafficking in liquor just like the bootlegger.

The regulations, he added, should rule that each drink in a licensed premises should contain not less than one ounce of spirits.

"Any non-alcoholic liquid which is added to liquor in the preparation of a drink should be added in full view of the customers," he said.

WORD FOR INDIANS

Frank Calder (CCF, Atlin), asked the attorney-general to clarify the positions of Indians under the new law. He said native Indians should be allowed into all outlets.

Tony Gargrave (CCF, Mackenzie), complimented Mr. Bonner because the bill contained no "legal gobbledygook".

Arthur Turner (CCF, Vancouver East), said the government should guard against the "railway station atmosphere in liquor outlets where an individual is lost in the crowd."

He said there's a better social atmosphere in small retail establishments.

He said many beer parlors under the old system are "vile, disgusting" places.

The attorney-general said the government has retained the spirit of the Stevens Commission recommendations even if the bill doesn't follow them exactly in all cases.

The success of the new system, he said, depends on the enforcement and to a major degree how licensees carry out their duties.

Rich Duke Missing; Gun Accident Feared

TAVISTOCK, England (AP) —The Duke of Bedford, one of Britain's wealthiest men, was reported missing today. Police and soldiers conducted a widespread search of the wild moorland around his home here.

The 64-year-old duke, frequent centre of political controversy, did not show up for breakfast Friday and police were informed. A search of the estate yielded no trace and police started dragging the Tamar River today.

Said a police inspector: "It is possible there has been an accident. We know that he had the gun and three cartridges, and it is possible that if he tripped it went off."

Ammunition Truck Hits Car; Blast Kills 4

OMAHA, Neb. (UP)—Army demolition crews gingerly removed live ammunition today from a half-mile area where an ammunition truck-auto collision killed three women and raked the countryside with exploding shells.

The owner of a nearby restaurant died of a heart attack after a shell crashed through the building.

Shells exploded from the flaming wreckage near here for more than four hours after the crash late last night.

The bodies were recovered early today. Deputy Robert Brisby said "they were burned to charcoal."

The blast occurred when the truck, carrying about 500 rounds of 105-millimetre shells from the Nebraska ordnance plant to Omaha, apparently crashed into the rear of the car.

One of the exploding shells landed in a cottage at nearby Boys' Town, famed home for underprivileged youngsters, but caused only minor damage.

Another crashed through a plate glass window of a restaurant on the hill above the highway and emerged through a rear wall.

Chet Daggerman, owner of the inn, suffered a fatal heart attack after the first blasts.

$10 Million Telephone Expansion for Alberta

CALGARY, Alta. (BUP) — Premier E. C. Manning informed the Calgary Chamber of Commerce today that the Alberta government telephones would undertake a $10,000,000 expansion program.

Manning said that much of the expansion would involve opening of 60 new long-distance toll circuits between this city and points outside the province. Twelve new circuits also would be opened between Calgary and Edmonton.

NANAIMO—George Darling, School District 66 trustee, said here this week that a set salary schedule should be instituted by the B.C. government with a differential to be paid according to the location of the school.

Trustee Dr. J. P. Tully said basic rates should be fixed either by the education department or B.C. School Trustees' Association.

ODLUM SEES NEW WAR AHEAD; CANADA INVOLVED

BRANDON (CP)—Maj.-Gen. Victor Odlum, former Canadian ambasador to Turkey, says "we are facing another war which will be fought for the security of Canada, and we are in one of the two camps which will eventually enter the struggle for world supremacy."

In an address Friday night to a joint meeting of the Canadian Clubs of Brandon, Gen. Odlum said:

"I am one of the group who believe we have to enter another war. I predicted the First and Second World Wars, and I believe Russia is building a war machine which will have to be used before new discoveries render it obsolete."

Gen. Odlum said his statements were founded on opinions formed during years in China and Turkey.

BIG-TIME CHARLEY HATED LITTLE PEOPLE

Cab Driver Tells Story of How He Picked Up Kidnap Suspect

(St. Louis cab driver John Hager enabled officials to break the Greenlease kidnap case when he picked up Carl Hall, became suspicious of him, and called police. Here is his story.)

By JOHN HAGER

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UP)—I was parked in front of the Hotel Jefferson Monday afternoon when another cab driver asked me if I could get his fare a girl. The fare was a well-dressed man who appeared to have been drinking. He looked like a good-time Charley to me.

I had another fare so I told the driver to meet me with his fare outside a cocktail lounge at 15th and Pine Streets. He did. The fare said his name was Steve. I told him I knew a friend who might be able to get him a date.

I got two metal suitcases out of the trunk of the other cab and put them into the trunk of my cab. I had a hard time getting both suitcases in the trunk and I suggested I put one up front. But Steve said no. We drove out to Sandra O'Day's house, picked her up, went to a bar and had some drinks for which Steve paid with a 20-dollar bill. He shoved the change—$18—across the table to me and said, "You take this." I said to myself what a fare I've got here."

Steve—that's the only name I knew Hall by—got a piece of paper, a pencil and an envelope from the bartender. He turned around, wrote out a note on the next table and sealed it in the envelope. I got suspicious. I thought maybe he might be a cop, trying to trap me getting a girl for him.

You, see, I'm an ex-convict. I said to Steve "I'm doing this for you only as a favor, but are you a cop?" He laughed and said, "John, if you knew the truth, you'd really get a kick out of this."

We decided to drive out to a motel on Watson Road. On the way Steve gave me five $20 bills and said: "Here's some money on account." I thought "Gee, what is this? I'm going to stick with this guy."

He asked me to get him some shaving gear. I stopped at a drug store. There was a cab parked there. Steve asked me to give the driver the envelope with the note in it and have it delivered. I noticed it was addressed to either Miss or Mrs. Esther Grant at an address on Arsenal St. (Mrs. Bonnie Heady was picked up at an Arsenal Street address.)

IMPLICATED—This is Thomas John Marsh, 37, who has been implicated in the kidnap-slaying of six-year-old Bobby Greenlease by Mrs. Bonnie Brown Heady and Carl Austin Hall. They have been picked up by police. The boy's body was found in a shallow grave near the home of Mrs. Heady at St. Joseph, Mo.

WALKING AND TALKING

I carried in the two suitcases. They were so heavy I had to carry them one at a time. If he had told me they were filled with money I would have called him a liar. When we got inside Steve started walking around and talking. He said money was nothing and that all you could do was spend it. He said he hated little people. "I want to be big," he said.

I left and went to a nearby eating place and returned with three bottles of beer. When I got back I saw ten 20-dollar bills on the bed. My eyes almost popped out.

"Then Steve went to his coat, which was in the closet, came back and tossed a fistful of 20's on the bed. He said he was half looped and asked me to count it. I did. There was $2,480. He pulled another $20 from his pocket, handed me the $2,500 and said "John, I want you to keep this for me." He walked to the closet, came back with a .38 cal. revolver, and said "ain't this a beaut."

Sandy took it from him, removed the shells and handed it back. I left about 6 p.m. and was to return at 10 p.m. I got back at 10.30. Sandy wanted to go to a tony restaurant but Steve refused, so we went to a small restaurant nearby and ordered steaks. Steve was real fidgety and ate only a bite or two. When we returned to the motel Steve said "You're the right kind of guy." He told me to take the $2,500 rent-a-car in my name and buy him a two-suiter bag and a briefcase to match.

I left about midnight but returned Tuesday morning with the rented car, the suitcase and the briefcase. Steve was wild, pacing up and down like a madman. He said the plans had been changed. He said for me to take Sandy in the rented car, drop her where she could get a cab, and come back for him. I asked him why he couldn't ride with us.

He said "I've got something I want to do." We left. After we got out on the highway Sandy said she had seen one of the suitcases open and that it was loaded with 10 and 20-dollar bills. I told her she was crazy. Then she reached in her purse and got a fistful of 10-dollar bills. "There must be a million dollars back there," she said.

That's when I got scared. I knew I did not have a good-time Charlie. I knew I had something worse. I didn't know what, but I knew it was big.

Sandy said Steve had given her $1,000, handed her a letter, told her to fly to California and mail it. I told her to tear open the letter. It was addressed to a St. Joseph attorney and was signed "Carl." As I recall it, it said, "Things are not going as good as they seem. May have to leave the country by ship or plane."

SUSPICIONS AROUSED

Then my suspicions were really aroused because the letter was signed by Carl by a man I knew as Steve. I returned to the motel. Steve said he was going to take me into his confidence, that he was an ex-convict and that insurance investigators were looking for him. He said he wanted me to rent him an apartment.

I put the to suitcases in the rented car. We drove to a hardware store where Steve got out and I took a cab, leaving the rented car with him. The more I thought about it the more scared I got.

Hager rented an apartment at the Town House for Hall and was to meet him there Tuesday night. Instead, he called police and accompanied them to the apartment where Hall was arrested.

Mill Operators Challenged to Open Books

IWA Doubts Mill Word on Profits

PRINCE GEORGE, B.C. (BUP)—Mill operators in the northern British Columbia interior were challenged today by the International Woodworkers of America to open their books to prove they could not afford wage increases.

The union headquarters here, master-minding a strike by 5,000 woodworkers in the region, demanded that the lumber companies open their books for inspection because organizers believe that the 18-cent-an-hour wage hike demand was not causing the operators to balk at a settlement of the dispute.

FOUR SIGN

The Bowron Lumber Company and three smaller firms have signed a new pact on the union's terms, but both sides emphasized that the agreements were only "tentative."

J. E. Dicey, international vice-president of the IWA, said, "apparently they (the companies) are not willing to concede to some of our demands which have no monetary significance whatsoever."

Besides the wage boost, the Woodworkers were seeking union shop, a change of contract termination dates and other fringe benefits.

MONTREAL, (CP) — At a quiet church ceremony Friday, a 92-year-old Montreal notary—George Peter Rutherford Lighthall — married a 65-year-old widow he has known for 30 years.

IN THE HOUSE

BY GORDON FORBES

A young CCF backbencher, serving his first term in the House, tripped up the government on a procedural point Thursday night.

The hour was late and both sides of the House weren't paying much attention to such procedures.

But when the government called for committee study of a bill which earlier in the day had been given second reading, Frank Howard (CCF, Skeena) was on his feet.

Hesitantly, he suggested it might be out of order to push a bill through two readings in one day.

"I don't think it's permitted, he said, clutching a book on rules.

He'd been studying procedure, obviously.

Premier Bennett grabbed for his book, and smiled. The government was in error.

But the rules were suspended for the occasion and the bill went through.

Tom Uphill (Labor, Fernie) gets around the House.

He spent some time sitting in Attorney-General Robert Bonner's seat the other night and chatted with Premier Bennett and Provincial Secretary Black.

Arthur Turner (CCF, Vancouver East), apparently had some inside information on how to annoy Premier Bennett.

"Don't point," the premier replied.

"Oh, yes, I'll point," came back Mr. Turner, "because one of your friends said you don't like it."

CCF Leader Arnold Webster now has his name on his office door—thanks to E. E. Winch (CCF, Burnaby).

Mr. Winch last week asked how far the government intended to go with its "efficiency with economy."

He said the government had failed to put a nameplate on the opposition leader's door. It was a traditional privilege, he said.

The sign, "A. A. Webster, MLA," now sits above the "Opposition Leader" sign.

PILOT AND AIRWOMAN MISSING

Wreckage Spotted; May Be Expiditer

NORTH BAY, Ont. (CP)—A search plane today spotted wreckage of an aircraft in the area where an RCAF twin-engined Expediter disappeared Friday with its pilot and his airwoman passenger.

The air force said the wreck, half-submerged in a swamp 30 miles southeast of here, was not immediately identified as the missing plane. There was no sign of life.

A para-rescue team and a ground party were standing by for orders to go to the scene. Planes were called back from the search area between here and Killaloe, Ont., where the Expediter was last heard from on a flight from Ottawa to North Bay.

On board were FO J. L. Holten, 32, of Vancouver, an RAF veteran who taught school in Vancouver before enlisting in the RCAF, and LAW Joan Mildred Moody, 23, whose father, J. L. Moody, lives at Morris, Man.

LAW Moody, a radar technician stationed at Summerside, P.E.I., was on her way home for the Thanksgiving week-end.

The air force said the wreck was spotted about seven miles northwest of Kiosk on the Canadian National Railways line.

Eighteen planes from air stations at Trenton and Centralia, Ont., started the search at dawn today. On board a Dakota from Trenton was a three-man para-rescue team and a para-rescue nurse, FO E. R. Kelly, of Summerside.

PERDUE DROPS SUIT

John Perdue, president of the provincial Social Credit League, was permitted to drop his libel and slander suit against Dr. W. N. Kemp, defeated Independent candidate in Vancouver-Point Grey in the last provincial election, when he made application for dismissal in a Vancouver court Friday.

The suit arose out of a statement made by Dr. Kemp during the election campaign concerning a "false pretenses" charge against the Socred officer.

Seattle Times Strike Nearer Settlement

SEATTLE (AP) — Stereotypers and photoengravers unions settled contract differences with the Seattle Times and the Post-Intelligencer Friday, leaving only a contract with the pressmen still unsettled and in the way of resumption of publication at the strike-bound Times.

The settlement with the photoengravers, an AFL union, resulted in withdrawal of all pickets from the Times entrance for the first time since July 16, when an American Newspaper Guild (CIO) walked out closed the paper.

Edmonton Woman Dies From Explosion Burns

EDMONTON (CP)—Mrs. K. McDougall, 24, died in hospital Friday from burns suffered several hours earlier in a gasoline explosion in the basement of her apartment home.

Mrs. McDougall, native of Lacombe, Alta., was washing clothing in the basement while another tenant, Bob Shibald, was cleaning clothes with gasoline nearby. Shibald told police a water heater three feet from him exploded the gasoline. He was not seriously injured.

Deposed Jagan Seeks Regime's Restoration

GEORGETOWN, British Guiana (Reuters) — Dr. Cheddi Jagan, deposed premier of this British colony, started packing his bags today and said "my next move is to London."

The leftist premier said he intends to leave in the next few days to wage a campaign in London and before the United Nations for the restoration of his regime. Britian ousted Jagan's government and suspended the colony's six-months-old constitution Friday to prevent British Guiana from becoming "a totalitarian state subordinate to Moscow."

In London, a colonial office spokesman said today: "We have no information of Jagan's departure or, in fact, whether he is leaving or not."

The Indian ex-dentist expressed surprise "at all the fuss." He said his People's Progressive party has no intention of causing any trouble and denied it was connected "in any way with international communism."

Jagan, smiling and unconcerned, stood beside his Chicago-born wife Janet and gave his views as British troops with fixed bayonets stood guard on the governor's palace and other key buildings. More than 500 troops were rushed to the colony earlier this week.

Asked about the future of his party, Jagan shrugged and said: "What can happen? If they have more elections, we will win again. Will they try to throw us out again?

"Now the British hope to gain a breathing space to build up an opposition to us, but I don't think they will win many votes away from us."

The PPP won 18 of the 24 seats in the lower house last April.

U.S. Awaits Korean Attack

PANMUNJOM (AP)—United States troops and tanks took up positions at vital road points near the anti-Communist prisoner stockades in the Korean neutral zone today to block threatened South Korean armed action against Indian troops guarding the PWs.

The tanks, some equipped with flame-throwers, were pointed south toward Seoul and not at the Communist north.

There was no immediate official explanation for the show of might.

Friday the UN command assured India that the Allies would quell any attempt by South Korea to interfere with Indian troops guarding the PWs who have refused repatriation.

The Deeper Current

IN THE PRESENT TORRENT OF international politics it is difficult to see where the main currents run. But through all the confusion of the last month or two one fact stands out clearly—the foreign policies of the United States and the Commonwealth are moving together again after a serious schism.

That schism began, or at least became public, with Sir Winston Churchill's famous speech of May 11. In it he laid down a policy of negotiating, or attempting to negotiate, a world settlement with Russia. To this end he proposed that the West guarantee the security of Europe and Russia alike under some new version of the Locarno Treaty. His proposal of a four-power conference to implement this plan received from Washington a thinly-disguised refusal. As Sir Winston then fell ill, little more was heard of it.

In the early autumn the Commonwealth and the United States split openly in the United Nations on procedure of the Korean peace conference which, under the American policy of excluding neutrals like India, may never be held. The grand alliance was under heavy strain.

But in the ponderous fashion of diplomacy the United States has lately changed and almost reversed its policy. The Eisenhower Government indicates that it is ready to accept the Locarno principle and guarantee Russia's security. It is ready to meet the Russians if they are willing. And, after the explosion of Russia's hydrogen bomb, it admits that in an atomic war the two military giants would probably destroy each other and civilization as we know it.

Thus while Russia has been using every device to exploit the former divisions between the Allies it finds them, probably to its surprise, uniting on essentials. Russia is driving them together, not apart. As Mr. Eden said a few days ago, British policy is based fundamentally on co-operation between the United States and Britain. American policy, as recently altered, is based on the same premise, the only premise which offers any hope of peace or safety.

There is no use imagining, however, as some well-meaning people imagine, that to agree on an offer of security to Russia means an assured agreement with Russia. The difficulties in the way of the Locarno which Sir Winston suggests are formidable and baffling.

For example, if the West is to guarantee the protection of Russia's frontiers, where do those frontiers lie? Is the West to guarantee the seizure of eastern German territories now in Poland, or Russia's seizure of Poland's eastern territories? Is Russia's control over restive satellites like Poland, Czechoslovakia and Hungary to be guaranteed also? If those obstacles can be overcome how can the West rely on any treaty signed by a Russian Government which has violated so many former treaties and still refuses to allow any international inspection of its armaments?

We need not expect any quick or easy answer to these questions. Under the best of conditions, and even assuming Russia's good intentions, negotiations along these lines will take time and patience. As Mr. Eisenhower has lately said, nothing in the meantime can justify any reduction in the West's armed strength, the only factor which impresses Russia.

If the whole future appears more obscure than ever, the fact of renewed agreement between the great partners of the free world—only this side of a disastrous division—remains and it is the most important and hopeful fact of these times.

Party First

PREMIER BENNETT'S PURposes in abolishing the alternative vote appear obvious.

In the first place he wishes to protect Mr. Einar Gunderson and Mrs. Tilly Rolston from the fate they suffered last June. These senior ministers led on first count ballots. When the alternative votes were counted—that is, when the qualified will of the majority was expressed—they were defeated. Given the former ballot, with no transfer of votes, Mr. Bennett assumes his two lieutenants would win by-elections.

Secondly, the Premier is preparing for the next general election. He hopes to channel the entire anti-Socialist vote to Social Credit, posing as the only alternative to the CCF. That pose was struck during the last election, which gave Social Credit its working majority. But, as the breakdown of the popular vote disclosed, the older parties still command the allegiance of a substantial following among the general public.

Were the anti-Socialist vote to be split three or more ways, and were the non-Socialist voters deprived of an alternative choice, an opportunity would exist for the CCF to slip in as the largest minority.

As has been stated in these columns on numerous occasions, the alternative vote provides the best opportunity available to make the Legislature represent, as closely as possible, the will of the people when more than two strong parties are in the field. It does not, of course, assure the election of the voter's first choice, but it does give him the opportunity to show his preference if his favorite is eliminated.

Mr. Bennett's move to abolish the alternative voting system appears to demonstrate a disregard for the will of the majority in favor of political party expediency. It may have some rather sobering effects on the premier's political future.

Overcoming Shyness . . . At a Price

A NEW APPROACH TO SOCIology is seen in the recent goings-on at Grevenbicht, in Holland. The quiet little farming town staged a 72-hour non-stop fiesta attended by 800 spinsters and bachelors from five countries.

Apparently on the theory that beer, women and song can solve any problem, the festivities kept the visitors busy with processions, songfests, displays, dancing and other delights. Designed to break down shyness, the plan seemed to be completely successful, for even the most bashful bachelor or retiring spinster achieved a new camaraderie after "night after night . . . walking up and down with their arms around each other, singing national songs at the top of their voices."

The success of the party, of course, was not to be measured in the parades and songs. Rather it resided in the partnered strolls down the darker lanes, the serious talks in the shadows, the exchanged names and addresses, and the subsequent trips to the altar. Statistics on the affair unfortunately are not available, but it is logical to believe that a good many marriages resulted.

One cannot help but wonder, however, how such arrangements will work out. The former shy bachelor, holding his head together after a 72-hour session with the "gallons of good Dutch beer" described in the account, might well find insupportable the additional discovery that he now had a wife.

Marry in Grevenbicht and repent at leisure could well replace the standard maxim. Even with the new pubs, this is one idea the Victoria tourist groups might well pass up.

As Our Readers See It

AT DOMINOES, TOO?

The Times says that above where domino players sit, in the Citizens' Recreation Rooms, is a sign reading thus:

"Criticizing your partner's play is strictly forbidden."

This insidious interference with British freedom of speech is typically fascist, and the players should ask to have it removed.

RE: BIBLICAL REPLY

From the letter of "Observer" one might infer that he (or she) believes Christianity to be a force which caters to the mind and not to the five senses.

Mr. Eekman refers to "The Gospel of the Grace of God" as "a valuable machine."

One might believe that Christianity and "The grace of God" are one and the same, but neither is "a valuable machine." A cart is not a horse, any more than the charity or grace of God is love. Love is an effect and charity or grace is the cause.

Reading "The Gospels" may give us faith, but the faith of life's experience, in addition, is of more value. There still remains a vast ignorance of how the valuable machine is "plugged in." The clergy, supposedly, are our teachers in this subject, but it does not appear very often in the curriculum of the church. However, we can learn from personal experience.

Perhaps a modern council of Nicaea is required to rebuild the ideas of Christianity.

The "Advent of the Son of Man," for instance, appears to be merely a figurative expression arising from the insertion into the creed by Pope Leo IX, in 1054, of the words "filioque" (and by the Son). The Son of God and the grace of God are probably synonomous. Man achieves immortality by the grace of God, so called, but God deals with individuals, so the idea of mass resurrections is unthinkable.

DEFENDING FRANK HUNTER

Just a note on the glib statements about personal liberty made by H. E. M. in attacking the temperance stand by Mr. Frank Hunter. Let H. E. M. study the history of freedom and the struggle of the great souls who forged democratic liberty. Let him read "England before and after Wesley" by Bready. Never will he find the fathers of liberty and decency among the mediocre brood (those who are neither good nor bad but often indifferent) who seldom rise above the thoughts of their own belly and the gratification of personal lusts and passions. Always he will find them (the great souls) among the disciplined and self denying, who live simply and die nobly, to win for others those true freedoms that were denied to themselves.

It is true that individual liberty is one of our most precious rights and privileges, but it is won by men who assume voluntarily their own responsibility, plus the responsibility of scores of others who seek not liberty but license (disregard of legal or moral restraints). The men who loved humanity and fought for its deliverance from the tyranny of cliques and libertines often perished in stinking dungeons, but they kept their full freedom of conscience.

Always, always, today, the man who has moral convictions is said to be "dogmatizing." The good word has been dragged down by those who forget that a dogma is that kind of a truth or principle that is worthy of being believed "always and everywhere by everyone."

There has always been a point in democracy where law must trespass on personal liberty. It is at the point when any business or pleasure is ready to prostitute men, women, and youth to satisfy greed and gain. Slavery and child labor have both been defended in the same manner that H. E. M. defends the liquor traffic. A truly democratic government will go down fighting this kind of business, rather than stay in power and compromise. Democracy has its roots buried deep in Christianity—let no man forget it—and democratic government ceases to be democratic or government when it tries to rule without certain moral convictions.

Nearly 2,000 years ago, the most broad-minded, big-hearted man who ever lived, taught men how to live above and beyond the law in a great social and spiritual ideal, which He called the Kingdom of God. I sincerely believe that if He was here in the flesh today, he would never be found "beering" and in the face of an industry that has 30,000 men and women in B.C. by the throat (alcoholics) He would be a total abstainer. The brotherhood that He founded depends on men and women who live up to their conscience.

The denial of the rights of 205,736 people who voted "no" with such a conscience is a big "trespass." I believe Mr. Hunter represents those who humbly try to follow this lead. That's a pretty big clique! I have always feared to fight a man whose conscience was clearer than my own. Will thoughtless men continue to crucify, in the name of liberty?

Coming Back to the Town

THERE is, perhaps—though I am the last man in the world to admit it—something to be said for the town. After a long absence it seems to have its points.

Hutchison

The first point one notices on returning from the silence of the wilderness is the sound of humanity which, in moderation, is a good sound. A vague hum on the other side of the hill, the merged and dulled clamor of factories, railways, traffic and whistles assures the listener that the town is there, that men are working and that despite everything in this perilous world, civilization, in isolated spots, is still going on.

THE tap of a hammer tells you that men are still building. A scream of tires on the highway shows that they are still traveling about on their lawful, though curious occasions. A continuous ringing of this primitive Saanich telephone system (whose crude Morse code I have to learn all over again, wasting much time in unnecessary answerings to the wrong calls), indicates that men, and especially women, are still talking.

All this I had almost forgotten and begun to doubt in the woods where the sounds, though more musical and soothing, are not human and lack what Charles Lamb once called the "sweet security of streets."

THERE is such a security but you cannot feel it until you have been some time in the jungle where there is no security at all, where every animal, bird, insect and vegetable is engaged in a quiet but desperate struggle for survival. And the essential difference between life there and in town is to be found in this—that a man living in the wilderness has no control whatever over his environment, whereas in the town he seems to have.

It is largely an illusion, of course, no man ever really controls anything of importance, not even himself, but, like Lamb, he imagines he does. This alone, I suppose, makes civilization tolerable. With sufficient imagination and some deliberate self-deception, you can almost convince yourself that civilization is an orderly process, continually progressing, in the general chaos, towards some splendid end, not yet revealed and never likely to be.

THE contrast between wilderness and civilization is most marked in the garden. The whole wilderness is a garden of a sort, but a brutal garden where the human gardener has no authority and usually is driven desperately into a pitiful competition of brutality—he can only cut down the trees and watch them grow up again behind him. In the town garden he can make himself a king, almost a god, if his imagination and back are strong enough.

ALL the towns of Canada together cover only a few square feet in the immensity of this land, all their lights at night make only a frail wink in the darkness of half a continent, attracting the excited flutter of the human moths. But within this minute space which man has somehow possessed and carved into desired shape he can control even the vegetables which defy him outside these narrow boundaries. Within his garden he is boss, as he can never be in the wilderness or in his house, where the other sex has established an unchallengable dynasty.

THEREFORE, a man who has for long been dwarfed in the wilds by growths much larger than he, and more powerful, grows large, feels himself a veritable giant when he is among the flowers planted by his own hands, the fruits he can pick and the friendly vegetables he can store away for the winter. The frontiers of his sovereignty may be compressed but therein his writ runs as surely as the Queen's.

One can live comfortably in the wilderness only on its own terms and they are inflexible and harsh. One can even be reconciled to the town, in the fading autumn, on its terms, which are easy. The town demands merely that its inmates accept humanity and certain general myths. With a little effort, I think even I can manage it.

FRIENDSHIP

It is characteristic of spontaneous friendship to take on trust, without inquiry and almost at first sight, the unseen doings and unspoken sentiments of our friends: the part known gives us evidence enough that the unknown parts cannot be much amiss. Nor does this imply that the unknown parts must be intelligible to us or after our own taste; on the contrary, it is almost better that they should extend into the inimitable. Friendship may then be touched at the edges with admiration and love.

SAVED FROM THE BLOW

Recently the only locality in Britain for the monkey orchid was almost totally destroyed by the plow, when—by leaving a comparatively small strip of turf—a nucleus of plants, at any rate, could have been preserved. To set against this, however, it is fair to record that, a year or two ago, I took part in an all day open air conference in Kent attended by busy government agricultural officials, for the sole purpose of deciding how much turf, with its orchids and other rare plants, could be spared from the plow and quite a respectable area was saved.

FRANCO PLEDGES BLOOD AND SAND

The West Moves to Protect Its Flank

PRIME Minister Churchill's wartime declaration in reply to criticisms of a pending agreement with Communist Russia—that he would accept aid from anyone who was opposed to Hitler, has been reinvoked with a touch of irony.

The United States' recent conclusion of a defense pact with Gen. Francisco Franco's authoritarian-style Spain serves notice that no anti-Soviet ally, whatever his antecedents, need be rejected.

In a sense, too, the agreement with Spain has another identification with the principle of history-repeating-itself. The guarantee of sea and air bases in the Iberian peninsula may well mean that at some future date there will not have to be a re-enactment of Dieppe, Omaha Beach or other preliminaries and actualities of a large-scale military landing on an enemy-held continent.

REARMAMENT

Briefly, the 10-year pact, with provision for two five-year extensions, is a money-for-jam proposition. The money involves United States financial aid to enable Franco to rehabilitate his army and navy. Before next June 30, some $141 millions in military equipment will be sent to Spain, along with $85 millions in less direct military aid. The jam comprises naval and air bases, to be developed with further U.S. aid. Additional benefits to the west derive from the mutual defense clauses, backed by Franco's forces which are estimated to include 30 divisions of troops.

The pact had been a long time in the making. For his part, Franco was determined to drive as hard a bargain as possible with the country he had very nearly been at war with as an ally of Hitler and Mussolini. A further irony is added by the fact that if Spain had entered the war, Russian occupation forces today might be sharing Spanish barracks with western troops. By being discrete rather than valorous, and remaining officially "neutral," Franco in a sense preserved his bases for exclusive western use in the existing unforeseen international situation.

On the American side, there was considerable public antipathy to formal partnership with the dictator. For more than 18 months the negotiations continued.

The new regime at Washington speed-

FRANCO

ed up the diplomatic efforts as the cold war became atomic-powered on both sides. Franco, too, although still appreciative of his bargaining position, had seen the increasing importance of NATO and the European Defense Community in western planning for security. His prospects conceivably would not improve through too long sustained a coyness or too highly set a price. Without much fanfare, or warmth in the hand-clasps, the lease was signed.

The effect on the rest of the European allies was about as expected. The climax had been so long in coming there was no surprise. One important consideration had been raised during the months of conferring: western European countries wanted to know if establishment of the Spanish beach-head meant that the United States was planning any potential Battle of Europe as a war of liberation rather than a war of defense.

In other words, would Soviet forces be permitted to over-run the continent as far as the Pyrenees with only an initial token resistance, and the conflict then become a long-term operation from the Spanish redoubt with France and its neighbors the ravished battleground?

That query had been answered in part by United States assurances that such a strategy was not planned; in part by the urgent efforts made to mobilize and strengthen the EDC bloc of nations; and in part by the billions of dollars that have been poured into western Europe in the form of loans, gifts and rehabilitation or defensive grants—presumably not with the intention of relinquishing these assets to any invader from the east.

INCREASED STRENGTH

Southern European allies, too, can only gain from the new arrangement. The Spanish bases will do much to increase western strength in the Mediterranean. The military pacts which Turkey and Greece, both NATO countries, have engineered with anti-Moscow but nontheless Communist Yugoslavia, at the eastern end, are now, paradoxically enough, bolstered by the U.S. agreement with Falangist Spain in the west.

The very strangeness of these bedfellows emphasizes an important trend—the cold war is becoming less of an ideological struggle than of a world-wide alignment against Russian expansion. British insistence on keeping a door open to Red China is another aspect of this development. The Comintern-turned-Cominform becomes more obviously recognizable as what it has always essentially been — an agency for the 20th-century style imperialism of the U.S.S.R.

Spain's 30 million people are now an active part of that alignment and could, at some future date, become a key factor.—B. A. T.

Cohoes Run a Gauntlet of Rocks and Falls To Win a Resting Place Near Tidewater

By DR. G. CLIFFORD CARL Director, Provincial Museum

SOON after leaving the deep pool where they had spent the day, some of the migrating cohoes entered a shallow stretch of the river where the speed of the water began to increase. Here they became scattered, individual fish allowing themselves to be carried separately into channels of water running swiftly between rocks and boulders braced against the flood.

Dr. Carl

By chance Kisutch entered a passageway near midstream; buffeted from side to side by the twisting currents flung off deflecting rock faces, he headed into the rushing water but was carried backward by the full force of the river. The sharp sound of moving rocks and the swishing noise of swift water vibrating against obstacles became drowned out by an overpowering roar coming from downstream.

Swimming vigorously but ineffectually, he was swept over the lip of the falls and plunged into the pool below. Tossed and rolled by the churning water and subjected to paralyzing waves of pressure and sound, he was completely helpless in a thundering mass of bubbles until the downstream flow dragged him clear of the falls.

Belly up, he rose slowly to the surface and was swept into a backeddy, where he floated among flecks of foam circling slowly just beyond the main rush of water.

With gill covers contracting spasmodically, the exhausted fish lay at the surface until consciousness returned. Then, righting himself with an effort, he sought a resting-place in deeper water beneath an overhanging rock ledge.

A few other survivors were also here, idling in the backeddy while they recovered from the effects of the plunge. In the pale light seeping through the ruffled surface, the bruised flank of one fish showed where scales had been scraped off by a projecting rock surface against which the smolt had been flung by the falling water.

The damaged skin pockets would produce no more scales; a scar would provide throughout life a permanent record of the rough passage.

In time the young salmon ventured out into the current again and began to drop downstream. In the darkness of the canyon they depended entirely upon the lateral line sense organs to guide them safely through the rocky channels of the flooding river. By the time dawn stopped their migration they were in the lower reaches not far above tide water.

ONE WOMAN'S DAY

Something To Be Thankful For

ANOTHER year has slipped by and here we are again at Thanksgiving. And while the story of the origin and moral implication of this particular season has been worn slightly threadbare, it still holds a lesson which should not in any way be weakened by a cynical approach such as Ogden Nash employs in his poem on the subject:

Nancy

"This is the sum total of Thanksgiving lore:
Not to be thankful until you're tired of what you're being thankful for."

There are so many obvious reasons all around us for thanksgiving that it would be hard to know where to begin the tally. The beauty of our Island environment, the temperance of our climate, with no typhoons, no excessive heat spells nor zero visitations, no electrical storms, no skunks nor rattlesnakes to plague us.

And in these days when the radio and television are bringing the outside world so much closer to our hearths, the many blessings we Canadians enjoy are being brought home to us daily. We still have freedom of speech, freedom to worship as we will, freedom from fear and freedom from want—as want is understood by the millions who are subsisting almost at the starvation level.

IN THE ECONOMIC SPHERE

While it is true that strikes, and threats of strikes, cast a slight shadow over this Thanksgiving season, that still doesn't alter the fact that, at the economic level, too, Canadians have much to be thankful for. From the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, I gathered that in June, 1953, the average Canadian worker in manufacturing industry required only 15.5 per cent of a working hour to buy a quart of milk, compared with 26 per cent in 1939; 6.4 quarts of milk can now be purchased for each hour's earnings, as compared with only 3.85 quarts in 1939.

I purposely put that in to offset some of the unfair propaganda that has been evoked by the local milk situation, because people are prone to forget that, in this era of rising prices, milk is one of the commodities that has risen less than anything. But there is far more outcry over an extra cent on a quart of milk than when the price of liquor, beer, movies, or anything else goes up.

COMPARED TO REDS

Because there are still some so-called Canadians who look yearningly towards Russia and its satellites as Utopia—or at least pay lip-service to it as such—I found a comparison recently quoted by the U.S. secretary of state singularly seasonable. Mr. Dulles was addressing the American Federation of Labor. He said:

"For a worker to buy a pound of butter in New York, it takes 27 minutes of work; for a similar worker in Moscow it takes over six hours of work. For a pound of sugar, 3½ minutes in New York; 84 minutes in Moscow. For a quart of milk, seven minutes in New York; 42 minutes in Moscow. For a dozen eggs, 25 minutes in New York; nearly three hours in Moscow. For a cotton shirt, nearly one hour in New York; 22 hours in Moscow. For a man's suit, three days in New York; 47 days in Moscow. For overshoes, one day in New York; 13 days in Moscow. For a woman's wool suit, 22 hours in New York; 22 days in Moscow."

While the discrepancy between New York wages and Moscow's may be a little higher than that between British Columbia rates and Russia's, the fact remains that our standard of living is still so high above the Soviet's as to make that, for us, a matter for deep thanksgiving. And by specifically enumerating the things we ought to be thankful for, there is a chance that our Thanksgiving may develop into a genuine attitude of mind rather than a mere holiday celebration.

YOUR HEALTH

By DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ

Great Help for Crippled

Dr. Alvarez is Emeritus Consultant in Medicine, Mayo Clinic, and Emeritus Professor of Medicine, Mayo Foundation.

Every patient who is crippled in any way, and every physician who has to deal with crippled or injured persons will be thrilled with the new book just published by Drs. Howard Rusk and Eugene Taylor of New York City (Blakiston $4.00).

It has more than 250 illustrations showing all sorts of ways in which people who are crippled by arthritis or some paralysis or the loss of a limb or part of a limb, or who have to live in a wheel chair, can help themselves. Many with the help of the appartus shown in this book will be able again to take care of themselves.

Dr. Alvarez

Let us say that a person has so badly crippled a hand that he can't hold a pencil or a fork or a spoon. Here in this book one finds all sorts of ways in which these utensils can be fastened to the hand or to a finger. For instance, a pen can be fastened to the end of a sort of thimble and this can be stuck on the one good usable finger a person may have. Or suppose a person cannot reach for the telephone. Here one learns of several ways in which the telephone can be fixed so that the person can use it without reaching for it.

Let us suppose that a man or woman cannot bend at the waist. The book describes apparatus that can be used in putting on stockings and shoes or in picking things up from the floor. For a person who has to lie in bed there are special prisms which can be put on the glasses so that the person can read comfortably. Some persons lying in bed with arthritis cannot turn over the pages of a book on the stand that goes over the bed. In this book it tells of apparatus with which the pages can be turned. There are all sorts of tongs and sticks and hooks with which crippled persons can pick things up. With a certain type of tongs a man sitting in a wheel chair can reach up in his closet and take his coat down off the rack. There are many ways in which a car can be fixed up so that a crippled person can drive it.

There are more than 200 ideas like this which will enable many a crippled person to keep at work, and even to earn his living. Dr. Rusk and Dr. Taylor and their colleagues have reached out to all part of the world for ideas and inventions that can be helpful. Doubtless there are inventive doctors and patients who, on now seeing this book, will send in more ideas for bits of apparatus that can be made and used by the crippled.

One wonders why someone in the long past did not have the genius to envisage this book and to do the work that lies back of it. The information has been so much needed by millions of persons.

To Dr. Howard Rusk and his co-workers will go the heartfelt thanks of millions of handicapped people everywhere. The doctors now show how many of the crippled can get back into the game, how they can take care of themselves, how they can be useful again, and how sometimes they can care for a home or go out and earn a living.

PLASTICS CAN CAUSE CANCER

Occasionally one reads that surgeons have proposed to repair some defect in the body with the help of a plastic. Now comes Dr. B. S. Oppenheimer of Columbia University, New York City, to say that in rats and mice, the insertion into the tissues of certain plastics will later cause cancer in 45 per cent of the animals used.

What this means is that surgeons will now be very reluctant to put plastics into men and women until, with the help of further animal experimentations they will have found which plastics can safely be used and which must never be used.

NEW DRUG FOR MOTION SICKNESS

All those many unfortunate persons who suffer terribly from motion sickness in cars, planes and ships will prick up their ears when they hear that Dr. Leonard Cook and John J. Turner of Smith Kline and French have found a new drug that relieved motion sickness in 53 of 67 patients. Unfortunately, like some other drugs used for nausea, this one can cause some sleepiness, dizzines, drying of the mouth and a few other symptoms.

Persons should wait now until the drug has been tried further and accepted as useful and safe.

Elimination of multi-member ridings in the B.C. Legislature would mean Victoria would be divided into three polling districts, with each electing one member. Would you be in favor of this?

Paul Connors, maintenance superintendent, Evans, Coleman & Johnson Bros. Ltd., 2862 Rockwell Avenue: "I think it's a poor idea. Ever been to Chicago? They have wards there—and the wards have wars. I think the present set-up works all right. Of course, there are still a lot of people who don't know how to mark a ballot correctly and consequently their votes are wasted."

Paul Connor, salesman, McQuade Ship Chandlers, 1662 Glanford Avenue: "Personally, I think if the population of the city justifies it, I think it would be a very sound scheme. I think it would simplify matters. I think there would be closer contact between elected representatives and the people if this plan were carried out."

G. Margison, partner Margison Bros.' Printing, 915 Arundel—"I think it would give a little better representation. I think the people would get to know the representative better if he was elected from their district of the city. It would eliminate the long list of names on the ballots we have now. Some people find a long list confusing. The simpler it is, the better."

G. Garlick, packer, Dowell's Storage, 226 Simcoe Street — "I think myself the way it is now is as good as any other way of doing it. I do favor a review of the present representation system, though, because I feel some cities are allowed more members than others which actually have a larger population."

James Dovey, seaman, 2321 Quadra Street — I think the present set-up is all right. It gives you more choice. The expense of setting up three separate polling divisions might be considerable. That would be an argument against it, I would say."

ISLAND DIGEST

COURTENAY — Fisheries records show that on days when herring seining is in progress at Bates Beach and Kitty Coleman Beach, salmon catches fall off noticeably, J. E. Underhill told the Chamber of Commerce here.

The chamber complained that the effect of seining on the salmon was detrimental to the local tourist industry. Mr. Underhill said interests of the herring fleet must be kept in mind, and a solution found to suit both resort operators and herring fishermen.

Harvesting Almost Finished

OTTAWA (CP) — The Prairies have cut 95 per cent and threshed 84 per cent of their 564,000,000-bushel wheat crop.

The Bureau of Statistics reported Friday that with the exception of flaxseed, an estimated 90 per cent or more of this year's Prairie grain crops had been cut by October 8.

It said harvesting conditions are good to excellent and that with relatively few exceptions the western grain harvest should be completed within the next few days.

New Yorker Is Haled Into Regina Court

REGINA (CP) — A district court order directing a New York business man to appear for examination of discovery in connection with a law suit was granted Friday by Judge B. D. Hogarth.

Thomas Keyes of Maple Creek, Sask., is suing Edward Roos for breach of contract in an agreement covering acreage near Saskatchewan's Fosterton oil field.

E. L. Elliot, counsel for Roos, said Roos should be examined by an independent doctor to make sure he is not too ill for examination. Judge Hogarth said the history of the case indicated Roos is trying to get out of appearing in a Canadian court.

Whooping Cranes Seen

REGINA (CP) — Eight whooping cranes, the largest birds in North America and rapidly approaching extinction, have been reported sighted along the Slave River in the Northwest Territories.

The whoopers, standing more than four feet high and with a wingspread of seven feet, are believed to number less than 30. All attempts to find their nesting grounds in Canada have proved unsuccessful.

Petition Designed To Block Zoning For Heavy Industry

A second petition from residents of Victoria West, urging City Council to keep property on Seaforth Street zoned for single-family residence, has been received at City Hall.

The petition, signed by Mrs. G. M. Waddington and 56 others, is opposed to the application of P. J. Sinnott, who recently asked council to zone property on West Bay for heavy industry.

The first petition from residents objecting to a zoning change was signed by 500 persons.

Two-Way Contests Likely In Saskatchewan Votes

REGINA (CP)—With nomination day just three days off, only four candidates are in the field for the two Saskatchewan by-elections Oct. 28.

A by-election in Rosthern constituency will be contested by Samuel Carr, Liberal, and John Thiessen, CCF. The seat became vacant when Walter Tucker, provincial Liberal leader, resigned to contest Rosthern riding in the federal election.

The death of J. E. McCormack, Liberal, last spring in a Regina automobile accident made necessary a by-election in Souris-Estevan riding. The seat will be contested by Robert Kohaly who has received the nomination of both the Progressive Conservative and Liberal parties, and by Walter Schieman, CCF.

Social Credit and Labor-Progressive parties have not named candidates for either riding.

GRUBER CONDUCTS

Directing Music From Memory Offers Temptation to Fakers

So many people have asked me about this business of conducting from memory that I thought it time to say a few things about it. No doubt theirs was a round-about way of asking why I, for instance, conduct less frequently from memory than I used to, and especially why I should use music now for works which I had at least once previously conducted without the aid of score.

This is not at all an easy thing for me to discuss.

Gruber

There are quite a number of points involved, and, worse still, some contradictory points. The vogue of conducting by heart was begun by Arturo Toscanini some 60 years ago.

"Vogue" is perhaps not quite the word in Toscanini's case, since he was forced to it by his life-long acute optical weakness, which has always prevented him from making out a printed page except when placed almost directly in front of his nose.

Apart from that, Toscanini has been a living legend for nearly those 60 years, and many other conductors were soon misled into believing that conducting from memory would automatically make them the equal of Toscanini.

At the risk of destroying certain pet myths, upon which, to speak bluntly, some conductors have, inadequately enough, based their careers, let us state categorically once and for all that the gift of easy memorization has virtually no bearing upon the excellence of a conductor or otherwise.

I know people who are veritable walking telephone directories, people who never forget a telephone number once they have used it. Yet these same people may be totally tone deaf. It cannot be argued that the person who had to look up the desired number in the directory has completed his call no less successfully than someone who relied on his memory—perhaps with the added advantage that the risk of a mistake was lessened.

There are today a number of conductors who almost never conduct with score, and a few who never do—not even at rehearsals. I am personally acquainted with many of these. And the fact emerges, that amongst all of them, there are perhaps half a dozen or so who may legitimately do away with the score.

Destroying Myths

These few know their scores to the point of being able to write them out from memory. The others do not. They may know all or most of the cues. But, for a conductor, there can be no degrees of familiarity with the scores.

There can be no such thing as knowing them well, or very well, or fairly well.

Once he is to conduct it in public from memory, he either knows it or he does not. And he does not know it, and has no right to pretend that he does, if he is uncertain even of which note the second flute plays in a given bar in the second movement. He does know it, and may conduct without score, only if he were able to sit down and write out the score note—and letter perfectly.

Otherwise he is faking, and becomes an imposter, to the point of criminality, sometimes, in the sole and laughably unimportant interest of self-advancement.

In the early and formative stages of their careers, most conductors have made it a point of honor not to use scores during actual performances. I am bound to make that confession in my own case. And we have all been guilty of the crime of faking, to a greater or lesser degree; but we may, perhaps, claim leniency on the grounds of ignorance.

We just did not know any better.

Our cues may have been correct and even complete, but we should have been very hard pressed, indeed, sometimes, had we been called upon to prove our right to conducting from memory by writing out the scores.

Our standards alter and, we hope, rise, as we gain experience. We learn, to our shock, sooner or later, that there is more that stands between us and Toscanini than a facile memory.

Fascinating Study

Music, and conducting, are certainly one of the most fascinating fields of study. But also one of the most frustrating ones.

It becomes clear that one lifetime is not enough to learn all there is to know about conducting. All we may be able to find out is how much there is to learn, and, so, the more we learn, the less we actually know, relatively. What is it that the great and wise Socrates finally said, when, at the age of 70, he was forced to drink the poisoned potion?—"I know that I don't know."

For myself, I hope, even though scores will be more frequently in evidence, that I shall not become a conductor "whose head is in the score, rather than the score in the head."

But we have also come to terms with ourselves, and found out that even a complete knowledge of all the cues is insufficient excuse for doing away with the score, and accepting the credit resulting therefrom. We have an equal three-fold responsibility, and it cannot be lightly borne; to the composer, to the audience, to the orchestra.

Victoria Poet In Anthology

Victoria Daily Times music and drama critic, Audrey St. Denys Johnson, has received a request from the University of Alberta, for permission to use a short poem of hers in an anthology being prepared by the university for use in Canadian schools. The poem, titled "Passing Show," was originally published in the first issue of the Canadian Poetry Magazine.

'Drive Slowly' Will Enchant Dog Owners

DRIVE SLOWLY — SIX DOGS, by Ilse Bischoff; 165 pps; MacMillan Company of Canada; $4.50.
(Reviewed by HELEN DAHL)

Once again, the fine artistry of Ilse Bischoff colors and clarifies the main theme of this, her latest book.

It is a delightful, verbal series portraying boldly and truthfully the loveable, yet frequently, maddening personalities of the four-legged characters, who dominated the stage of Miss Bischoff's household.

ENCHANTING EFFECT

As down to earth as the sleek bellies of the miniature dachshunds, Pumpi and Rosie; as sophisticated as the fashionable haircuts worn by the poodles, Coco, Jeppy, Pitty-pat, and Monkey, it has an appeal that will enchant the most jaded reader.

Beginning with the portraiture of the first dog, Pumpi, on a background of the gay, international life of Berlin, during the 1936 Olympic games, it continues its sketches of the tiny, courageous Pumpi against the skyline of New York.

The subdued, sombre tones of Munich, with many squadrons flying over it—to the east, introduces Rosie, whose whelping is happily delayed until she reaches the safety to New York.

HILARIOUS COMPLICATIONS

A penthouse in that fabulous city is the setting for the arrival of the brilliant Coco, and her capricious brood. Immediately the action is livelier, the plot more hilariously complicated, with the appearance of this unpredictable quartette.

At the Vermont country place, these six irresistible creatures emerge, each with his or her separate and beguiling personality impressed on the mind of the reader.

MEMORIES FOR DOG OWNERS

All dog owners will recapture those unforgettable moments with Miss Bischoff who, as a novice, experiences proud ownership; deep anxiety when the whelping day arrives—or when illness strikes; horrified bewilderment when jealousy transforms amiable pets into snarling, fighting beasts; and the joy of finding a lost, and terrified four-legged friend.

Many readers will be most intrigued, at the unconscious revelation by Miss Bischoff, of her own personality. It will be this unwitting, but frank portrayal of herself, that will form the most vivid and lasting impression.

BOOK TALK

By JAMES SCOTT

About now, methinks, is an appropriate time to say a good word or two on behalf of the Maritimes. Too often shouldered aside by brash fellow provinces whose arrogance is based on commodities like oil and uranium—much less durable than culture in the long haul—the maritimer has almost allowed himself to be convinced that he is a has-been, the chap who made the greatest sacrifices to make Confederation possible, the lad the rest of the big booming Canada is forgetting.

It isn't really quite that bad, friends. Down on the Atlantic seaboard there are still a few quiet, unobtrusive gentlemen who, for consistency, high overall average in performance and for loyalty to their native heath are doing the best writing job of its kind in the country.

I am thinking especially about three maritimers who have new books published this fall: Will R. Bird, Thomas Raddall and David Walker.

Cradle of Literature

Curiously enough, none of these writers can call the maritimes the land of his birth, but all of them, even the most recent arrival among them—David Walker—have fitted readily into the local scene. Bird and Raddall are from England but have been around Nova Scotia for a long time. Walker is from Scotland.

They have all found the same thing: That the transition from the Old Land to the new is not difficult if you choose the maritimes. They have found out something else too. The maritimes, the cradle of Canadian literature, is still a very good place for a writer to live.

If there is any doubt about it, their record of performance will prove that there is something in the theory that the salt-tanged air blowing off the broad Atlantic keeps an author busy at his typewriter.

Since Tom Raddall's first success, "His Majesty's Yankees," in 1942, he has turned out a steady book every two years right up to this season when "Tidefall" hit the stands the other day.

Since coming to Canada in 1947, David Walker has written and published three books: "Geordie," "The Pillar" and now "Digby," which has already been mentioned in this space. Will Bird averages out to about a book every three years, but then he, unlike the other two, has a full-time job beside his writing. His latest is "To Love and To Cherish."

And if you wanted to push this a little farther you could talk about Hugh MacLennan, who is a native of Cape Breton, and Desmond Pacey at the University of New Brunswick, who is one of the few people ever to write a critical volume about Canadian literature, or poet Alfred Bailey of Fredericton, or a whole lot of others.

But these three steady producers are the only ones who interest me. In the whole of this country I can count on my two hands the writers whose output in terms of published books is as prolific and regular as that of these three men.

Ideal Environment

I can't believe that it is an accident that a third of our most reliable writers live in the Maritimes. In fact, I go right out—all the way—for the old-fashioned theory that environment has a profound effect on the creative imagination.

There is no place else in Canada where the literary tradition is as venerable, where a writer is treated with more respect, than in the Maritimes.

This, I'm certain, accounts in part for the sound, steady output which comes from that part of Canada.

We may all be switching from Glace Bay coal to Alberta oil; the Okanagan may be nudging Annapolis off the apple market; the vast forests of Northern Ontario and Quebec may make the woods of New Brunswick look pretty puny, but as far as this eye can see, writers are more firmly entrenched in the Maritimes than any other part of the country.

From a literary point of view, it's a lucky thing for the rest of us that Joseph Howe changed his mind.

News From Book Row

John Morgan Gray, a Canadian publisher (president of Macmillans) who actually wrote a book once, "The One-Eyed Trapper," reports that it has been chosen to be presented over the CBC as a serial in 13 episodes. Begins October 19 over the Trans-Canada network.

Another publisher, Dr. Lorne Pierce of the Ryerson Press, has just received a Coronation medal. This is indeed an award of merit for no other man in the entire history of Canadian publishing has done more to encourage native writers.

Some sort of permanent record of the first successful year of the Stratford Shakesperean festival experiment will be produced before Christmas. Called "Renown at Stratford" it will contain an explanation of what he was trying to do by director Tyrone Guthrie, a critical essay by Robertson Davies and 24 color portraits of festival personalities by Grant Macdonald.

To those who are inquiring about publication date of Emily Carr's little book about her stay in a British sanitarium, it will be about some time late in November.

B.C.'s Wood Tick Swells and Swells

By C. P. LYONS

Few "bugs" are more burdened with popular misconceptions than our common woodtick. Any number of persons will tell you that ticks sit in trees like hungry cougar waiting for a passing deer and then spring out on their prey. I remember seeing a supposedly normal adult trying to drop a lighted match on a poor little tick that he found crawling on the floor. He believed if he tried to pick it up or step on it that it would burrow into him in a twinkling. Once under the skin they are credited with traveling to the spinal cord or brain and causing a state of complete paralysis. You are told that if even the tiny head is left in the skin it will continue to tunnel on, in no way dismayed by the lack of a body, body.

Lyons

WOOD TICK . . . actual size.

An even greater wealth of folklore has built up about how to get a woodtick to release his hold. There is the hot needle method of doing a slow fry on the insect's abdomen until he backs out, of slowly pickling him with coal oil or turpentine, of putting a hot bottle over the tick and pulling him out by suction. Any of these methods might work — often they fail. One wise old-timer says a sure way is to twist them 9¼ turns to the right and then 13½ turns to the left. This very delicately and quite precisely dislocates their neck without fear of the head breaking off.

In nine cases out of ten the victim generally ends up by pulling the body off and successfully treating the head like an embedded thorn or sliver.

Factually, the woodtick is an amazing insect. It can increase its weight several hundred times through feeding. From a thin scab-like form less than one-quarter inch long it swells like a balloon until the size of a thumbnail. Feeding on blood is made possible through a barbed tube that pierces the skin and effectively serves as an anchor.

After feeding, the female tick drops off the host to the ground and lays several thousand eggs. Young ticks climb on low underbrush and wait for something to brush by. Large game animals are common prey. Up to 10,000 ticks have been counted on one animal!

ART in REVIEW

By COLIN GRAHAM

Now that the Arts Centre's annual jury exhibition of Island paintings is with us again, this year for the fourth time, a good many people are probably wondering just how a jury goes about the touchy business of choosing and rejecting.

To those whose taste differs radically from that of the jury, it must often seem that the procedure runs somewhat as follows.

The jury strolls in, casually and jokingly examining the oils and watercolors cringing before them. After going into peals of laughter over those works (probably the majority) that seem to them too ridiculous to be taken seriously, they proceed to spin the paintings on their corners, having decided to accept those that fall face up.

Others possibly imagine an over-serious, long-haired jury fiercely and scornfully rejecting every work that does not conform to a certain narrow, and doubtless radical, set of standards that stem equally from intellectual snobism and personal maladjustment.

HARASSED BY CONSCIENCE

My own experience with juries, while admittedly a limited one, has led me to form quite a different picture of the composite juror. He seems usually, for example, to be harassed by an over-exacting conscience, like the distinguished gentleman in a recent case who, at the end of a very long two days screening 400 paintings no less than three times, suggested to his numbed co-jurors that they should go through the 300 rejected entries yet again to make doubly sure that no injustice had been done.

The more general practice is to have a preliminary screening of all the entries in which those that are obviously acceptable and obviously rejectable are set aside into two groups, while those that are doubtful and very doubtful are separated into two further groups. These latter are then carefully screened again and definitely accepted or rejected. The whole show is then given a final scrutiny as a check on the earlier reactions.

By what mental processes does a juror today arrive at his decisions? This is of course an extraordinarily complicated subject, but I should like to try to deal with it next week.

ST. VINCENT de PAUL
Q. What is the St. Vincent de Paul Society?
A. It is a voluntary charitable society, composed mostly of laymen, whose purpose is to alleviate human suffering.
Q. Does the Society make any dinstinction as to creed?
A. No. This is a predominantly non-Catholic area and a very great number of people helped are non-Catholic.
Q. How do people apply for help?
A. People in need usually apply either to the Bishop's House at 740 View Street or the Society's store at 728 Johnson Street.
Q. Will the Society make a regular allowance to people unemployed?
A. No. Our funds do not permit this. We occasionally pay rent and we buy groceries, fuel and clothing. We find shelter for transients, homes for unmarried mothers and help educate orphans and children from broken homes.
Q. Where does the Society get its funds?
A. Partly from Community Chest donations and partly from the profits of the store, located at 728 Johnson Street.
Q. Are you affiliated with or do you form part of any similar organization in any other city?
A. No. The local Society is completely independent. Similarity to any other society exists in name only.
Q. Who do you help?
A. All those in need, the sick, working people, the old, the depraved, the unfortunate.

Poet Produces Crime Thrillers

"The Dreadful Hollow," by Nicholas Blake, Collins, Toronto, 254 pages, $2.50.

Versatile "Nicholas Blake" has added another to his list of detective fiction novels with "The Dreadful Hollow," a hair-raising thriller with all the elements that appeal to lovers of crime mystery stories.

The scene is Dorset, England, but to tell any more than that there is a baffling murder and a dramatic denoument would be to spoil it for readers.

"Nicholas Blake" incidentally is the pseudonym of C. Day, well known as an author in other fields. It seems strange that a poet and critic of the highest standing who in 1951 was appointed professor of poetry at Oxford should also be a writer of crime thrillers.

Apparently he is a writer with the enviable talent of turning his talent in a variety of directions and stand high on the list in any of them.

TWO for the SHOW

By PHIL LEE

AA (Oscar Class) A (Don't Miss) BB (Worthwhile) (B For Rainy Days) C (To put in time)

(BB PLUS) "THUNDER BAY" (Odeon)—Technical detail concerning oil drilling in off-shore waters makes this Universal-International action drama, "Thunder Bay," more than ordinarily interesting.

Filmed in the Gulf of Mexico off the coast of Morgan City, Louisiana, "Thunder Bay" finds its spectacular Technicolored conflict arising from (1) the usual source, love; (2) the elements; (3) the clash of oil men and simple fisher folk; and (4) the gamble of finding oil below the surface of the sea.

The plot, in brief:

Steve Martin (James Stewart) and Johnny Gambi (Dan Duryea) persuade oil tycoon Kermit MacDonald (Jay C. Flippen) to back them in a Port Felicity, La., off-shore drilling venture.

However, local shrimp fishermen headed by Antonio Morena, Gilbert Roland and Robert Monet resent their intrusion and when Stewart and Duryea commence wooing Antonio's two lovely daughters, Joanne Dru and Marcia Henderson, the battles begin. In spite of all, however, Stewart continues his grim, single-minded, efficient search for oil.

The direction by Anthony Mann is excellent as is the photography of Williams, Daniels and staff. James Stewart is his usual low-keyed self, while Joanne Dru is refreshingly beautiful although entirely unbelievable as the daughter of such humble people.

NOTED IN PASSING—On Thursday I dropped in on Bert Nixon at the Fox Theatre to see how he was coming along with his new screen plus the short focus, wide angle lens. For the record, Bert ran off bits of "Wait Till the Sun Shines, Nellie," first on the usual screen and then on the wide (24 feet by 12.5 feet) screen. It makes a remarkable difference. Bert plans on running all his shows now on the wide-angle basis. He expects to get in his CinemaScope equipment and stereophonic sound some time this month. An enterprising man, Bert Nixon.

Dropped in on the Oak Bay Theatre last Wednesday to take another peek at the J. Arthur Rank Coronation opus, "A Queen Is Crowned." If it doesn't win some kind of an Oscar next spring we'll never believe in the awards again.

Harlequin Brings Good Reading to Slimmest Purses

A DOCTOR IN BUCKSKIN by T. D. Allen; Harlequin Books Ltd., Toronto; 284 pps.

Publishers of Harlequin books, who by careful selection of titles have gone a long way towards eliminating the criticism which was leveled at paper-covered books, have added "A Doctor in Buckskin" by T. D. Allen, to their list.

Of particular interest to people on this coast it is a story of the Oregon trail, wagon trains, battles with Indians, a gripping story of pioneer days.

This is another of the books published by Harlequin which emphasizes the fact that in these days of soaring prices the cost of reading paradoxically has reached an all time low.

By careful browsing among the drug store book stands one finds best sellers of recent years and even the old masterpieces, which come under the head of "recommended reading" available at a tenth of the original price for those whose purses are too slim to enable them to purchase them in the original hard cover form.

Nominates Gandhi For Deification

Dr. John Haynes Holmes, a liberal American clergyman, has written an appreciation of his friend, the late Mohandas K. Gandhi in "My Gandhi" (Harper).

Ten years before he met Gandhi, the author was hailing the Indian leader as "the greatest man in the world." That was in 1921 when Gandhi was still little known as a world figure.

Holmes, in his book, frankly nominates the "Mahatma" for deification. He compares his influence with that of Jesus, Gautama, and the saints.

The book is dedicated to Indian Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru, whom it calls the "greatest and noblest of modern statesmen."

IT'S MY VIEW

By BILL WALKER, Sports Editor

The Western Hockey League season has yet to complete its first week of action, but already the Cougars have been singled out for special attention.

Their culinary diet on road trips to the mainland doesn't meet with the approval of coach Billy Reay.

In short, the members of the Cougar family who, in the tradition of all athletes, rely on steak as their means of sustenance leading to greater athletic endeavor, are eating "too good for their own good."

Walker

This may come as a bit of a shock to some, especially the Cougars (certainly not to the CPR), but Reay feels that the steaks being served the Cougars are "too big."

In defense, general manager Fred Hutchinson countered Reay's appraisal of the western knife and fork league with:

"They're not always that big. Why, last year at times they were only this big." (He demonstrated.)

"Certainly the steaks are nice," admitted Billy, speaking of the first day's repast. "But I'll bet if you check back you'll see that when they were only this big (he demonstrated a la Hutchinson) your road record was better!

"And that mushroom sauce! That's out," Reay added.

The Cougar records are fairly complete, but Hutch was stumped by Reay's request for a check of eating habits in comparison to results.

"Not last year," he answered quietly, the sombre tone being in deference to things best forgotten.

But Reay was adamant. The Cougars are being fed too well, in his opinion. And though it probably won't come down to a honey and orange juice diet (which it has been said will suffice equally as well and probably with better results) the gastronomic requirements of the Cougars as dictated by Reay will be lowered in keeping with performance.

Reay didn't say what might eventually happen to the steaks if the road results didn't prove his theory, but it could evolve that Reay is from the old school, which attests that there's no athlete like a hungry athlete. Perhaps that's why Colin Kilburn ordered eggs the last trip. He did get the only Cougar goal.

Pre-occupation with other matters, such as the faint battering against the wall engaged in by the Brooklyn Dodgers last week, has diverted our attention from a matter of prime importance.

This is unforgiveable, really, because one of the city's athletes is concerned.

We refer to the case of Ken Griffin of the Adanacs soccer team, who is waging a battle with polio at the present time. To bring you up to date, neighbors, Ken has been in hospital for some weeks now while his wife and two young children carry the household burden alone. He is improved, our informant states, to the extent that now he only spends one and one-half hours out of every three in an iron lung. Medical authorities, naturally, are doing all in their power to see that Ken will once more crash a shot on goal.

Ken has given much that football fans may enjoy their sport the more. Certainly it is not asking the same amount that he be aided in return. The benefit soccer match Monday in his aid could make it a real Thanksgiving day for the Griffin family. Is there a better cause—giving thanks in this manner by those able to attend the game that they have been spared the suffering of the Griffin household.

The rumor mill has it that the Cougars are interested in New Westminster's Ollie Dorohoy, currently under suspension by the Royals because of salary differences . . . that John Pickburn of Victoria United, who hasn't seen action yet this year, is angling for a mainland soccer berth . . . that Doug Anderson may return to the Cougars after he spends a month with Buffalo of the AHL.

Three Against One

Andy Hebenton of the Cougars goes digging in vain for the puck in Friday night's Western Hockey League opener at Memorial Arena. This possible scoring play was thwarted by goalkeeper Lucien Dechene and defenseman Ron Matthews (on ice) of New Westminster. And just to make certain that Hebenton doesn't upset the Royals' strategy, Bob Bergeron lends his presence to the situation. Cougars lost, 4-3. (Times Photo by Strickland.)

Cougars Drop Home Opener; Reay Forced to Improvise

By BILL WALKER

New Westminster 4, Victoria 3

If anything is certain as a result of the Cougars' home Western Hockey League debut at Memorial Arena Friday night, it's that coach Billy Reay has settled on one of his three forward units.

This was evident to Reay and the 4,981 customers (26 more than last year) as the Cougars suffered their second straight setback of the infant season, losing to New Westminster Royals, 4-3.

The new trio will be composed of Colin Kilburn, Ed Dorohoy and Andy Hebenton.

Faced with the sight that nothing was going right through the first period and part of the second, Reay pulled the switch that, for the present, should provide one dangerous threesome. After that, he's not so sure, and admits it.

Trailing 1-0 as a result of Bobby Love's first period goal, which came on a two-man rush with ex-Cougar Jim Fairburn providing the payoff pass to Love, the Cougars struck back at 5.55 of the second frame.

Determination Led to First Goal

And it was this newly-formed combination which turned the trick.

Kilburn successfully battled for a loose puck near the Westminster goal, Dorohoy getting the pass from behind the net to Hebenton who backhanded a flip shot by Lucien Dechene, who only seconds earlier had returned to his net after challenging Kilburn for the rubber.

Joy was short lived, however, for at 9.50 Ross Lowe drew a penalty. And it was while he was in pennance that an errent Cougar pass deflected off Gordie Fashoway's stick to Max McNab. In the clear, McNab beat Ralph Almas with a low shot.

The penalty having expired, the Dorohoy-Kilburn-Hebenton unit returned and again paid off. Kilburn beat Bob Bergeron to the puck in the corner, fired a quick shot at Dechene and Dorohoy converted the rebound from point-blank range to tie the score.

Again it was a penalty which aided the Royals to gain their third lead of the game. With Ernie Roche off for tripping the Royals patterned a passing play from Ron Matthews to Fashoway, McNab blasting the rebound of Fashoway's shot into the virtually unguarded net.

Almas, a lonely figure at times, had little chance on the Royals' fourth goal at 19.06, which came on a clean break from his own blue line by Pierre Brilliant, who last year played alongside the fabulous Jean Believeau.

Behind 4-2 entering the third period, the Cougars still found their duties troublesome until successive penalties to Pete Durham and Jim Bedard opened up a new avenue of hope and one the Royals twice had used previously to advantage.

Lowe's Support Appreciated

Flashing their most sustained attack of the night, the Cougars gave Dechene a busy time and were finally rewarded at 13.30 — and, that's right, the forward unit heretofore mentioned helped produce the play although the key figure was Lowe.

Given a leading pass by Hebenton, Lowe circled the New Westminster net, faked his check neatly and passed to Dorohoy who rifled a first-timer into the corner of the net.

Reg Abbott also turned in a commendable performance for the Cougars although his efforts were minimized by the eventual lack of success. Almas, too, needed not to offer excuses.

Most interesting, and which but for good fortune could have been a serious situation, occurred when Reay was sent sprawling through the open door of the Royals' player bench on a check by Durham.

Reay, ired by the lack of decency on the part of the Royals in not keeping the door locked as the rules specify, came up swinging and New Westminster Alex Shibicky, nearest the open gate, was on the receiving end.

Perhaps feeling that Reay's action may have been excusable under the circumstances, referee Lou Farelli declined to chide Reay for his deed, and even overlooked the fact that Shibicky defended himself with the first stick he could put his hands on.

And, as after the Vancouver defeat Tuesday, the signboard in the dressing room read: Practice at 9 a.m. The battle for the other two lines began this morning.

Calgary Stampeders will test the result of Reay's search at Memorial Arena Monday afternoon at 3.

Canucks Edge Stamps

By The Canadian Press

A brilliant goalie found himself the target for some heavy artillery in a losing cause Friday night in the Western Hockey League.

Calgary Stampeders' netminder Bill Brennan pushed out flying rubber with everything he had, including his chin, as Stampeders dropped a narrow 4-3 decision to Vancouver Canucks in Vancouver.

Before 4,500 fans, Brennan stopped 34 shots to 10 stopped by Vancouver's Lorne Gump Worsley, but his team still was no match for the highflying Canucks, who won their third straight game.

BRENNAN INJURED

Stampeders scored early but were in a 1-1 tie at the end of the first period, cut short when Brennan required four stitches after stopping a flying puck with his chin. Vancouver was ahead 3-2 by the end of the second period.

Don Smith, Larry Popein, Gordon Kerr and Andy Bathgate were the Vancouver scorers, and Pat Lundy, Sid Finney and Frank Ashworth scored for the losers.

Tonight, Vancouver goes to Seattle to play the Bombers; Calgary continues its coast tour at New Westminster and Saskatoon Quakers play the Flyers in Edmonton.

Mrs. F. G. Hope was consolation round winner and Mrs. E. Livingstone was flight runner-up.

In the Reiser eclectic competition, Mrs. Whyte was again victorious, winning the event with a score of 55¾. Mrs. R. L. Pocock was runner-up with 56¼ and Mrs. W. Smith won the low gross department with 66.

Mrs. F. Walton and Mrs. T. B. Gibson tied for first place in Friday's hidden hole competition, each carding a net 27 2/3.

TO WORK OUT SUNDAY

Kins Lift Lid On Hoop Plans

Victoria Kins will take their basketball togs out of mothballs this week-end and go back on the active list.

Kins, defending Vancouver Island Senior A basketball champions, held a club meeting Friday night and will hold a conditioning workout Sunday under coach Busher Jackson.

It is expected that all members of last year's club will be out with the exception of guards Bob Boyes and Doug Peden.

Boyes is working in Europe and the classy veteran Peden has announced that he will not be playing this year. However, Peden, who has said this before, has a habit of turning up every season.

Holdovers expected at the first workout are Elmer Curtis, Don Hendry, Bill Dobbie, Bill Bamford, Gerry Parker, Howie Tooby and Walt Acreman.

CLARK SILENT

Johnny Clark's plans are unknown at present. The high-scoring bucket man, around whom the team was built last year, has intimated that he will not be out until after Christmas.

Sunday's workout will be held at Stevenson Park at 10.30 and will be strictly for conditioning.

Kins open their season in Victoria Oct. 31 against the arch rival Alberni Athletics.

Jackson said this morning, "In my mind, every position on the club is wide open. I am hoping that we get a large turn-out of younger players. A lot of kids who could really blossom out in senior A are afraid of coming out for fear of not making the club and waste their talent in lower leagues. But we'll give every player who comes out a fair chance of making the team. We want youth."

Minor Hockey Registration Set Tuesday

The Greater Victoria Minor Hockey Association Tuesday takes its first major step towards organizing teams for competition in five leagues this season.

All prospective competitors, including those who were with the association last year, are urged to attend a registration session at Memorial Arena between 3.30 and 5.30 Tuesday afternoon.

At a recent meeting Bill Davidson was named as president with Laurie Perlette, vice-president; W. S. Hall, secretary; J. Locke, treasurer; J. MacPherson, registrar; A. Green, equipment supervisor, and J. Chesman, public relations officer.

Presidents of the various divisions are Mike Hepple, peewees; L. Perlette, bantams; W. Large, midgets; J. MacPherson, juveniles, and Rod Jenson, juniors.

"Minor Hockey Night", the night when all-star aggregations from the five divisions compete to raise funds to cover operating costs, has been tentatively set for February 15.

Those interested in helping to train the youthful pucksters are invited to come out and assist those who have already volunteered their services.

Brown Elected Bowling President

L. G. Brown has been elected president of the Canadian Pacific Lawn Bowling Club. G. S. Baker is vice-president, G. W. Bett, secretary; A. W. Greaves, treasurer, and J. W. D. York, auditor.

Senator Barnard, honorary president, and T. E. Chester, J. B. Speck, W. R. White and G. B. Dixon, honorary vice-presidents.

NANAIMO HERE MONDAY

Benefit Game Tops Heavy Soccer Card

Four games, three league and one exhibition, are scheduled in the Victoria Football Association over the holiday week-end.

Civil Service was scheduled to meet Esquimalt at Windsor Park today, while Canadian Scottish clashes with Victoria West at Bullen Park and Wood Motors play Heaney's at Lower Beacon Hill Park Sunday. All are league games and start at 2.30.

However, the big item of the week-end soccer menu is Monday's benefit exhibition match at 11.

Canadian Scottish, surprise league-leaders, will host a strong Nanaimo team at Athletic Park with all gate proceeds going to popular Ken Griffin, local player who has been confined to an iron lung since being stricken with polio a month and a half ago.

Two minor division teams, to be chosen from Shepherd's Dairy, Heaneys and Combines of Division Five, will meet in the preliminary at 10 with the senior game following one hour later.

Griffin's young son, Ronnie, will kick off in the senior game.

All game officials and park attendants have donated their services in order to swell the purse for the deserving player. A total of $85 has already been donated and further donations will be accepted Monday.

Cadets Plan Razzle-Dazzle Grid Attack

Royal Roads, seeking their second victory in two games, are planning to throw three different offensive formations at Oak Bay Whitneys when the two clubs meet in Monday's Thanksgiving Day "Turkey Bowl" junior Canadian football game at Heywood Avenue Park.

The light but well-conditioned cadets will have their back-field operating out of the tight T with spread and double wing formations in an effort to open up the game.

In picking up a narrow 2-0 victory over Vampires last week-end Royal Roads stuck mainly to a ground attack.

Oak Bay, which dressed only 16 players last week and finished with 14, will be bolstered for the contest. They hope to dress Larry Brownlee and Bill Mayzes, a pair of linemen who each scale 200 pounds. Neither have played yet due to illness.

Game time is 2.

Winter Cup Golf At Uplands Club

Draw for the second round of the Winter "A" Cup competition at Uplands Golf Club Tuesday follows:

11.30—Mrs. W. Smith and Mrs. J. Riddell.
11.35—Mrs. H. Carson and Mrs. F. Walton.
11.40—Mrs. E. Jackson and Mrs. R. Bramley.
11.45—Mrs. S. D. Horsford and Mrs. C. Humber.
11.50—Mrs. B. H. Anderson and Mrs. J. Dawson.
11.55—Mrs. J. Strang, Mrs. E. Livingstone and Mrs. G. Lindsay.

Lear Reported Signed By Vancouver Lions

CALGARY (CP)—Frank McCool, sports editor of the Albertan, says in his column today that former Calgary Stampeder coach Les Lear may turn up with Vancouver Lions when they make their debut in the Western Interprovincial Football Union next year.

"The usual reliable source has it that Lear already has signed as line coach for Annis Stukus' Lions," McCool says.

"There's a growing suspicion that Lear isn't following the western football scene as closely as he is just for fun of watching his favorite game. Les has been a familiar figure at games and one occasion has been noticed using the pencil and paper.

"The Vancouver club certainly has no intention of walking into the league 'cold' next year and Lear would be the logical fellow to pick up information for them.

"Lear and Stukus certainly did not share too much enthusiasm for each other when they were opposing Western Conference coaches but that's not saying they can't get along all right on the same squad."

Lear was dropped by Stampeders this year in favor of new coach Bob Snyder after guiding Calgary for five seasons. He led Stampeders to their only two Grey Cup finals, winning in 1948 and losing in 1949. Previously, Lear was an outstanding lineman for Winnipeg Blue Bombers and American professional clubs.

Leafs Face Hawk Hex In NHL Home Opener

The National Hockey League dishes up a full helping this Thanksgiving week-end, but Montreal or Detroit could wind up hungry.

They were well fed when the lid was removed Thursday, earliest opening date in league's history, but they face each other across the table tonight. The schedule favors Montreal, however, for should the Red Wings starve them out, the Canadiens could catch up again Sunday night when they help the Bruins initiate the season in Boston.

The Red Wings beat New York Rangers Thursday and the Canadiens shut out Chicago Black Hawks to move into a first-place tie in the young league standings going into the week-end.

Toronto Maple Leafs play their first game tonight, opening the season at home to the Black Hawks. The Hawks have never lost an opener in Toronto since the 1931-32 season. The Leafs have won only seven in the same period.

McINTYRE TO HERSHEY

The Bruins, who were still in their Hershey, Pa., training camp Thursday, returned home Friday without winger Jack McIntyre, one of their stars last spring in the Stanley Cup playoffs. He was turned over to Hershey Bears, the Bruins' American Hockey League farm club.

The Rangers, tail-end finishers in the NHL last season, get a chance to try for their initial victory this season when they meet the Black Hawks in Chicago Sunday night.

TO HONOR KENNEDY

Leaf captain Ted Kennedy is to receive the J. P. Bickell Memorial Cup in a pregame ceremony at Maple Leaf Gardens tonight. He earned the trophy in memory of the late Toronto mining man as the Leaf player who contributed most to the team last year.

Curteis, Schulz in Chess Final

Tommy Curteis and F. Schulz will meet in the final for the championship of the Victoria City Chess Club ladder competition next Friday night at the club's new rooms.

Curteis qualified to meet Schulz this week by defeating J. H. Lacey and drawing his match with F. W. Plant.

A special meeting of all club members will be held Friday night at 8, prior to the championship finals, to arrange tournament rules and other important matters.

Bits and Balderdash of Football Fact

Football fact and fancy, more fascinating than fiction, are to be found in every chapter of soccer's history down through the years.

Few other games can provide such a profusion of curiosities and coincidences. Perhaps the point can best be illustrated by citing a few examples that readily come to mind.

No other player has figured on a club's payroll without receiving a first-team call than did Cyril Webster. He was an Everton professional from May 4, 1929, to the start of the Second World War, and never played for his club's premier line-up.

* * *

Sunderland and England inside-forward Len Shackleton has cause to feel peculiar and believes particular significance does attach itself to the controversial number "13." There are 13 letters in his names; he played for England as a schoolboy international at the age of 13; he was transferred from Bradford to Newcastle for the sum of £13,000, and in his first game on Tyneside he helped rout Newport County (13 letters), 13 goals to nil.

* * *

To be told he had been dropped from his team's first eleven and that he was to play for the reserves, only to be notified half an hour later that he had fulfilled his life's ambition to represent his country, Scotland, against England, happened to be Newcastle's outside-left Tommy Pearson's extraordinary experience on April 2, 1947.

* * *

The only millionaire to ever play football was Jack Slater, Bolton Wanderers' fullback before First World War. He made his fortune in later years in the cotton industry and also represented Eastbourne in parliament as a Conservative MP.

* * *

Back in February, 1924, Wales and Scotland met in international competition on Cardiff City's grounds. The captain of the one was Fred Keenor and of the other Jimmy Blair, and both were Cardiff City players. Nothing quite like this had happened before and the odds would be substantial against it ever occurring again.

* * *

Early in the 1950-51 season Rotherham United fulfilled matches in four different leagues in one day and each team was captained by a "Williams." In the previous season Aston Villa also regularly placing four teams in action simultaneously, actually had on the left wing of each team, Les Smith, Bert Smith, Tony Smith and Jeff Smith.

* * *

These are but a few of the "oddities" and no doubt careful research would unfold many more. At least it may be argued that it is the knowledge of these intimate items that helps to make the game more interesting.

* * *

The SRO sign had to be posted last Thursday evening at the Oak Bay Junior High School auditorium when the first full length film of last season's cup final was shown. The film recaptured many highlights of the game for Victoria soccer fans, and it is to be hoped that this is to be a leading event in the local football calender, a few highlights of which won't go amiss.

The game opened in exciting fashion, and within 90 seconds, Lofthouse had placed Bolton in the lead, and was unlucky minutes later when he hit the upright. Hassall scored through his own goal to equalize, but Langton put Bolton ahead near the half-way mark. The injured Bell, a passenger for most of the game, increased Bolton's lead and at this stage, Bolton looked like sure winners.

Mortensen sliced the lead from a fumble by Hanson, and then scored the equalizing goal from a free kick. Matthews, the man with the educated feet, beat two men and set up Perry with the winning goal from eight yards out.

The BBC, who produced the show from their television program, and the DFA are to be commended for their efforts in providing such an entertaining feature for Canadian soccer fans.

Nancy's Record One of Renown

The telephone rang. "This is Nancy Craig here, listen you . . ." Well, like I always said, the way to get the true facts is to print the wrong ones. This also indirectly serves to increase readership since a a rule the offended party tell the world about the injustice.

As Nancy indignantly pointed out, and quite rightly, she has been the Victoria City table tennis champ for six years, and not a measly three as previously reported. Furthermore, she has sported the Vancouver City crown for two years, the B.C. Open for four, and the Western Canada Open in 1947 and 1950-1953. Just for good measure and by way of retribution), her young son Rodger (4½) also wallops a fair ball. The kerlickerloc of a table tennis ball can be heard any night in the champ's basement where she is at present tuning up for this year's engagements.

Joe Watt

At noon every day, six or seven gentlemen make their way to the back room of a local sports store. Whether or not they buy anything on the way through is of little consequence; they gather to chatter about the old days and the possibilities of current champions. In fact, anything related to sport is right up their alley. They'll give you an opinion on what age is too old to be playing sports, who's the best so-and-so in town, and who's the . . . nothing is unknown to this forum. I'll dub them the back room boys and tap their brains each week. The initiation fee, incidentally, was a pot-bellied stove, an arm chair for Clare McConnell, and a bottle of liniment for Joe Watt, whom I seem to meet more than any other man in Victoria. It's incidental, too, that Joe's Esquimalt Badminton Club is not really the club registered under that name, apologies to the rightful heirs of that title.

Several times last week at the opening sessions of the Victoria Lawn Badminton Club, people came up to me (I was sitting on top of the stairway) and commented favorably upon advice given here about the purchase of a racquet. My niggardliness, you might recall, cost me more than the price of two new racquets in the end, and sired the thought that new equipment is the only answer. But now I'm not so sure. As the man-who-knows-all-about badminton-racquets, hundreds of eyes were upon me as I wound up for the first smash of the year. An ominous crack rattled around the hall. While everyone else was looking for the bloke who pulled the trigger, I looked with contempt at the head of the racquet, now broken in two and swinging in the breeze. The man-who-knows-all-about-badminton-racquets slunk off the floor ignominiously, but not before his erstwhile admirers had started to chant, "You only get what you pay for." The moral—spend more than $1.95.

With most badminton clubs in action, the Lower Vancouver Island once again welcomes the return of the migratory bird. One of the earliest to wing into action was the Cordova Bay Badmintofi Club, which moved out of the church hall and into the new $35,000 community hall. Bob Macmurchie is still the president (fourth year), and after looking around, I can't blame the shuttlers for their impatience. The club is open from 7-11 on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Sundays and is designed to accommodate 75 members. A unique features is its juvenile training program. Each night the youngsters play from 7-8, and then are allowed to play with the seniors from 8-9.

Jackie Adrian, aged 15 years, is looked upon as a potential champ, and Jenny McDougall is just looked upon. Barbara Ford, dynamic secretary-treasurer, still has a few club vacancies on the list but they are going fast. The B.C. Travel Bureau, if in the business of badminton halls, would doubtless give this one a five-star rating.

Severson Increases Lead in Times Poll

The transitional period between summer and winter sports has brought about a unique situation in voting for the Times Amateur Athlete of the Week.

Polling was extremely heavy but only two athletes were named and neither is eligible for one of the monthly tropnies However, both will be eligible for the annual award.

All of the ballots received by The Times this week were confined to Whitey Severson and Johnny Clark.

Severson who made a runaway of the contest during the summer months, is now classed as an inactive athlete as lacrosse season is over. However, if he plays hockey as he plans to do, ballots naming him for his hockey talent will be honored for both monthly and annual awards.

Clark, one of Victoria's all-time great basketball players, was also named in the balloting but as he has yet to tie on a basketball sneaker, he, too, is ineligible for the monthly ward. Only when he is actively engaged in basketball will he be able to win a monthly cup.

Voting for soccer's Joe Travis, who at one time was running neck and neck with Severson for the yearly award, has fallen off, presumably because he is now playing for a Vancouver team in the Coast Soccer League.

Girl Driver To Appear On Race Card

By RON COULTER

Step aside, men, history is about to be made in the local auto racing world.

Kaija Kalevala, the only woman stock car driver in the Northwest today, is scheduled to appear at Shearings Speedway Monday at the B.C. championship races. It will mark the first time that a woman has competed in events of this nature on Vancouver Island.

The statuesque blonde has earned her spurs in the game, having recently completed two years of stock-car driving in Vancouver. She has her sights set on faster cars and bigger tracks in the near future.

Miss Kalevala arrived in Vancouver in 1952 with two dollars and 21 trophies, the trophies being won in Finland in stock and sports-car racing against all male competition.

She secured a position in a Vancouver motor firm as a mechanic and saved her money. When she had sufficient funds she bought an old car, reconditioned it herself, and took it down to the speedway. Since then she has been racing regularly.

Miss Kalevala was not only a regular in the Finnish army during the war with Russia, in which she was machine gunned by a Russian air force pilot and wounded, but she also holds a pilot's license and is an expert skier and swimmer.

She holds several medals for rifle marksmanship and for a time was a stunt driver for a movie company.

Her ambition is to drive at Indianapolis and other big American tracks.

She is expected to drive her own No. 81 stocker at the Cobble Hill cut-off oval, Monday, and will also be supplied with a big race car by track officials.

The B.C. championships will be the final meet at Shearings this season. Championship cars and drivers of the province will be decided and trophies awarded.

Ken Nelson will receive the most-popular driver trophy for this season and unless Bruce Passmore or Verne Moore completely dominate this final meet Dave Cooper will walk away with both the local big car and stock car titles.

Time trials start at 2.30.

Chayko Setting Hot Pin Pace

By RON COULTER

Fivepinners continued to roll flashy scores this week, brightest of which was posted by Eric Chayko.

Chayko, who has been rolling at a torrid pace this year, came up with the top league score recorded this season when he scattered pins for single games of 358, 290 and 333 and a 981 total while bowling in the Capital City Men's Commercial League.

To prove that score wasn't just a stroke of luck Chayko also posted a 755 in Gibson's commercial loop, but had to share a small part of the lesser limelight with Cy Wallis.

Wallis was in fine form, firing an 891 triple at Gibson's and following up with an 819 in the Capital City singles classic.

Other high scores in Gibson's commercial section were rolled by Howie Butler, 814; Hugh Cowan, 776; Len Scott, 720, and E. Viggers with 717. Wallis' single of 361 was high for the night.

Dave Sprustef, 839; Stan Tenning, of softball fame, 819; Jack Ferguson, 779; Bob Corbett, 776; Wilf Smith, 744, and Bruce Robinson, 738, rolled other top totals in Capital City commercial play.

★ ★ ★

Don Corbett topped the classic division with an 881 triple while Bud Baldwin, 875; Doug Neff, 869; Mary Chayko, 840; B. Tarves, 835; Frank Bendall, 827, and Bus Stoddart at 825 followed.

Tom Brown paced the Forest Products League with a 750 trio and Irene Henson topped the Wednesday women's section with a 760 triple.

★ ★ ★

In tenpin play Jessie Howard and Lorna Luney hit for 484 totals to pace the women's section of Gibson's mixed circuit. Doris Williams racked up a 194 singleton.

Connie McBeth topped the men with a 218 single and 535 total.

★ ★ ★

Chuck Bennett came in with high total of 585 in commercial play while Bill Templeton, 561; H. Bryan, 554, and R. Bell at 548 rolled other high threes. Bryan posted high single of 227.

★ ★ ★

Lorna Luney was high in the Strathcona women's league with a 518 total and 192 singleton. Iris Murrant fired a 506 triple and 177 single while Duff Williams checked in a 180 single.

Harry Moulton rolled top total of 557 in the men's league and Wally Anderson hit for a 220 single. Roy Begg, 541; Tom Nute, 526, and Ron McArthur at 525 posted other high threes while Begg, 210; Nute, 204, and McArthur, 203, shot high singles.

SECOND DIVISION STRONG

City Rugby Union Down to Two Teams

The Victoria Rugby Union's first division, which finished last season with four strong teams, has been reduced to two teams.

Victoria College Vikings, reportedly suffering from lack of experienced senior players, withdrew from the union this week, forcing cancellation of today's scheduled game.

Crusaders were the first club to drop out, being unable to muster sufficient players to form an entry at the start of the season.

Only James Bay and Oak Bay Wanderers now remain in the first division.

However, Victoria College plans to enter two clubs in the second division; swelling that circuit to six clubs. Others entered are University School, defending champions; James Bay, Shawnigan Lake School and Oak Bay. The second division season will start shortly.

James Bay and Wanderers of the senior division will meet each other every three weeks and will fill in the other weekends with exhibition games with Vancouver clubs. It is expected that players from Crusaders and College will join the two existing clubs and make them powerful opponents for the mainland teams.

Ulcans Loom As Grid Threat

By ED CORRIGAN

NEW YORK (AP)—UCLA, one of the powers on the Pacific coast — if not the power — had another scalp dangling on its belt today, but it wasn't an easy one

UCLA whipped Wisconsin in a major intersectional clash Friday night, 13-0, scoring one touchdown in the first period and another in the third.

Smythe Gives Leafs Fifth Place, at Best

TORONTO (BUP)—The Toronto Maple Leafs today open a new hockey season which Connie Smythe, with unprecedented modesty, predicts won't get them into the Stanley Cup playoffs.

Smythe picked Detroit, Montreal, Boston and Chicago to finish in that order. The Leafs would be fifth, he said, but "if we have the same injuries we had last year, we'll finish last."

"I am looking forward with pleasure to this season, but I can't find any pleasure in the performance of the Leafs," Smythe said.

The Toronto team couldn't even beat its Pittsburgh farm club in pre-season exhibitions, and Smythe said the reason was a lack of key players.

"We have no one to replace Max Bentley or Howie Meeker, and we haven't a ganging attack like Montreal and Detroit," he said.

"Until we get a home run hitter in the forward line — a man who can score goals without the support of the entire team—and a switch-hitter on defense who can play both sides, the Leafs will find it tough going.

"It will be a few years more until we can ice another Stanley Cup team."

The pessimistic prospects weren't discouraging the Toronto fans, however. The club front office said advance ticket sales were the highest in history and the usual standing room only crowd was expected to see the opener against Chicago tonight.

SHOEMAKER CLOSE TO NEW RECORD

ALBANY, Calif. (AP)—Running his season's victory string to 379, Wee Willie Shoemaker booted home four more winners Friday at Golden Gate Fields, including favored Gesticulator in the featured Gentlemen Chefs handicap.

My Chief was second in the $4,000 event, almost three lengths back, and War Rings was third.

The four wins ran Willie to within 11 of the all-time season's mark of 390, set last year by Tony Despirito. With nine mounts set for today and two weeks more of the Albany meet to go, he seems likely to eclipse Despirito's record and a good bet to surpass 400—his personal goal.

AHL Season Opens

NEW YORK (AP) — The American Hockey League, whittled down to a compact six-club circuit, opens its 1953-54 season tonight with every prospect of an evenly-balanced and financially successful race.

Since last spring, St. Louis and Indianapolis clubs have been disbanded and their best players have gone to strengthen the survivors.

'Irving's Kids' Fear Vets Not

By DENNY BOYD

Dick Irving, like Fagin of Oliver Twist fame, believes that youngsters are the key to the future.

However, where Fagin took the wrong road and opened a school for young pickpockets, Irving astutely turns his talents to producing hockey players for the benefit of the Victoria Commercial Hockey League.

Irving's Commercial League entry this year is as yet unsponsored, but will start the season under the banner of Victoria V's. However, due to his youth program, the club will probably be refered to as "Irving's Kids" as is usually the case.

Discussing prospects of his team, Irving says: "Sure, Lackie (manager Jim Lackie of the powerful Victoria Merchants) has a strong club, but they're a bunch of old men. When my kids get in shape the Merchants will have their hands full with us."

ONE WORRY

Irving has a wealth of forward talent, two potential goaltenders and is worried only about his defense.

Until Friday night, Don Hamilton had been the only contender for the goal position. An alert, talented 16-year-old, Hamilton is attempting to jump from the minor ranks.

However, he now will be competing with Arnold Jorgenson of Nanaimo, who turned out to his first workout Friday. The 21-year-old Jorgenson formerly played with Fort William Canadien Juniors.

Tireless veteran Fergy McPherson will again be playing coach and will be the No. 1 fixture on the V's defense. Other holdovers trying out for defense are Bob Seens and Curly Leachman. Newcomers are Ray Fogg, with Navy last season and Doug Grant and Walt Harris of the now defunct Army squad.

Returning forwards, all of them in the fuzzy-cheeked age group, are Berlyn Hodges, Bob Fowler, Art Green, Jackie Millburn and Doug Bamborough. Pint-sized veteran Jimmy Gallant is also back for another fling.

ARMY RECRUITS

From the Army team Irving has picked up skillful Ken Gill, Les Corby, Bob Coulter, who broke his nose in practice, and Bill Gilchrist. Alex Davyduck, out of action last season, is also working out.

The club will later be bolstered by forward Norm Kowalyk, who will be honeymooning for the next two weeks, and Bill Chisholm, now recovering from a leg fracture.

Parksville Rink Remains Unbeaten

VANCOUVER (CP) — Only 10 out of 86 starting rinks remained undefeated Friday as the huge bonspiel to aid the British Empire Games reached the half-way point.

Among the rinks sporting unblemished records is Saskatoon's Glen Richardson. Dick Topping of Oliver, B.C., Louis Savarie of Cranbrook, B.C., and W. O. Antrim, Parksville, B.C., are other out-of-towners who have won their every game in the top two divisions.

BASEBAL ALSO-RANS SUFFER FROM BIG PAY-OFF

Series Swag Out of Line?

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP) — Next time the big league clubowners get together for the purpose of wondering how to revive flagging attendance, they might forget television for a few minutes and have the secretary read them the figures on how much each of the Yankees and Dodgers received for playing in this year's world series.

They will learn that each full grown member of the winning club was mailed a cheque for $8,280.68, which is more than a lot of other big league players are paid for a full season's effort. Those who were away on hunting trips at the time also will be amazed to find that each Brooklyn player was rewarded to the tune of $6,178.42 for losing.

The figures are not new to the average fan, but they will bear repetition here because, in this corner's opinion, they have grown out of all proportion to the salary framework of baseball and are in danger of becoming a real menace to the game unless someone rises to say look here.

If the magnates themselves are not smart enough to see that such a slaphappy payoff to the two pennant winners is a threat to player morale on all the other clubs, and that they might never again have a balanced flag race unless some reason prevails, then they should not be surprised if they hear something explicit soon from the player representatives of the "have not" clubs.

The situation boils down roughly to this: The Yankees and the Dodgers are swimming in gravy with no land in sight, while the athletes on 14 other teams are staring enviously and saying 'taint right. They feel that the 70 per cent of the players' swag paid to the two competing series teams is far too great and that the remaining driblets tossed to the other first division clubs are scarcely worth picking up.

This isn't just hearsay. A well-known scout for a second division outfit was moaning one night during the series that he has had no chance to compete for the signature of a really good prospect if either the Yankees or Dodgers was interested in the boy. He said he knew from sad experience as a manager it was mighty hard to instill enthusiasm in a player who was being paid only the equivalent of a world series purse.

It is a fact that, because of the extra autumn bonus they can offer the world champs do not have to pay especially large salaries. The report of a congressional committee last year disclosed that the payrolls of several other clubs were higher. Thus success begets not only the cream of the rookies but as well affects a nice saving in wages.

Wismer, Kenney May Be Called Before Timber Sale Probers

The legislative committee investigating a sale of government-owned timber three years ago may call on Gordon Wismer and E. T. Kenney to give evidence.

Both are former cabinet ministers in the coalition government.

Ray Williston, Social Credit member from Omineca, who is chairman of the House committee on forestry and fisheries, said Friday it may be necessary to call them next week, in an effort to clear up certain points in the evidence so far presented.

No committee member has yet made a formal request that Mr. Wismer, former attorney-general, or Mr. Kenney, former lands and forests minister, be called, but that this step might be necessary.

Present plans call for members of the Mount Maxwell board of Salt Spring Island to begin testifying Tuesday, and their evidence may take several days. Certain committee members are reported to believe the process could be shortened by calling Mr. Wismer and Mr. Kenney.

Investigation revolves around the sale, in 1950, of the merchantable timber in Mount Bruce Park to the QLK Logging Co.

FLOW OF EISENHOWER FOOD PACKAGES TO GERMANY ENDS

BERLIN (UP)—The United States today ended its program to feed hungry East Germans—a humanitarian effort that proved to be one of the most successful moves in the cold war against Communism.

Since the program began last July 27, more than 5,500,000 "Eisenhower Food Packages" have been distributed to nearly one-third of the Communist-ruled residents of East Germany. Distribution of the seven-pound parcels cost about $7,000,000.

The flow of millions of food-seekers to West Berlin distribution centres in the face of Communist threats and terrorism was considered by western officials to be a great defeat for Communism.

REFUSES TO CERTIFY SUDBURY LOCAL

Ontario Labor Board Hits Mine, Mill 'Fear Campaign'

TORONTO (BUP)—The Ontario Labor Relations Board today lashed out at a "fear campaign" it said was aimed at driving steel union organizers from the Milnet Mines at Capreol after it refused to certify the Sudbury local of the Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers' Union.

The board blocked certification because of conspiracy aimed at intimidating workers planning to join the rival United (CCL-CIO) Steelworkers' Union of America.

The board branded the efforts of Mine-Mill as a campaign of fear aimed at driving the steel union organizers from Capreol.

Its decision followed an application by Mine-Mill for certification, which was opposed by the steel union.

The decision was based on testimony from witnesses who said they were threatened with assault by Mine-Mill workers and officials.

Union representatives denied there were threats of violence and called their association with workers "an exchange of pleasantries."

"Evidence given at the hearing leaves us no alternative but to conclude that much more than pleasantries were involved," the board said. "An accredited official of the applicant union, along with some supporters of the applicant, resorted to methods which would deter a reasonably courageous employee from joining the steel union or staying out of Mine-Mill."

The judgment also said that a mass demonstration by supporters of Mine-Mill was "part and parcel of a conspiracy by intimidation and coercion to make any would-be adherent of the intervenor reconsider his position."

40-Hour, 4½-Day Work Week Asked My Meat Cutters

Butcher shop employees of Victoria and the lower mainland will seek a 4½-day, 40-hour week, as a solution to their work-week problem.

Last year they won the five-day, 40-hour week to be implemented "when practical," but still work 5½ days.

Said George Johnston, secretary of the Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen's Union (TLC):

"The chain store operators oppose a five-day store operation and the retail meat dealers are against six-day operation.

"This stalemate has denied the employees their five-day week for too many years and we are taking the only alternative left to provide a full day off each week."

They also seek a 15-cent hourly pay boost, three weeks' vacation after five years of service, and 12 days' annual sick leave. Their present contract expires Nov. 3.

College Picks New Members For Council

By DINAH KERR
Times College Reporter

If interest in Victoria College student council voting is any indication, the girls are going to lead the way at the UBC-affiliated school of learning this year.

There was a vote at the college Friday to name two freshmen representatives to the council and apathy of the males was clearly evident.

Only 62 per cent of the eligible males cast ballots, while out of a possible 67 girls eligible to take part, 60 exercised the franchise.

Alternative ballots gave victory on third counts to Bill Gelling and Myrtle Bratvold.

Gelling, a former Oak Bay High School council president, trailed Harold Robinson until the third count, then won by three votes. The race was even closer for Miss Bratvold, a graduate of Lake Cowichan High School. On the third count, she received 29 votes, edging out Heather Clark, who had 28.

The two first-year students complete the college council of 11 members.

Men's representative Gelling is prominent in local sports circles, as a member of the YMCA track team. He plans to be an engineer.

Miss Bratvold was an outstanding student at Lake Cowichan. In her matriculation year, she was active on the students' council, and won both the sportsmanship trophy and the best citizen award.

World Plowing Title Won by Ontario Man

Modest Young Brampton Farmer Says Another Canadian Was Best; 11 Nations Entered

COBOURG, Ont. (BUP)—Jim Eccles, a young dairy farmer from Brampton, Ont., who placed second in provincial and Canadian plowing finals, won the first world plowing championship here Friday and immediately said it went to the wrong man.

The modest, 32-year-old who trailed 26-year-old Bob Timbers of Stouffville, Ont., said I certainly don't deserve this trophy. The title should have gone to Bob Timbers—he's a far better plowman than I am."

Eccles was almost the last man to get started, but when he got his first furrows looping from his plow they proved the neatest among contestants from 11 nations.

Eccles runs a large farm and owns a large herd of Holstein cattle, and the win surprised him. He hadn't entered a match in three years since he won an overseas trophy, and decided to enter the competition at the last minute.

"I've won the biggest prize I can win and I think I'm finished as far as contest plowing is concerned. I'll do my own plowing at home, but as far as this sort of thing is concerned I'm ready to retire," he said.

Eccles' pretty wife, Margaret, mother of two girls, stood by as the champion accepted the golden plow trophy, emblematic of world leadership.

HIGH PRAISE

Many of the 19 other competitors in the contest paid their respects and voiced high praise for the Canadian champ.

A Norwegian interpreter said "there never was much doubt."

Roman Dondorff, 20, of Germany, said "We didn't really expect to win," referring to himself and his partner, Jahn Horst, of Westerwald.

"We came to try in a world match for the first time and to learn a lot about it, and perhaps next year we shall do better, but your Canadians really did well today," he said.

Odd Braut, 41, of Jaeren, Norway, followed Eccles in points by a small margin. Braut scored 151.85 to Eccles' 154.66.

Timbers placed third with a 150.66.

Competitors represented Denmark, Germany, Great Britain, Northern Ireland, Finland, The Netherlands, Norway, the Republic of Ireland, Sweden, the United States and Canada.

Indonesia Proposes Arab-African Bloc

KARACHI, Pakistan (Reuters)—Indonesian Foreign Minister R. Sunarjo, suggested today formation of an Arab-African bloc as a "third group" to balance the two camps of Russia and the United States. # Temptations Out Of Sailors' Way By Court Ruling

NANAIMO (CP)—Two naval ratings, H. Kruger and Allan Badenoch, convicted here recently of five charges of theft, appeared in police court before Magistrate Lionel Beever-Potts for sentence Friday.

Both men were given two years' suspended sentence on all five counts subject to certain conditions imposed by the magistrate which included absention from each other's company and from liquor of any kind until Badenoch had reached the full age of 21, and in Kruger's case for a year.

They were both put under bond without surety of $100 in each of the five cases and warned that a second offense would carry a jail term.

Kruger was instructed to dispose of his car and both were forbidden to drive for a period of two years.

The magistrate further recommended to naval authorities that their movements be restricted as far as possible. They are to report to probation officers whenever in B.C. ports.

Nehru Scores UN Command

BOMBAY, India (UP)—Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru said Friday that developments in Korea since the arrival of Indian custodian troops "have given one the impression" that the United Nations command does not want peace.

Addressing a mammoth crowd in Bombay, Nehru said South Korea has openly declared it does not want peace and the big members of the UN, while saying they want peace, silently approve the South Korean stand.

South Korea, he commented, is a small country with a large army "because it is using someone else's money."

Nehru said he does not consider the South Korean government a responsible one because it has broken so many promises in the past.

India respects the UN command in Korea only because the big powers that make up the command are responsible.

Car Theft Brings Six-Month Term

A six-month jail term was imposed against Robert Bruce Lawson, young motorist from Duncan, when he pleaded guilty in RCMP court at Colwood Friday before Magistrate A. I. Thomas to a charge of car theft October 8.

Lawson admitted taking a car owned by William Guiney, Meadford Road, Langford, without the consent of the owner.

Car was later found by RCMP officers in the Lake Cowichan area with the front end badly damaged by fire. Police estimated that $1,200 damage was done.

MISTAKEN

VANCOUVER (CP)—John G. Holland, 53, told police he was not driving while his ability was impaired by alcohol and besides, they couldn't arrest him because he was a commando.

He was and they could. Fine, $200 or 30 days.

Jury Acquits Garage Owner Of 'Receiving'

An Assize Court jury late Friday afternoon acquitted John Deighton, garage operator, 3755 Tillicum Road, on a charge of receiving stolen tires, property of Stewart & Hudson Ltd., on Aug. 18.

Deighton was also charged with "retaining" the stolen tires, but Mr. Justice H. S. Wood instructed the jurymen before they retired to deliberate a verdict not to consider this charge as there was not sufficient evidence to support it.

QUICK DECISION

The jury only took seven minutes to arrive at a verdict of not guilty.

The tires, valued at over $1,000, were allegedly stolen by James Minnie, who was convicted in County Court Wednesday of breaking, entering and theft of 13 tires from the firm's Gorge Road warehouse.

Deighton was accused of receiving nine of these tires with the knowledge that they were stolen.

Testifying in his own defense, Deighton said a man who gave his name as Royce sold him the tires. This man he later found out was James Minnie.

Deighton said he did not know that Royce was Minnie until city police had recovered the tires from his garage. He said he had never met Minnie.

Bill to Pass Funds For B.C. Introduced

A supply bill, providing funds to carry on the business of B.C. was introduced in the Legislature Friday by Premier W. A. C. Bennett.

It will come up for second reading next week.

The bill grants funds to cover the entire $172,950,466 provincial budget.

But $94,000,000 of that sum was provided in an interim supply bill passed at the spring session after the defeat of the minority government.

Thus the Legislature actually will vote another $98,950,466 for the public service until the end of the fiscal year, March 31, 1954.

The last Legislature passed individual estimates for the entire year, and it's not known if the opposition will insist on reconsidering them because of the number of new members.

Premier Bennett originally wanted the supply bill passed without consideration of individual estimates. But the opposition objected.

Whether the CCF and Liberal protests have been effective will be known next week when the bill comes up for subsequent readings.

Possibly the premier may allow his ministers to be questioned on certain phases of the estimates, but not permit debate on each estimate.

VICTORIA TELEPHONE NUMBER CHANGES

When Albion, Belmont and Colquitz telephone exchanges "go dial" next April, service between these three centres and Victoria will gain in speed, convenience and efficiency. As part of the program for improved service in the Greater Victoria area, the existing exchange names will be discontinued for telephone use throughout the district at that time.

The present exchange names—Beacon, Empire and Garden—in Victoria will be replaced by numbers for use in dialing.

After conversion of Albion, Belmont and Colquitz, Beacon exchange will be called by dialing the numeral 2 instead of "B", Empire by dialing 3 instead of "E" and Garden by dialing 4 instead of "G". Albion, Belmont and Colquitz exchanges will be called by dialing the numbers 7, 8 and 9 respectively.

These changes are being made so that a further improvement in service will result from the elimination of many dialing errors. Here are some typical examples of the change:

Beacon 1234 to 2-1234
Empire 4321 to 3-4321
Garden 2345 to 4-2345

RAY OF HOPE SEEN

Rise in Oils Aids Markets

By BOB JOHNSTONE, Canadian Press Staff Writer

Relief may be in sight for the Toronto Stock Exchange. After more than two weeks of patiently waiting for a break in recent market doldrums, traders saw a ray of hope in the last two sessions this week.

Industrials, golds, base metals and uraniums and New Brunswick base metals showed little change — some dropped even lower—but western oils finally made the long-awaited rise.

Thursday's and Friday's sessions showed gains of more than two points each to erase the losses of the early part of the week and show a gain of more than three points from a week ago Friday.

The reason? The general attitude was more one of relief that the low period was over than of examination of what ended it, if it is really ended.

Some observers feel that oil stock prices were unreasonably low. They cite such issues as Scurry, with sizeable assets and considerable reserves, which had been selling fairly cheaply. The downward pressure was eased, they say, when investors suddenly realized such issues had been underpriced as recent declines forced everything down. A sudden desire to buy in before the ebb reached its natural limits forced the price up again. Pacific, Calgary and Edmonton and General were in the same category, they say.

Another explanation favored by some is that the recession, which was expected to follow the end of the Korean war, has not materialized in its anticipated proportions, and renewed confidence is beginning to exert an upward pressure. Other issues will follow western oils, these people say.

NOT OPTIMISTIC

The other issues? Some experts are not too optimistic about the immediate future of gold, base metals and industrials. In Toronto recently, at an investment dealers' meeting, experts predicted industrials would remain low until the spring, base metals had yet to reach their bottom, and golds were hovering at the bottom mark now. The federal government's extension of the emergency gold assistance act this week certainly had no elevating pressure on the market.

On the Toronto exchange, Friday to Friday comparison of the indexes shows industrials down .97 at 299.83, golds down .99 at 68.60, base metals down .28 at 139.20, and western oils up 3.05 at 89.56. The total volume was down 459,000 shares at 8,425,000.

In New York, the Associated Press average of 60 stocks was up 10 cents at $103.90. Industrials remained steady as utilities and railways dropped.

In Montreal, banks were down .32 at 33.65, utilities down .03 at 92.50, industrials up .80 at 176.20, combined up .40 at 148.30, papers up 3.53 at 699.64 and golds down .71 at 50.54.

Woman's Whim Sparks Major N.Y. Land Deal

NEW YORK (AP) — The 77-story Chrysler building and two other skyscrapers were sold on Friday in a record-breaking real estate deal that stemmed from a woman's desire for an apartment instead of a town house.

The second tallest office structure in the world and two adjacent buildings, the 32-story Chrysler Building East and the 30-story Graybar building, were transferred to Webb & Knapp, Inc., and the invesement banking firm of Lazard Freres & Co.

The ownership stock previously belonged to the W. P. Chrysler Building Corp.

WORLD'S BIGGEST

The $52,000,000 transaction topped the world's real estate deals.

Here is how it came about: According to William Zeckendorf, head of Webb & Knapp, it was all a matter of getting a fashionable Park Avenue apartment for Mrs. Byron Foy, daughter of the late motor car tycoon, Walter P. Chrysler.

Zeckendorf said that some time ago Foy had approached him and asked for an apartment his wife wanted in a building owned by Webb & Knapp.

A few days later Zeckendorf met Foy and told him the matter was fixed up.

"And then the idea came into my mind," Zeckendorf added, "that here was the man I needed and I told him, 'Now that I have done something for you, you can do something for me. How about selling the Chrysler building to us?' And that's how it happened.

HUMAN TOUCH KEY TO GOOD WORK FORCE

Hugh Stephen Talks To Big U.S. Parley

Improved personnel relations are the best armor to free enterprise industry against the threat of Communism, according to Hugh Stephen, general manager of New Method Laundies Ltd., here.

In a speech prepared for delivery today to 3,000 delegates at American Institute of Laundering convention in Biltmore Hotel, Los Angeles today, he warned that industry has "largely failed to win the loyalty of our people or their enthusiasm for the free enterprise system."

He said that the problem of good personnel relations was unknown 50 years ago. "Unions had not yet arrived to usurp the employer's right to establish working conditions within his own plant."

Mass production techniques and the "ferment and friction of our modern industrial civilization" changed this overnight.

"We lost our beliefs in simple standards of conduct and replaced them with formulas and cure-alls, which are serving us none too well."

He blamed industry for the "illusion" that work-a-day human relations "were divorced from everyday behaviour," and set out to "analyze and chart this mysterious process."

The result was that employers tried to reduce the human soul to the mechanical level of an alarm clock," and he added, ". . . what a mess it has got us into!"

"At the behest of governments, unions and every other Tom, Dick and Harry who thinks he knows our employees better than we do, we have employed every possible form of benefit and inducement . . . but we have largely failed to win loyalty," he maintained.

BILL OF RIGHTS

Mr. Stephen urged that employers should adopt a new bill of rights for employees that he felt would place both parties on the same side of the fence.

An employee has the right to expect responsible and efficient management and the business should be so geared as to earn respect for working conditions and fair trading practices, he asserted.

Each employee has the right to be treated as an individual and respected as a person. He listed several methods of fulfilling this right such as calling employees by their first name, keeping informed of their personal circumstances.

"We have found it worthwhile to send each a card of greeting on his birthday and to welcome a worker back from a holiday or to pay a visit when one is in hospital," he advised.

He thought each employee should be told the basic workings of the business, and asked for opinions or advice.

Encouragement, praise and early recognition of a worker's capacities are "mental wages" to which he is entitled as well as fairness and justice in his relationships with his superiors, he concluded.

"If we make the effort, we will find our employees telling our friends they work 'with' us rather than 'for' us."

Commissioner to Promote Local Industry Suggested by CC Group

Appointment of a Greater Victoria industrial commissioner at a salary up to $10,000 a year will be recommended to the Victoria - Esquimalt - Oak Bay - Saanich inter - municipal committee by the Industrial Development group of Victoria Chamber of Commerce.

This was decided at a group meeting in Monterey Restaurant Friday after hearing a resume of a general report on Greater Victoria's industrial development. This report is to be presented to the inter-municipal committee headed by Ald. Don Smith.

Read by the group's chairman, Gordon Roper, the report protested that some Victoria citizens are so determined to stand in the way of industrial progress they deliberately belittle and deter industry.

SCARED OF SMOKE

Later Friday a member of the group told why he thought Victoria residents had a "fear" of industry.

"Basically they're scared of smoke," he said. "They imagine that once a factory is built in a part of the city then the whole area will be practically uninhabitable and the value of their property will drop.

"That's nonsense of course, but once a rumor starts that a factory's going to be built in a particular area then before long residents are up in arms organizing petitions and generally raising a hullabaloo," he added.

Part of the Chamber of Commerce group's report dealt with the past achievements and failures of the industrial development group.

Under the heading of "achievements" were the establishment of a woolen mill, a grain elevator and packing plants. On a general level were included financial and moral support by individuals and the group in retaining local industries.

GORDON ROPER
. . . urges full-time effort to develop local industry.

Failures—a brief list—told of the group's inability to achieve a uniform development plan and stressed the lack of a qualified person who could devote full time to promoting industrial development.

"The City of Victoria is to be commended for their grants for industrial development . . . other municipalities have given little," said Mr. Roper.

The total amount given to the industrial development group barely covered the cost of a stenographer and stationery, he stressed. He compared the allotment with that allowed for tourist development. Tourist trade promotion received 16 times as much money even though the industrial payroll was three times as large.

Finally Mr. Roper revealed the executive's recommendations.

"The first step as we see it is an increased need for the municipalities to acknowledge the role of industry in our economy and encourage industrial development by every available means.

"As part of this encouragement, finances must be made available and in part used for the establishing of a full-time qualified industrial commissioner."

There was some discussion on the proposed commissioner's salary. Mr. Roper suggested "at least five or six thousand dollars a year."

A. D. Baillie said a qualified man capable of handling such a responsible position would command a minimum of $10,000.

And $10,000 was the figure the group agreed to recommend to the inter-municipal committee.

The duties of the industrial commissioner, it was suggested, "should comprise not only the seeking out of new industry, but the servicing of local industry . . . he should work closely with the Chamber of Commerce and with the Industrial Development Group."

Tungsten-Ore Discovery

OTTAWA (BUP)—A federal survey party in Newfoundland has found an "interesting occurrence" of scheelite ore from which tungsten is produced, Mines Minister George Prudham announced Friday night.

The scheelite was found in the Gander Bay area on land held by the Newfoundland & Labrador Corporation for mineral exploratory purposes.

"The find represents an important discovery, the value of which can only be assessed by exploration," it was said.

QUESTION BOX

In a nursery catalog the letters E and D are used against plants in the shrub section, and E, M, and L against some perennials. I can find no key to these abbreviations and would like to know their meaning.

The letters in the shrub section indicate whether the plants retain their leaves over winter, E meaning evergreen and D deciduous. In the perennial section the letters indicate the time of flowering, early E, mid-season M, and late L, the word season referring to the normal flowering period of the indicated plants, not the time of year.

Five Rooms and Garage

The wide breezeway between the home and garage helps to accentuate the wide, spreading ranch lines of this five-room home. The dining area is separated from the living room by an open trellis wall. Twin beds may easily be accommodated in the spacious front bedroom. This same plan is also available in concrete block.

DATA—Living area, plan A—1,076 sq. ft., Plan B—1,140 sq. ft.; breezeway, plan A or B—215 sq. ft; garage, plan A—308 sq. ft., plan B—300 sq. ft. Cubage, house, plan A—20,026 cu. ft., plan B—21,602 cu. ft.; breezeway, plan A or B—1,128 cu. ft.; garage, plan A—3,234 cu. ft., plan B—3,150 cu. ft.

YOUR WEEK'S WORK

FLOWERS — Lift tuberous begonias from beds or window boxes after the foliage has been blackened by frost. Pack plants closely in boxes stored in shed or basement, removing decayed leaves and stems daily. Clean and dry tubers and store in dry sand away from frost.

Cuttings to take now: bedding calceolaria, viola, ageratum, lobelia, pentstemon. Insert in pots or flats of sand and keep in coldframe over winter.

Free growing roses may have cuttings taken now to grow on their own roots.

Water cacti in small pots once weekly, and keep cool for winter. Large pots need water once monthly during next five months.

VEGETABLES — Take cuttings of gooseberries and other bush fruits. Root in sandy soil.

Leave parsnips in ground until needed; frost improves the flavor.

Burn only woody refuse and add ashes to compost or keep dry for special uses next spring.

Dig all ground as it becomes vacant. Sow rye as cover crop to improve condition and hold soil during winter.

Pick carefully apples and pears for storage. Fallers will not keep.

Bring in all squash and marrows as further growth will be negligible.

Is it necessary to take bedding fuchsias inside for the winter?

The roots of most will survive our normal winters. However if you have a choice hybrid, cover the roots with twiggy material or place the plant in a pot and keep it inside in a dormant state until early spring.

JACK BEASTALL SAYS

Day to Dwell Upon Gardening Pleasures

Beastall

Thanksgiving Day, the day set apart annually for a public celebration in acknowledgment of divine goodness, has always featured the produce of the land. It is the gardener's festival of thanks.

Thanksgiving Day is also a day of work for the gardener because there is much from the past to be cleared away and much for the future to be planted. But there should be a few moments' pause in which we may review the many things we gardeners are fortunate in having, but usually take for granted.

THINGS TO REMEMBER

There are a host of things I want to remember on Thanksgiving Day, not the big and obvious, but the small, easily overlooked items which contribute so much to my gardening pleasures.

There is the clay soil, for instance. Although it nearly broke heart and back before it was mastered, I could wish for no finer medium in which to grow my plants. Locked in its tightly clenched fists is a great source of minerals which a little humoring can release but hardly deplete.

I want to remember to be thankful for the weeds, for I have learned that their presence keeps an unused plot of soil active and full of life, and their roots keep the soil open and moist.

When I destroy them and leave the ground vacant, it becomes a piece of concrete. Nor must the value of weeds as a source of humus be forgotten at Thanksgiving. Their rank growth, returned to the soil, provides that sponge which retains moisture, the resins which bind sand and open clay, and the life which becomes a part of future plants.

THANKS FOR DRY SUMMERS

Our dry summers come high on my list of things to remember. Without them many of the most precious plants in my garden would be unable to exist. The plants and bulbs from South Africa would never flourish where rain fell every month of the year.

The leaves of trees, though they now fall on border and lawn, are welcomed to my Thanksgiving list. Through the summer they provided shade which permitted the growing of plants unable to stand the heat and dryness, plants which have added diversity, attraction and increased the pleasure of gardening. And having completed their task the winds spread them as a mantle, nature's contribution to the much-needed compost pile.

Thanks for the mild months of October, November and December must not be omitted. In these months the tasks of digging, dividing, and re-planting can be leisurely combined with the planting of bulbs, shrubs, trees and other newcomers which will add beauty in years to come. There is little fear of being snowed under before the work is completed.

And I want to remember the heavy winter rains. Although they turn the garden into a quagmire, they also wash away the toxic salts which accumulate from over fertilizing, fill the humus sponges, and provide the moisture needed for the decomposition of organic matter in the soil.

To these can be added the joy of working in the open air and sunshine, of listening to the songs of birds, enjoying a peace of mind and health of body not found by other means, and of finding food for the soul from the form and beauty of flowers and plants.

If we gardeners spend Thanksgiving Day listing all the things for which we are thankful, there will be little time for any work in the garden.

What is the meaning of B & B in nursery lists?

These letters indicate that the plants are shipped with root balls wrapped in burlap (balled and burlaped). Another way of shipping is with bare roots.

THE CHURCH PAGE

By LANCE H. WHITTAKER

B.C.'s popular historian, Bruce McKelvie, takes more than an academic interest in early buildings in the province. Bruce has asked that we give a corner of this space to the struggle facing a small Anglican parish in Fort St. James.

Their church, completed only this spring, has burned to the ground. There was no insurance.

Built at considerable effort and sacrifice, the little building was the pride of the old trading post, which traces its history to its establishment in 1806 by Simon Fraser.

Whittaker

The fire broke out in the night, and before any organized effort could be made to save the structure or its contents, it had such a hold that it could not be put out.

The church will be rebuilt.

A contribution by the boy members of the British Schools Exploration Society that visited Fort St. John this summer started a new fund. The boys gave from their meagre pocket money.

There will be many in Victoria, some perhaps with happy memories of early years in just such a small church, who will want to help the people of Fort St. James.

Mr. Norman Henry has charge of the fund. His address is simply Fort St. James, B.C.

The Liquor Bill—Class Legislation?

A committee of the Victoria Ministerial Association presented its views of the new liquor bill to the government Friday. The Citizens' Committee, through its president, Frank Hunter, indicated earlier that a local option vote will be applied for, if the provisions of the act in that respect can be clarified and the signatures of 35 per cent of the voters procured.

Much mature thought is behind these moves, but there is a sociological aspect of the cocktail bar proposals which has received little stress.

The provisions of the new bill constitute an insidious form of class legislation.

With commendable zeal for decorum, the government has specified that liquor outlets will only be allowed in the best places. By the same token, it is very evident that the liquor in these places is going to be expensive and clientele, to that extent, exclusive.

Nothing has been done for beer parlors except to allow the serving of light foods and to provide, through cocktail bars, for the removal of those more affluent people who now frequent them occasionally.

The argument that the new regulations will make for the division of drinkers on a "cocktail bar vs. beer parlor" basis may be pooh-poohed as a step to more social snobbery, but the farmers' argument that allowing the manufacture of margarine was class legislation comes forcefully to mind.

In that instance (admittedly an odd comparison, but a valid one), a law designed specifically to make a cheaper food available produced a cleavage which has split this nation from coast to coast. No one will deny that Canadians can today be counted in two classes, those who eat butter and those who never eat butter.

If the new liquor regulations go through, British Columbia's thousands of drinkers will divide similarly; they will belong either to the beer parlor crowd or the cocktail bar crowd.

This aspect of the regulations could prove to be of more serious consequence than many of the other, more obviously objectionable features.

Court Decision Challenge To Stewardship Says Rabbi

LONDON, Ont. (BUP)—Rabbi Abraham L. Feinberg of Toronto said Friday a supreme court decision allowing Jehovah's Witnesses to distribute tracts in Quebec was a "challenge" to Canadian religious bodies.

Feinberg, rabbi of Holy Blossom Temple and one of Canada's top churchmen, told the Kiwanis club that "freedom of conscience is not merely a gift of government to religion."

"It creates a duty of religion to government. The surest way to destroy that freedom is to abuse it," he said.

"If Jehovah's Witnesses, and similar movements with missionary zeal construe the supreme court verdict for religious freedom as an opportunity for religious fanaticism, if the decision encourages a church to strengthen itself by scurrilous attacks on other churches, it will bring democracy into dispute."

The meeting was an annual Thanksgiving luncheon arranged by local churches. More than 100 clergymen were on hand to hear Feinberg, the principal speaker.

"We ministers of religion should welcome the reiteration by Canada's highest court of our inalienable privilege to speak the truth as we respectively define it, but our joy must be sobered by a deep sense of stewardship, the rabbi said.

"The less restriction a preacher suffers under the law of man, the more he must subdue himself to the law of God, which is love."

BETWEEN TIMES

By MONTE ROBERTS

I have always been in favor of a democracy, and, what is more, I have always believed I'm fortunate enough to live in a democracy.

But yesterday I learned the citizens of this country are being subjected to the worst kind of regimentation and control.

The situation is nothing less than iniquitous.

I was informed of the desperate state of affairs by a man named Bill Dunford, who is in Victoria to promote the sale of Canada Savings Bonds.

It must be admitted the information was given me unwittingly by Mr. Dunford, who will no doubt shudder when he sees this exposure in print.

In fact, Mr. Dunford seems to be under the impression that everything about Canada Savings Bonds is just simply wonderful.

Therefore, it is with reluctance I expose this form of investment as a horrible example of control over the individual.

The facts are these: the current issue of Canada Savings Bonds is, as usual, backed by the whole resources and future of this country.

Moreover, the current issue bears the highest rate of interest ever attached to Canada Savings Bonds.

But here is the harsh reality, the regimentation, the government control, the restraint by the state:

NO SINGLE CITIZEN MAY PURCHASE MORE THAN $5,000 WORTH OF THESE WONDERFUL BONDS!

For shame!

All I can suggest to the constituents is, get in there and grab fifty bucks worth at a time.

You can always wear a false moustache and use a fake name when you go back for your second helping.

These are trying times, and things are tough all over.

But never so tough as on Page 16.

On Page 16 are gathered such trials and tribulations, such nerve-wracking calamities, as even Dante couldn't have imagined.

Why, the only way we could prevent Dick Tracy and Uncle Kincaid from being blown into small bits was to move them off Page 16 and put them on Page 1, for the final fatal seconds which separated life from death.

Well, I am glad we were able to save Tracy and friend by getting them away from the gloomy influence of the comic page.

And I am glad it happened in time to save them for the full-page episode in the colored comics this week-end.

However, what is to be done for the rest of the suffering comic characters?

Can't we get Kerry Drake out of the dumps before Christmas? And think of poor Alley Oop, languishing under a heap of stones while a slick confidence man is about to take over the kingdom of Moo.

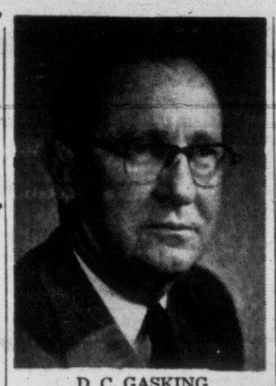
Poor Li'l Orf Nannie's pal Sam is in jail on a bum rap; Buz Sawyer is suffering the refined tortures of a parent whose child has been kidnapped, and even King Aroo's heart is wrenched with pity for a little lost dog.

Let's get all the comic characters away from the gloom of Page 16, into the sweetness, happiness and light of Page 1.

Flash bulletin from Mrs. H. Sinnott: She wishes to know if there isn't some sort of a civic by-law covering this situation, as reported in the classified section:

"HANDYMAN, ATTENTION—$600 cash and a little work on this fine old seven-room home with bath on corner lot."

Rather chilly this time of year, what?



D. C. GASKING

. . . president of the Canadian Automobile Chamber of Commerce, will speak at a luncheon of the CGRA convention here on Thursday.

'Who'll Pay for Roads?' Convention Theme

More than 600 highway officials, representatives of industry and government and commercial and private highway users from all part of Canada will meet in Empress Hotel next Tuesday to Saturday at the 34th convention of the Canadian Good Roads Association.

A large U.S. contingent also will attend.

The CGRA convention will concentrate on an extensive review and exchange of views on present-day road and street problems.

The problem of financing road construction will occupy a large part of the agenda, and one of the sessions will bring together major government and industrial agencies in a discussion panel under the heading "Who Shall Pay for the Roads We Need?"

In this discussion the provincial government's position will be explained by Dr. R. W. McColough, executive assistant to the Nova Scotia minister of highways and public works. The municipal governments' viewpoint will be presented by F. C. Cronkite, dean of law, University of Saskatchewan; the commercial users', by R. W. Macdonald, LL.B., a director of the Canadian Automotive Transport Association; the private users', by W. G. Scott, transport economist of the railway association, and the taxpayers', by J. Harvey Perry, director of research, Canadian tax foundation.

A session in which provincial road building departments report on the current progress of road building will provide an authoritative index of Canadian road construction.

There will also be a progress report on large-scale road tests being carried out in the United States, with W. N. Carey, of the U.S. highway research board explaining the aims and results of the tests.

Uniform traffic codes will be another topic of considerable interest. A draft code evolved by the Canadian Bar Association will be described by A. C. Desbrisay, QC, a member of the special committee which drafted the suggested code.

Among the principal speakers will be: D. C. Gaskin, president of the Canadian Automobile Chamber of Commerce, and president of the Studebaker Corporation of Canada Limited; George A. Bowie, Firestone Rubber Co., Akron; Lt.-Col. D. W. Cunnington, commandant of the Royal Canadian School of Military Engineering, Chilliwack, and C. P. Disney, vice-president and chief engineer of Intrusion-Prepakt Limited, Toronto.

LT.-COL. D. W. CUNNINGTON

. . . commandant of the Royal Canadian School of Military Engineering, will lead a CGRA discussion on "Army Axles Need Tough Roads."

Forger Suspect May Be Wanted By City Police

'P. J. Scott' Charged With Cheque Fraud

Winnipeg police have arrested and charged with forgery a man known as "P. J. Scott of Victoria" who, city police believe may be wanted in connection with allegedly fraudulent operations here.

Last September, Gladwell Motors and K. M. Auto Sales reported to police they had been swindled out of $455 by a man who presented apparently certified cheques on an interior B.C. firm.

He offered the cheques in car purchase deals.

A man who represented himself as Peter J. Scott secured $52.50 in cash at the same time from Doug Cruikshank's men's wear shop here. He presented what purported to be a certified cheque and besides cash got a suit of clothes.

SUSPICION AROUSED

A Winnipeg real estate dealer became suspicious Thursday of the operations of the man called Scott, summoned police who identified him as a suspect wanted for three years by authorities in Canadian cities.

The real estate man said Scott Thursday claimed he needed $5,000 in a hurry to close a deal. Scott said he did not have the cash and had sent a cheque to Vancouver to be certified, but was worried it might not arrive in time to close the deal Friday. He asked if the cheque could be cashed after business hours.

The agent said he would cash it, but in the meantime notified police. Two detectives, posing as house buyers, sat around the office until Scott returned early Friday morning to cash the cheque.

One of the detectives showed some pictures of a wanted man to Scott, and said: "This is you, isn't it?"

Scott was searched by police, who found another certified cheque on his person.

Scott may be brought here to face charges.

$2,000 DAMAGES PAID IN SKYROCKET DEATH

Settlement of damages in the death of Mrs. George Peppin, former Victoria woman who was killed by a Halloween skyrocket in Burnaby a year ago, was announced Friday by lawyers representing the Burnaby Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Mrs. Peppin, the former Vera Bartlett of this city, was killed when the skyrocket struck her in the eye and pierced her brain. She was holding her baby in her arms when hit. The child was unhurt.

The husband and family of the accident victim will receive $2,000, and the Jaycees have pledged to do all in their power to raise additional funds. The Junior Chamber of Commerce sponsored last year's celebrations.

Mrs. Peppin was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Bartlett, 1868 Forrester Street. She served in the Women's Division, RCAF, during the Second World War.

Her brother Tommy is a former member of the Oak Bay police, and her sisters Vivian and Frances live in Victoria.

Foundation Test Holes Sunk by Contractors For BCE Office Block

First Step Taken for $600,000 Building Job; Apartments Planned

Test holes are now being driven on Pandora Avenue, immediately east of Blanshard, for foundations of a proposed $600,000 B.C. Electric office building.

This is the first definite construction move on the part of the company to proceed with the project. It has been planned for several years.

Sharp & Thompson, Berwick, Pratt, Vancouver architects, expect to have plans and specifications ready for contractors next month, and the company hopes to see the contract let by the end of the year.

The site on the northeast corner of Pandora and Blanshard, now is occupied by billboards. The remainder of the block between Blanshard and Quadra is owned by Woodward Stores Ltd., and now is occupied by a Gladwell Motors used car lot.

Pacific Water Wells Ltd. are drilling test holes.

NEW APARTMENTS

New apartment buildings continue to hold a prominent place in the construction field.

Architect Patrick Birley is designing a 20-suite de luxe apartment for an undisclosed central site in the city. Of similar design to the Evald Past block under construction on Fort Street, it will cost an estimated $100,000.

A local syndicate plans erection of a large apartment house on Beach Drive near the Uplands gates.

Charles E. Craig has preliminary plans for two blocks which A. K. O'Shea, 2592 Bowker, intends to build on the former Rithet estate bounded by Humoldt, Vancouver and Fairfield. He expects construction to begin next spring.

SAANICH SUITES

Although it is unusual for Saanich municipality to grant permits for apartment houses, Jack Henson Jr. is building a 14-suite block on Gorge Road at Austin, to cost $50,000.

Wade & Stockdill have plans for a new elementary school to be built in the Macaulay area of Esquimalt, and for additions to the F. T. Fairey Technical Unit at Victoria High School and View Royal School. Whittaker & Wagg have begun plans for an eight-room school at Marigold, and a six-room addition to Tillicum School.

These projects are part of the plans proposed in the $3,400,000 money by-law to be voted on in December.

A $12,800 contract has been awarded to Dillabough & Luney for conversion work on the Ewing Block, Victoria College. James, Polson & Siddall drew the plans, which call for lounge quarters for student study and relaxation.

Paine & Townsend have begun construction of a concrete retaining wall at the Bay Street site of the new proposed new warehouse and offices for Andrew Sheret Ltd.

Fireman Overcome In Saanich Blaze

Freak Fire Causes $3,000 Damage; Valuable Paintings Smoke-Ruined

A Saanich fireman was overcome by ammonia fumes from an electric refrigerator while helping extinguish a blaze at 3143 Admirals Road shortly before 11 a.m. today.

Lieut. Hector McNeill, 1108 Tolmie, was rushed to Royal Jubilee Hospital by Saanich police.

He collapsed from the refrigerator fumes and heavy smoke while working on the fire through the second story window of the frame house.

About $3,000 damage, mainly from smoke, resulted. The fire, in the home of Grad Kilshaw, auctioneer, started in the pantry when the refrigerator short circuited.

Several valuable paintings were ruined by smoke and water.

Firemen confined the blaze mainly to the pantry and kitchen.

There was no one in the house when the fire broke out.

TWO MORE ALARMS

Two other alarms were attended by Saanich fire department this morning.

At 7.17 a.m. they answered a call to 4666 West Saanich Road, and found only a smoke scare. No damage was done.

At 8.35 a.m. the Shelbourne Street hall extinguished a small fire in the Variety Store, Shelbourne and Torquay. The blaze broke out in the wiring of the firm's refrigeration plant, causing minor damage.

LIEUT. HECTOR McNEIL

. . . rendered unconscious.

2-Year Term For Break-In

A 23-year-old Victoria man was sentenced by Judge J. B. Clearihue in County Court Friday, to two years in the penitentiary for breaking and entering the premises of Safeway Cleaners, Quadra Street, with intent to steal.

Carl Kibsgaard, no fixed address, was found guilty, as charged, by Judge Clearihue following trial in County Court.

The break-in at the cleaning establishment took place on Aug. 15.

Sgt. Jack Hamilton and Constable Robert Coleman of the Saanich police force, spotted the accused and fired warning shots when he failed to stop.

Kibsgaard escaped following a wild chase in the Cloverdale-Quadra district, but was later apprehended.

Gerald Cross was prosecutor.

Liquor Law Said Favored By Anglicans

While Victoria Ministerial Association has protested certain sections of the new B.C. liquor act, a spokesman for Anglican churchmen today said ministers of that faith regarded the new legislation as a step forward.

Rev. William Hills, chairman of the social service committee of the Diocese of British Columbia, made the following statement:

"At a representative conference of Anglican clergy held this week under the chairmanship of Archbishop Harold Sexton it was unanimously agreed that the government has taken a forward step in initiating the new legislation for liquor-law reform in this province, and it is hoped that the proposed legislation may advance the cause of true temperance."

Presbyterian YP Opens Conference At Banquet Here

Fourteenth annual provincial conference of Presbyterian Young People opens in Victoria tonight with a banquet meeting in St. Andrew's Church Hall.

About 100 persons are expected to sit down to the evening meal.

Delegates to the conference arrived during the day. Twenty-eight came by plane and an equal number by boat. The conference last met in this city eight years ago.

Conference sessions will continue Sunday and Monday. Miss Margaret McKay of Vancouver is president.

Rev. Dr. J. L. McLean, rector of St. Andrew's, is scheduled to welcome the Young Peoples organization, on behalf of the Presbyterian Synod. Rev. D. Lister, of Duncan, will be principal speaker at the conference.

Miss June Layne is president of the Victoria Young People's group.

'THIS IS RANK HERESY'

Cowichan Cricketers Seek Rule Change

Cowichan Cricket Club has decided cricket is too slow.

When the Victoria and District Cricket Association holds its annual meeting this month the Cowichan members intend to ask for some changes in the rules that have stood for centuries.

One of the changes the club proposed at its annual meeting Thursday was to allow two hours of batting for each team, with the team scoring the most runs to take the points.

This rule is designed to put an end to draws. Another request will be to revert from three points for a win to two points.

"This is not for the benefit of spectators," said club member Bob Moffatt, "but for the players."

The Cowichan members all agreed that present-day cricket, specifically that in the Victoria League, is too slow.

"This is rank heresy," a Victoria fan exclaimed when informed of the Up-Island proposal. "The Marylebone Cricket Club in London decides cricket rules. When it says rules will be changed then they'll be changed, but not before."

Officers elected by the Duncan group were W. M. MacLaughlin, honorary president; Air Marshal Sir Phil Livingston, honorary vice-president; G. F. Dyson, president.

Others are R. Moffatt and G. Baiss, vice-presidents; K. McAdam, secretary; J. Frederick, treasurer; R. Walton, J. Flint, C. Green, R. Haynes, B. Tibbles and A. Anderson, committee members.

ASK The TIMES

Q.—In a sports round-up on the CBC not long ago I heard it stated that curling stones, in the past always imported from Scotland, are now being made by a firm from granite found about 50 miles from Ottawa. Are any of our Victoria curling enthusiasts using these new stones? T.N.H.

A.—The locals are all equipped with rocks from Scotland, but they say they will not be surprised when Ontario-made stones put in an appearance here. It is stated suitable rock exists in other Canadian areas than the Ottawa valley.

Q.—Which one of the ancients said "One thing only I know, and that is that I know nothing"? D.N.L.

A.—It is attributed to Socrates (c. 470-399 B.C.).

Q.—Can you tell me what salary the Vice-President of the U.S. receives? A.D.R.

A.—The salary is $40,000 a year, of which $10,000 is classified as a taxable expense. Richard Milhous Nixon, put in office last year when Gen. Eisenhower was elected President, is the 36th to hold the post in the republic's history.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to The Times, addressed to "Ask The Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest.

FUN WITH FIGURES

By J. A. H. HUNTER

Mrs. Brown goes out shopping most days, and most days she comes back home in a complete muddle as to what she has spent. Yesterday, in the first store she entered, she spent half the money in her bag. In the next store she spent half of what remained, so she dropped in at her bank and cashed a cheque for $10. She then made a purchase in one more store, spending the same amount as she had in the first. As she went out into the street, she looked in her bag and found there was just $5.40 there. "I don't know what I've spent," she said to herself," but I'm sure it's too much," and she walked home somewhat unhappily. How much did Mrs. Brown have when she entered the first store?

(Answer on Tuesday.)

Cited for Record Gift to Charities

Employees of Woodwards store were cited by Ralph Mathews, Community Chest president today, for what he called "one of the finest donation records in the city."

Total donated by the staff and the firm was $1,153.

Campaign officials announced that only 30 per cent of the 2,000 volunteer canvassers have so far completed their share of the campaign while already more than 33 per cent of the $210,686 quota has been reached.

Gas-Blast and Blaze Subdued by Employees

Gordon Estlin and William Lees, employees of Jeffree & Jeffree Ltd., 853 Yates Street, brought fire-extinguishers into play Friday afternoon to put out a blaze that broke out in the rear of a 1937 model sedan on the lots of Speedway Auto Sales.

The fire-damaged car is owned by Alfred Lachner, 1231 Colville. Fire started when fumes leaking from the gas tank exploded, city fire officials said.

Employment Figure Betters Average Despite Decline

A slower-than-average increase in the number of unemployed here this fall indicates some occupations are enjoying a longer season than usual, the National Employment Office announced today.

There are fewer jobs available, the office reported, and vacancies are filled almost as soon as they occur.

Positions yet unfilled include those of edgerman, adding machine salesman, composition roofer, and advertising salesman. The office can also place trained and experienced social service workers.

In the women's section there is still a demand for waitresses on shift work, domestic workers and experienced stenographers.

Who Is Hiding Here?

At a glance it would seem there are three or four figures in this colorgraph, but actually there's only one. You can make this figure appear by filling in colors according to the following indicators: Bl is blue; Y, yellow; V, violet; G, green; B, black. Various shadings with an ordinary lead pencil will also do if you do not have colored pencils or crayons.

The completed picture should reveal a Scottish gentleman, at peoce with the world, out for a stroll at sunset. Just don't look for the kilts and bagpipes.

WHO IS WHO?

Three men are working on one of the houses in a real estate development. Jules and Mr. Johnson are not plumbers. Neither are Mr. Gross and Bert carpenters. There is also a Mr. Mason on the job but he is not a bricklayer, and he is not called Tim whom, you should know, is the plumber.

Just who is who on the job?

Answer: Jules Mason, carpenter. Bert Johnson, brick layer. Tim Gross, plumber.

ENIGMATIC VERSE

Formed long ago, yet made today,
I'm most disturbed while others sleep;
What none would like to give away,
Yet no one likes to keep.

What am I? Can you guess what the above lines describe in enigmatic form?

Answer: It's something both a river and a home have—a bed.

TRICKS AND RIDDLES

AGE-OLD POSER

Curious about the age of someone in whom you are interested?

There is a bit of hokus-pokus through which you can induce the person to tell her or his age indirectly.

Ask the chosen subject to help you with a magic trick. Tell him to write down his age. Ask him to double it, add 5, multiply by 50, subtract the number of days in a year, and then add the number of coins in his pocket. To this add 115.

The result gives in its first two numbers his age, and in the last two the number of coins he has.

However, he'll probably be muddled at this point by your hokus pokus and will be surprised when you give him these correct figures.

TONGUE TESTERS

See how many times you can read the following aloud, quickly, without tripping.

How many simple sniffs of sifter scented snuff should seize a sniffer with sneezing?

* * *

LOST CAUSE

Ben saw a counterfeit bill on the sidewalk and walked by it without picking it up. On what charge was he arrested?

Answer: Passing counterfeit money.

In most homes friend wife doesn't have to wear a uniform to convince hubby she's top sergeant.

The Winter's Tale . . .

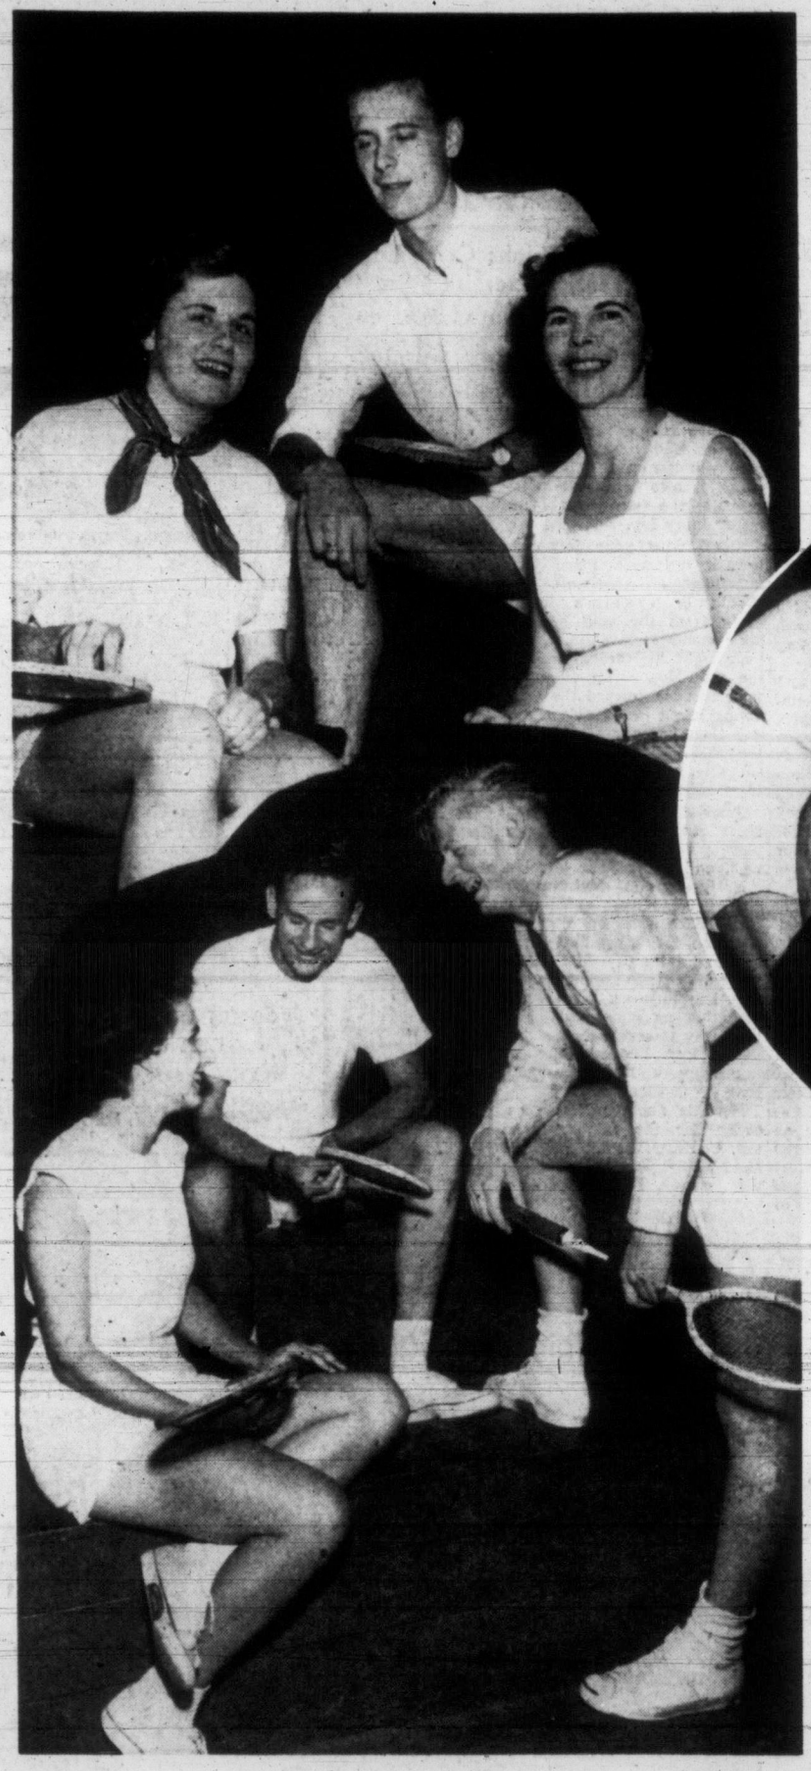
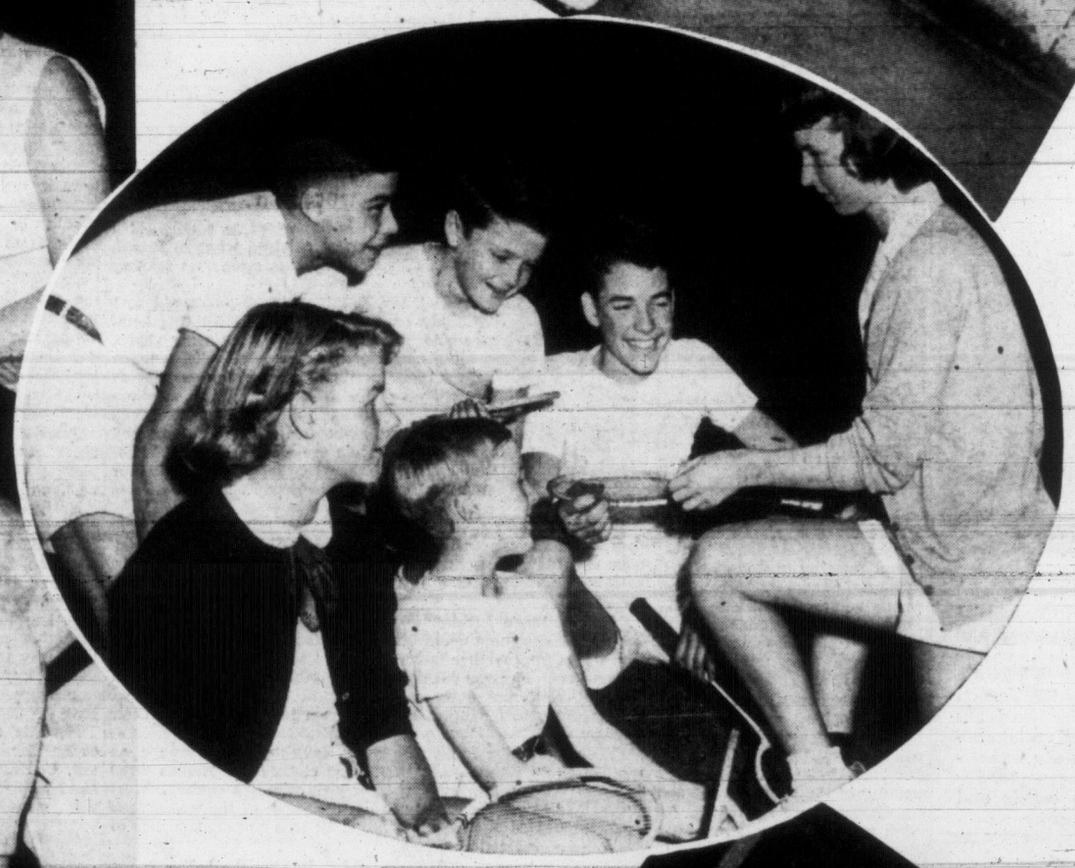
In sports recreation tells of a bird in flight . . . the twang of gut . . . swish of blades on ice . . . of stones and brooms and the crash of falling pins . . .

Sherry Wallis combines a touch of ballet with her winter sport, as she describes a graceful arabesque on skates. She is a member of the Victoria Figure Skating Club.



At Victoria Lawn Tennis and Badminton Club, talk is all of doubles, singles and tournaments, as the bird flies back and forth across the net. A left, watching a warm-up is Beverley Moss with Derek Warren of Egham, Surrey, England, and Margaret Nasor.. Below, right, Rosemary Hooper, Ron Simmons and Hugh Bardon talk over the coming season's activities.



Teen-agers enjoy badminton as much as older groups and form a large junior group within the VLTC. Discussing the merits of Jane Lee's racquet, at centre, are Diana Parsons and Hugh Rothe, with Paul Rothe, Harvey Hurd and Warren Bell.

Audrey St.D. Johnson

Curling season will soon commence and the ladies have been "brushing up" on equipment. At left are Mrs. Alice Thody, Mrs. Jessie Ledingham, Miss Marion Bradley and Mrs. Juanita Taylor, left to right, with Mrs. Jean Perlette and Mrs. Muriel Child kneeling in the foreground.

Can't Get Along Without A Spill-Proof Powder Puff

By PENNY SAVER

Oops, pardon me, folks, but I've just spilled my powder again! Just take a look at this purse . . . powder all over the place! Guess I'll have to break down and buy one of those spillless powder puffs my gal friend was telling me about. Sounds pretty wonderful to me. It's made of foam rubber, and has a pocket in the middle which you fill with powder. After filling, you give the puff several good hard pats on the back of the hand (holding pocket closed, of course) until powder comes through the pores of the foam. Then it's ready for 10 days' use. After circulation has started, the gentlest pat or just a "smooth on" your face will deliver the powder. Puff is downy-soft, washable and costs just 19 cents.

Some time ago, I told you about some oil painting kits. The artist merely had to match the number on each capsule of paint with the corresponding number on the canvas, and the result was a beautiful oil painting. They were small sets, however, and seeing that I had so many calls about them, I thought maybe some of you folks might like to know that this idea was so popular, that the manufacturer has brought out larger kits with ever so many more picture patterns to choose from.

The "masterpiece" canvas is 18 by 24 inches in size . . . large enough to look striking on your living room wall. With it, you get two artists brushes and 45 capsules of oil paint. Now you can dabble to your heart's content and have something to show for it. You simply can't lose on these paintings, for they always turn out. You can choose from country scene, animals, bowls of roses, oh, ever so many lovely subjects! I say, folks! This is like going back to paint-book days! Price for set is $6.95.

★ ★ ★

It's still possible to get the paint sets in the size I told you about previously . . . $3.50. And you may also buy a smaller set, if you want to try your hand at it first before attempting a masterpiece. These sets contain a set of two canvasses, one paint brush and 22 pre-mixed containers of oil color. Canvasses are nine and one-half inches by 12 and three-quarter inches in size . . . $2.50.

Arrives Today

Miss Jermyn has been a member of the Vernon Club for 14 years, serving as president for two years and has also held office as secretary and social convener. A legal secretary for eight years, she was appointed in 1950, to the position of court reporter for Vernon and district police and juvenile courts and secretary to the provincial probation officer.

VON Sets Up Modern Course In Rehabilitation Nursing

TORONTO (CP) — A course in modern rehabilitation nursing is being made available for the Victorian Order of Nurses.

Helen C. Anderson, assistant professor of nursing at the University of Washington, is in Canada to give the course and has already started in the Toronto district.

A broken arm which has been in a cast for a period of time is weak when the cast is taken off, Miss Anderson said. The same applies to persons lying in bed, especially during a long illness.

The rehabilitation process which Canadian nurses will learn begins from the time the patient is first confined to bed, not in the recovery stage. It applies to all types of nursing care — medical, surgical, maternity and the permanently ill, Miss Anderson said.

The process is different from physiothearpy because it is inseparable from nursing. Nurses practising the rehabilitation process encourage the patient to do as much as possible for himself. The body movements are integrated with the regular nursing procedure which obviates the necessity for extra exercises.

Effectiveness of the rehabilitation process depends largely on the attitude of the patient and his family, Miss Anderson added.

After the 13 Ontario conferences have been completed and assessed, the Victorian Order of Nurses for Canada is financing extension of the courses to the rest of Canada. Seven courses will eventually be given in Saint John, Halifax, Winnipeg and Vancouver.

Milium is a cloth sprayed with a metal solution which helps prevent loss of heat from the body.

Chubby Girl Wants To Be in Style

By ELIZABETH B. HURLOCK, PhD

Being dressed like the crowd is important to a child. No matter how unbecoming the style few children want to be different from their friends. That is why this mother is making a serious mistake. She says:

Hurlock

(Q)—"My daughter is 10 years old and definitely on the chubby side. All this summer she has insisted upon wearing shorts because her friends wear shorts. Then when he puts on a skirt she wants one that is yards around the hem and always wears a frilly blouse with such skirts. I tell her such styles are all right for thin girls but they make her look like the side of a house. How can I convince her that she must take her own figure into consideration when she selects clothes?"

(A)—I question very much if you could convince a 10-year-old that she should take her figure into consideration when selecting clothes if it means that she would be wearing clothes that are different from the clothes her friends wear.

Furthermore I think it would be most unwise to try to have your daughter dress differently from her friends even if this would improve her looks. Children of her age are slavishly conventional in their fashions and anything that makes them look different makes them feel inferior. They derive a great satisfaction and feeling of security from looking just like their friends.

You could, however, use your daughter's appearance as motivation to diet and get thin. The clothes her friends wear are designed for thin girls, not for girls who are chubby. Most 10-year-olds have a tendency to eat too much of the wrong kind of food and this is where you might be able to persuade her to eat less and eat thinning food.

Because your daughter is still growing, don't make the mistake of putting her on a diet without your doctor's consent. I am very sure he would approve of her losing her excess weight, but not at the expense of her health. Consult him about the matter and let him prescribe a diet to suit her age and stage of development. You can supply the incentive needed for her to stay on that diet.

Dr. Hurlock is author of 12 books on psychology. Her advice in this column is free. Write her in care of this newspaper.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Lee United Today at St. Mary's

St. Mary's Church, Oak Bay, was decorated with baskets of pink gladioli and white chrysanthemums this afternoon, when Eileen Marjory Noble became the bride of Robert Elmer Lee.

Archdeacon A. E. de L Nunns performed the ceremony for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Geoffrey A. Noble, 1617 Jubilee Avenue, and the son of Mrs. Margaret Lee, Fulford Harbor, Salt Spring Isalnd, and the late Mr. W. H. Lee.

A ballerina-length, full-skirted gown of white lace and net over taffeta was worn by the attractive bride, who was given in marriage by her father. The bodice was covered with a lace jacket which featured tiny self-covered buttons and lily point sleeves. Her fingertip veil was held by a tiara of pearlized orange blossoms and she carried a colonial bouquet of red roses and stephanotis.

Mrs. William A. DeFrane was matron of honor for her sister, wearing a ballerina-length gown of rose corded taffeta with matching lace bolero and colonial bouquet of pale yellow carnations and mauve spray chrysanthemums. She wore a floral hair bandeau.

Three-and-one-half-year old Miss Marilyn DeFrane, niece of the bride, was flower girl, wearing a crinoline dress of rose corded taffeta and carrying a colonial bouquet of pale yellow carnations and mauve spray chrysanthemums. Best man was Roy Whitehead, Nanaimo, and ushers were William A. DeFrane and Harry S. Down.

Reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, where rooms were decorated with white and rose chrysanthemums. A three-tier wedding cake centred the lace-covered bridal table. L. B. Johnston proposed the toast.

For a honeymoon in Vancouver and Seattle, Mrs. Lee wore a turquoise knitted suit with fawn-colored topcoat, tan accessories and corsage of deep rapture roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee will live at 2048 Crescent Road.

Bulging Thighs Come Early Preventive Exercise Wise

Every once in a while I give an exercise for bulging thighs because this beauty defect is often apparent early in life. Even in the twenties we may see this insipient bulge, which will turn into a real problem later on. Today I am going to give you a nice easy exercise which is also beneficial in decreasing the flabbiness of the upper inner leg.

Stand with your left side toward the wall. Place your left hand on the wall. You should be at arm's length away from the wall so that your elbow is straight. Swing your right leg straight out to the side. Now swing it across your left leg toward the wall. Swing it out to the side again, and then swing across toward the wall. This should be a smooth pendulum-like swing from side to side.

After a little while turn your right side toward the wall, place your right hand on the wall, and swing your left leg.

Early signs of thigh trouble usually come from slack muscles. This gives you a slump. Later on, it is a combination of this and fatty deposits. Fat is more likely to accummulate over lazy muscles. A little preventative medicine will go a long way toward keeping that young lean looking thigh or improving it if you already have a problem.

Here is another simple exercise for the thighs; stand tall. Contract the hip muscles. Hold while you count to ten very slowly. Relax. Continue.

Another: the exercise in which you lie on the floor and make large circles with the legs, one at a time, is splendid first aid for the inner and outer leg contour.

A few simple motions for figure beauty pay out in increased attractiveness.

If you would like to have my tested exercises for the hips, which will take a few inches from that measurement in a few weeks' time, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 3 to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Fresh grapefruit tastes as delicious for dessert as it does for breakfast. Cut a grapefruit into halves and separate sections. Sprinkle a bit of brown sugar over top and fill centre with maraschino cherries and walnut pieces. Slide grapefruit under the broiler just long enough to melt the sugar, making it syrupy and good.

Irene Eilers Weds W. L. McEwen In Metropolitan United Church

Tall standard baskets of white chrysanthemums flanked a centre arrangement of carnations and chrysanthemums at Metropolitan United Church, this afternoon, for the wedding of Irene Helen Eilers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Eilers, 110 Leigh Road, Langford Lake, to William Livingstone McEwen, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. McEwen, 149 McLaren Street, Ottawa, Ont. Dr. F. E. H. James officiated and during the signing of the register Mrs. Jack Gillespie sang "All Joy Be Thine." Charles Palmer was organist.

An exquisite bridal gown of white taffeta with nipped waistline and crinolined skirt topped with a redingote of Chantilly lace lined with nylon was worn by the attractive, dark-haired bride. A delicate cap of matching lace with tiny seed pearl trim held her veil of pure silk illusion net which circled to fingertip length. She carried a bouquet of talisman roses and gardenias. Her father gave her in marriage.

Maid of honor, sister of the bride, Miss Eleanor Eilers, and bridesmatron, Mrs. William Eilers, West Vancouver, sister-in-law of the bride, were gowned identically in hyacinth blue taffeta. Gowns featured back fullness accented with large taffeta bow. They wore picture hats of hyacinth blue net with yellow velvet ribbon streamers and carried cascades of yellow carnations.

Fred Taylor Jr., Vancouver, was best man and ushers were William Eilers, West Vancouver, brother of the bride, and John Stanley, Vancouver.

The reception was held at "Lakeholme," home of the bride's parents, where a four-tier wedding cake was cut by the young couple. Cake was flanked by white candles and bud vases of roses and centred a table covered with a hand-made cluny cloth. J. C. Matheson proposed the toast to the bride. Receiving guests, the bride's mother wore a gown of sapphire blue point de soi with pink velour hat and matching gloves. She wore a corsage of gardenias.

Yvonne Rose Wears Grandmother's Pendant As Traditional Touch in Bridal Ensemble

A golden pendant belonging to her grandmother was "something old" for Yvonne Muriel Rose, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald F. Rose, 1199 Oliver Street, when she was married in a double-ring ceremony this afternoon to Arthur Curtis Bridge, 1121 Faithful Street, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. V. Bridge, Tientsin, China.

St. Mary's Church, Oak Bay, was decked with baskets of white gladioli and rose-colored chrysanthemums for the ceremony performed by Archdeacon A. E. deL Nunns, James Gerry provided traditional organ music.

A bouffant bridal gown of nylon tulle over taffeta banded at the waistline with shirred taffeta to match similar shirring on the sweetheart neckline was worn by the bride. Her fingertip veil of nylon tulle was caught on either side by a headdress of pearlized orange blossoms and she carried a cascading bouquet of Johanna Hill roses and cream stocks. Her father gave her in marriage.

Matron of honor, Mrs. Wilda Carle and bridesmaids, Misses Barbara and Phyllis Rose, were gowned identically in waltz-length gowns in graduated shades of frosted iridescent rose. Gowns were styled with full skirts, square necklines and cap sleeves. They carried cascades of rose and cream chrysanthemums and wore matching floral hair bandeaux. Best man was brother of the groom, Kenneth M. Bridge. Ushers were Val Folk and Kenneth Robertson.

At Oak Bay Beach Hotel, mother of the bride received guests. She wore a two-piece ensemble of plum crepe with black accessories and cream rosebud corsage. A three-tier wedding cake topped with a horseshoe and iced leaves and flowers was cut by the newlyweds. Cake was surrounded with tulle and small flowers and flanked by candles. George Paulin proposed the toast.

For traveling the bride chose a suit of grey-blue, Morocco accessories and corsage of roses.

ONE PAIR
To each—one pair of eyes to last a lifetime. One pair of eyes for seeing—the stars, the city lights, the sunrise and sunset, the budding trees, the faces of children.
One pair of eyes for reading and for working. And one pair of eyes for surviving—the dangers of the highway, the hazards at home, the everyday perils that lie in your path.
Guard those eyes—they are priceless! Surely they are deserving of considerate care. They work so hard to meet every new strain, taxing nerve and muscle to the limit. And they change inevitably with age.
Modern science can protect your eyes, can improve your seeing, can correct the eye changes of age. Have your eyes examined regularly—you owe your one pair of eyes that much!

CARROLL RIGHTER'S ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

MONDAY, OCTOBER 12, 1953

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) — Bring out your charm and improve your physical well-being by up-to-date methods. This gives you the necessary lift to attend to duties at home where conditions require your earnest consideration.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20)—To get more out of life, take in all the information available in newspapers, radio, TV, libraries and schools. This will bring out your magnetism too. P.M. is fine for pleasures.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21)—Attending to every item at home that requires improvement will bring in added revenue later. Today is fine for doing work you don't enjoy particularly but which will bring in more money.

CANCER (June 22 to July 21)—Start the week by taking ideas that have been seething in your mind to co-workers, experts. Get their reactions; then put plans into execution. Be optimistic.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21)—Letting those who are congenial to you know of your respect and affection for them, and their way of attending to joint duties, brings you far more support toward attainment of your own ambitions.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22)—Your charm has high expression; friends are impressed and will willingly help you secure what is vital to you. You must let them know your aims and desires, however.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22)—By attending quietly to dull but necessary duties you receive the backing of an influential progressive person who channels the things you desire into your life. Show appreciation.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21)—A woman friend who is meticulous about everything irks you a bit, but you would be wise to listen, for real success can follow her streamlined plans.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21)—A higher-up who is overscrupulous in all matters gives you some good, up-to-date ideas and lets you in on a plan that you don't understand but which brings chance to increase your funds.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)—Listen carefully to plan outlined by newcomer in your life bringing aims in your aura at last. Listen attentively to suggestions about ways to increase your knowledge by application.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)—By putting into effects some interesting gadgets, unusual systems and modern appliances, you can release some funds urgently needed in other directions. Improve your diet too.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20)—A person, charmed by your abilities, brings in your direction some original entertainment that brings you surcrease from your long time suffering over an unavoidable condition.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN MONDAY . . .

Monday's child is one of those interesting and fortunate youngsters who will always gain through unforseen and unexpected circumstances. Strangers will give your child opportunities to express his or her abilities. Therefore you would be wise never to force long-range plans or systems on your child. In this way unhappiness and perplexities will be avoided. Fine chart for work connected with government, research, exploration.

BRIDGE LESSON

By Oswald Jacoby

For many years I have been telling experienced bridge players that they don't double often enough. I consider this subject so important that I've devoted several pages to it in my new book "What's New in Bridge," which will appear next January.

All of the really great players agree with me on this point, of course. Today's hand shows Milton Q. Ellenby, one of the young Chicago players who won the national team championship this year, making the kind of double that I describe in my book.

This is the kind of penalty double that most players miss. The opponents bid without any real assurance to a contract that they will obviously need reasonable luck to make. You double when you know that they will run into bad luck instead of the good luck that they need.

Ellenby was East when today's hand was played in the national championship in St. Louis last August. He knew that both black suits would break badly. It was clear that the hearts were stacked badly from the fact that North couldn't raise and South couldn't rebid the suit.

And declarer couldn't get very far in diamonds. In other words, Ellenby knew that all the suits would break badly for declarer—so he doubled.

West opened the nine of clubs, holding the trick. He continued with the five of clubs, and dummy won with the king. Declarer now decided that East had good hearts for his double, so he led the five of hearts from dummy.

East naturally played his low heart, and South put up the queen. West was happy to win with the king of hearts—so happy that he led a low heart right back to take out dummy's ace.

South was now as dead as a doornail. West was bound to get in with the king of spades to cash three more heart tricks, and South was able to get only six tricks. The penalty for a three-trick set was 500 points. He'd have gotten away with a loss of only 150 points if East had tamely passed instead of doubling the final contract.

Too Late

NEWPORT NEWS, Va. (AP) —Joe Black, a 1953 disappointment with Brooklyn Dodgers, hurled a three-hitter here Friday to give Roy Campanella's all-stars a 1-0 exhibition baseball victory over Birmingham Black Barons.

Black did not allow a runner past first base. The only run came in the first inning on a double by Bill Bruton of Milwaukee Braves and a single by Brooklyn's Junior Gilliam.

'PEG'S TRAFFIC CRAWLS SO MARY MIGHT LIVE

WINNIPEG (CP)—The furniture van crawled along Winnipeg's Main Street at five miles an hour under police escort.

Motorists honked horns in impatience, then lapsed into sheepish silnce once they learned the reason behind the strange caravan.

Inside the van was a little girl, a polio victim, being transferred from King George Hospital to the Hospital for Sick Children—and confined to an iron lung.

The truck towed a generator trailer and the snail's pace was necessary to prevent discomfort to the youngster and damage to the delicate equipment as the cavalcade spanned the six-mile gap between hospitals.

At her destination the little girl, whose name is Mary, managed a brave smile as the iron lung was carried into the hospital.

Date for Strike Vote In BCE Expected Soon

Date for a strike vote to be taken among 100 electrical workers employed by the B.C. Electric Company here should be announced shortly, a union spokesman said here today.

Charles Peck, business agent for Local 230, International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, said today the application for a strike vote was made some days ago. He is now awaiting final word from the Labor Relations Board.

Some 400 members of the union in Vancouver will vote Oct. 19, and 100 members in the Fraser Valley will vote Oct. 21 at Abbotsford.

Requests for a government-supervised strike vote followed workers' rejection of a conciliation board majority recommendation concerning its negotiations with the BCE. The board approved the union's demands for fringe benefits, but refused any wage increase.

WANT 10 PER CENT

The union had asked for a 10 per cent wage increase.

Although only 100 men will vote here, another 40 men employed by contractors will benefit by the result of negotiations, since their employers are committed to pay the BCE rate.

Men concerned are employed at the company's power houses at Jordan River and Brentwood, at substations, and in the line department.

Union officials have said essential services will be maintained in the event of a strike.

Gault to Meet Bantam Champ

SYDNEY, Australia (UP) — Henry (Pappy) Gault, former North American bantamweight champion from Spartanburg, S.C., has agreed to fight world bantamweight champion Jimmy Carruthers of Australia for the title on November 13, in Sydney.

The promoter, the Police Boys' Club Federation, announced that Gault would receive $7,500, plus travel and other expense money involved in the trip. The contract provides for a return match within 90 days if Gault wins.

Saddler Ready To Defend World Title

WUERZBURG, Germany (UP) — World featherweight Sandy Saddler said Thursday he would be ready to defend his title within 90 days of his army discharge date.

The slender negro 126-pounder said he was confident he would be in condition ithin three months to meet his challenger, former champion Willie Pep, for the fifth time.

Saddler, who is serving with the U.S. 1st Infantry Division here, will return to the United States for discharge shortly. He said he plans to make a South American tour with his manager, Charley Johnson, after meeting Pep, who defeated him in one of their title bouts.

Under National Boxing Association rules, Saddler may wait up to six months after receiving his discharge before putting his title on the line.

World Series Glory Nothing New to Casey

NEW YORK, (AP)—World series stardom is nothing new to Casey Stengel of New York Yankees, who now stands alone in the record books as the manager of five consecutive world's champions.

Thirty years ago, the Yankees also won the big classic in six games, this time from New York Giants. But the big gun for the losers was none other than Stengel, then a comparative youth of 32.

Casey battled .417 in the '23 series, getting five hits in 12 trips. Two of the blows were homers, both of which won games. The one-time dentist from Kansas City drove one out of the park in the first game as the Giants won 5-4 and again in the third for a 1-0 triumph.

Over-all, in three world series—1916 with Brooklyn and '22 and '23 with the Giants—Stengel hit .393 with 11 hits in 28 times at bat. As an outfielder his average was .950 with one error in 20 chances.

VICTORIA'S OWN FAULT

Playgoers Inertia to Blame For Road Shows Missing City

By AUDREY ST.D. JOHNSON

This week I have been provided with an answer to a question that continually confronts me as I go about my business in Victoria. Why, I am asked, is Sadler's Wells Ballet not coming to this city? Why does Vancouver get all the good artists and road shows that never come here? Why? Why?

The answer, I am afraid, Mr. and Mrs. Victoria, is that you get just about what you deserve! It's an answer I have known all along, but here are a few statistics to back it up—

This week in Vancouver the sale of tickets for Sadler's Wells opened and the entire week was sold out in four days with the exception of a few $7 seats.

"La Boheme" was a virtual sell-out in one day!

So was the Guard Republican Band of Paris.

Moiseiwitsch is completely sold out at this moment.

Now let's look at home. What do we find? With one of the half-dozen greatest pianists in the world scheduled to appear here in concert next week, more than 300 tickets are still unsold!

I have no patience with the people who, when Moiseiwitsch has come and gone, will bewail the fact that they "missed him!" They will probably be the same people who missed the De Paur Infantry Chorus, the Trudi Schoop Ballet and Ossy Renardy while they found nothing more important to do than play cards or wash their hair.

WIDESPREAD DRY ROT

There are naturally a number of people who miss things through no fault of their own but they have to suffer along with the rest of us the consequences of Victoria's widespread dryrot of inertia.

The brutal fact is that nothing —nothing at all—pays in Victoria! For two reasons. One —auditorium accommodation is too high priced in comparison to seating capacity and two—apathy! Apathy that lies like a blight over everything but the gardens! And don't look askance at that other fellow. I'm probably talking about you!

You argue, perhaps, that Vancouver is a bigger city. But size alone does not signify greatly for experience has shown that a small lively town, pro rata, will often outdo a larger one in supporting activities of this nature.

Or do you take the line that "long-haired stuff" has only a minority appeal? That may be so, but then what about baseball? Does that pay in Victoria? Has the arena turned out to be a gold mine? If it has the city fathers have been so busy packing away the nuggets they've forgotten to tell us about it.

So there it is Victoria? If you want the good road companies—"South Pacific," "Kiss Me Kate," "John Brown's Body," "La Boheme," Sadler's Wells—if you want to go on having concerts by world-famed artists, in fact, it is squarely up to you to make a success of what you are getting now!

TOTEM NEEDS SUPPORT

And while we are on the subject—! It is also squarely up to every individual who enjoys live stage productions to make sure we do not lose Totem Theatre. For if Totem closes the doors of the Government Street theatre, no similar group is going to open them for a very long time.

Arngrim and Baker productions are smartly and attractively staged and have proved time and again, delightful entertainment. Certainly it is nice to know there is a good repertory company at work in the city; but it would be nicer to know it was going to stay.

To quote Thor Arngrim: "It's a funny twist. In Vancouver we got the audiences—more than we could accommodate quite often—but we had to leave because we had no theatre. Here we have a beautiful theatre and no audiences!"

"Antigone" is being repeated next week because it has created more interest than anything Totem has done so far. A magnificent play, powerful and with an unusual appeal, with striking sets by those two outstanding artists, Charles and Francoise Stegeman, it will probably be subject of discussion by those who see it for many months to come.

But the future is definitely uncertain at the moment. Will "Antigone" be the last Totem production in Victoria? Are you people who talk glibly of your interest in the theatre really doing anything to promote good permanent theatre in this city?

How many Totem shows have you seen?

If Totem Theatre receives the support it deserves from you, it will reward you by widening its scope, improving its quality, growing into the city's life and becoming one of its saleable features. It is often said that there is nothing for young people in Victoria, and indeed it is true that there are few outlets for talent. So it is up to every individual to do everything in his power to encourage such developments, even if it does mean making the effort of getting into a car and driving downtown for a couple of hours' entertainment.

THEATRE GUILD OPENING

Victoria Theatre Guild will open the doors on its newly-decorated theatre next Saturday.

This will be a gala opening with refreshments served to the audience after the final curtain of the light American comedy, "Affairs of State."

The play, directed by Barbara Smythe, has some favorite Theatre Guild players in the cast, including Ken Bostock, Carol Macormac, Bruce Banyard.

Leopold Stokowski has announced that Lois Marshall, outstanding Canadian soprano, will be one of the soloists to appear at the concert of Canadian music which is to be given at Carnegie Hall, New York, next Friday.

Miss Marshall, who was featured in the Toscanini performance of the Missa Solemnis last Christmas at Carnegie Hall, will sing Two Mystic Songs from John Donne by the Toronto composer, Godfrey Ridout.

Canadian violinist, Noel Brunet, will also appear, playing Alexander Brott's Violin Concerto. The New Westminster Choir of Princeton, N.J., will perform Healey Willan's Coronation Suite. This is the first major concert of Canadian music ever held in the United States and is surely an important step in the rise of Canadian culture.

Word Frees Drug Suspects

VANCOUVER (CP) — Two men were acquitted Thursday in assize court on a charge of offering narcotics for sale.

The jury added a rider to their verdict saying that the case against the pair, George Eldridge and Lawrence Bell, should never have been brought to court.

The men were charged with offering to sell drugs to RCMP Constable Gerald M. Howe, young undercover agent whose investigation led to the arrest of a score of men and women here last April.

Defense counsel said that there was no mention of drugs in the negotiations with Howe. The constable said the word "stuff" was used.

Hunters Missing

Missing and believed drowned are her husband, Fred, 52; Edward McCormick, 30; and Mrs. Minnie Edwards, 28, all of Sault Ste. Marie.

Angry Yugoslav Premier Warns Italians Not to Move Army

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP)—President Tito sent tough Slav troop reinforcements into the Yugoslav Zone B of Trieste today and angrily warned that Italian military entry into Allied Zone A of the free territory would be considered "an act of aggression."

Angrily rejecting the decision by Britain and the United States to withdraw their troops and turn zone A over to the Italians, Tito offered a counter-proposal which he said would be his last.

Tito's new "solution" to the seven-year problem called for turning zone B into an autonomous unit under Yugoslav sovereignty for "10 or more years" and making the big port city of Trieste—Allied-occupied zone A — another autonomous unit under Italian sovereignty.

The Yugoslav leader warned the West if this proposal was not given serious consideration "then there will be no peace in this part of Europe."

In a fiery speech at the southern Serbian textile city of Leskovac, Tito told a huge throng "we have decided to protect our rights in the spirit of the United Nations, which also include the right to use armed force."

"The peoples of Yugoslavia in their demonstrations asked that our army be sent to zone B and I may declare that units of the Yugoslav army have already entered into zone B."

ANGRY PROTESTS

Tito spoke just two days after Britain and the United States announced their decision to withdraw their occupation troops from zone A and turn its administration over to Italy. The decision touched off a wave of angry protest demonstrations in Yugoslavia. They continued today.

U.S. Troops Point Guns At Seoul

PANMUNJOM (AP)—United States "alert troops" with tanks and flame-throwers took up positions pointing south today in an ominous warning against South Korean threats to attack Indian soldiers guarding war prisoners in the neutral zone.

The show of strength followed an Indian appeal for American aid in curbing any South Korean drive toward the compounds housing 22,600 anti-Communist North Korean and Chinese PWs.

The U.S. state department only Friday assured India it would take precautions to head off possible South Korean interference.

The state department also disclosed that it had—prior to the Indian appeal—warned South Korea that the United Nations command will forcibly resist any attempt to free the PWs or attack Indian troops.

South Korea, which considers India pro-Communist, has repeatedly threatened to drive the Indians from Korea by force, if necessary.

Smooth Passage Seen For New Liquor Bill

In Full Operation in 18 Months to Two Years Bonner Predicts as Second Reading Given

The provincial government's liquor bill failed to stir up any heated debating in the Legislature Friday as all parties generally agreed with its principle.

The bill, which completely revamps the province's drinking system for the first time in 32 years, is expected to have a much smoother passage through the House than predicted before the session.

Only a few members spoke on the second reading which will continue Tuesday afternoon.

There was no really harsh criticism of the bill, which sets up a system of serving hard liquor by the glass for the first time.

Among the criticisms were: Liquor Control Board given too much authority; no definite statement that ICB will be increased to three members; no provision made to spend some of liquor profits on alcohol research, education and rehabilitation. Some opposition members also criticized the local option clause.

The CCF party did not have a policy on the bill. Individual members gave their own opinions which were not necessarily those of the party, it was explained.

Attorney-General Robert Bonner was the only Socred to speak to the bill. He said he expected the new liquor laws would be in full operation within 18 months to two years.

Observers are wondering if any of the well-known "dries" on the government side will participate in the debate.

Main objection came from the Liberals who, however, said they would support the bill.

Liberal Leader Art Laing said there should be no local option clause. He called for open competition.

Dutch Plane, Carrying 76, May Win Race

CHRISTCHURCH, N.Z. (UP)—A Royal Dutch Airlines Liftmaster seemed certain today to win the transport section of the 12,270-mile London-to-New Zealand air race.

The huge Dutch DC-6A, carrying a full load of 76 passengers and crew, including 15 brides-to-be flying to their Dutch immigrant sweethearts, was due into Christchurch Airport this afternoon.

That would make it hours behind the sleek British European Airways turbo-prop Viscount, which landed at 1.20 a.m. PST today, but the KLM plane has the enormous handicap of 44 hours. The Viscount, as a scratch plane, was not eligible for prize money.

The only other airplane in the transport section of the race, a New Zealand Air Force Hastings transport, abandoned the contest at Colombo, Ceylon, because of a defective engine.

The Liftmaster's last stop was at Brisbane, Australia, where it stayed on the ground for 37 minutes to give its passengers, including 27 women, their first chance to stretch their legs since they left London 44 hours earlier.

The plane's last hop to Christchurch is 1,551 miles, and is expected to take about five and a half hours.

The shattered existing transport plane records from London to Melbourne, covering the 11,200 miles in 35 hours and 47 minutes, at an average speed of 305 miles an hour.

First prize in the transport section is $28,000.

Transport Board Order Official

OTTAWA (BUP)—The Board of Transport commissioners today made their recent freight rate equalization order official.

A formal judgment published today directed the railway companies to lower their mileage rates on class goods in the west by five per cent and authorized them to raise similar rates in the east by "not more than ten per cent."

The move was designed as a step towards equalizing rates in the western provinces with those in Ontario and Quebec. It was announced by Chief Commissioner J. D. Kearney during open hearings of the board last week.

The new rates must be put into effect by November 15.

Murky Thanksgiving Prospect for City

Showery Monday May Not Spoil Holiday Week-End Sports Card

Passage of a storm Friday left clear skies that will continue well into Saturday night, weatherman William Mackie said today.

"It's even better than we'd hoped for," he said, "but I don't think it will last. A storm still in the Pacific should give increasing cloud Sunday morning, and rain by Sunday afternoon."

Most of the many sports events planned for the holiday week-end (see page 8 for detailed program) will proceed as scheduled, but too heavy rain could upset the B.C. championship auto racing meet at Shearing Speedway, Monday at 2.45, and the Victoria Motorcycle Club hill climb at Mount Douglas, Monday at 1.30.

The weatherman expects showery weather Monday morning and partial clearing in the afternoon. Temperatures on the week-end will range between 48 and 60 degrees, and winds will be light.

Heavy fog at Patricia Bay airport "washed out" all TCA flights between Victoria and Vancouver, from 9 p.m. Friday to 6.15 a.m. today.

The 9 p.m. plane from Vancouver crossed from the mainland to Pat Bay, but was compelled to return when the low ceiling prevented landing.

Airline traffic, which was exceptionally heavy because of the Thanksgiving holiday week-end, was diverted to the Canadian Pacific's night steamers. The midnight boat out of Vancouver arrived here today with every stateroom occupied, as well as every chair on board.

CPR announced today that Ss. Princess Patricia will make a special stop off Portlock Point on the east side of Prevost Island, at 4 p.m. Monday to pick up Gulf Islands passengers bound for Vancouver.

NO PAPER ON MONDAY

Thanksgiving Day, Monday, will be observed as a holiday by the Times staff. There will be no regular editions of the paper.

Ousted Guiana Cabinet Heads To Stand Trial

GEORGETOWN, British Guiana (UP) — Informed sources said today charges were being prepared against government leaders of this South American colony who were ousted yesterday by Britain.

British security officers accompanied by locksmiths sorted through the desks of the five cabinet ministers fired along with Premier Cheddi Jagan yesterday.

The sources said the attorney-general would bring suitable charges against the ringleaders of Jagan's People's Progressive Party to support Britain's accusations that it tried to turn the colony into a "Communist state."

British troops moved in this week to back the action of British Gov. Sir Alfred Savage. They fanned out across the colony to guard against any reaction to the crackdown. Informed sources said the troops will remain for a long time.

In London, Labor members of Parliament gave signs of starting a row over the government's ouster of the Guiana government elected last April under the new constitution.

Informed sources said a new general election may be held in about a year under conditions that will prevent pro-Communists from regaining control. (See Jagan, page 3.)

Reds Propose New Talks At Panmunjom

Allied Reaction Favors Acceptance

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UP) — Communist China and North Korea proposed today that details for a political conference on Korea's future be settled in a meeting at Panmunjom, and first unofficial reaction was that it would be accepted.

Washington sources said "Panmunjom would be no problem" if the Reds really want to make necessary pre-conference arrangements.

The latest Red proposal came in the midst of mounting tension over the Korean situation, including fears that the whole truce structure might collapse.

FAVORABLE REACTION

In separate notes, China Premier Chou En-Lai and North Korean Foreign Minister Nam Il asked that the time, place and membership of the conference be discussed in the war-flattened farm village where the armistice was signed.

The Communist message was addressed through Sweden to United Nations Secretary Gen. Dag Hammarskjold and Assembly President Madame Pandit and was received at UN headquarters Saturday morning. It had been broadcast earlier by Peiping radio.

Immediate state department and UN reaction was unofficial but favorable.

Renews Call for Meet Of Big Four Leaders

MARGATE, England (CP)—Prime Minister Churchill said today he had a "sure hope" that an East-West non-aggression pact supported by the United States would prevent a third world war.

The 78-year-old statesman, addressing the Conservative party conference, renewed his call for an informal meeting of the Big Four heads of state.

Reviving his proposal for a non-aggression pact patterned after the 1925 Treaty of Locaro, Churchill declared:

"When . . . I spoke about the master thought of Locarno in a speech on May 11 I meant of course the plan of everybody going against the aggressor whoever he may be and helping the victim, large or small.

"That is no more than the United Nations was set up to do.

"We are told that the Locarno Treaty failed and did not prevent war. There was a very good reason for that. The United States was not in it.

"Had the United States taken before the First World War or between the wars the same interest and made the same exertions to preserve peace and uphold freedom which—I thank God—she is doing now, there might never have been a first war and there would certainly never have been a second.

"With their mighty aid, I have sure hope there will not be a third."

FRIENDLY TALKS

Churchill became ill shortly after this May 11 proposal and has been out of action since.

Of his proposal for a meeting of President Eisenhower, Soviet Premier Georgi Malenkov and French Premier Joseph Laniel, Churchill declared:

"Five months ago on May 11, I made a speech in the House of Commons. I have not spoken since. This is the first time in my political life that I have kept quiet for so long.

"I asked for very little. I held out no glittering or exciting hopes about Russia. I thought that friendly, informal, personal talks between the leading figures in the countries mainly involved might do good and would not easily do much harm, and that good thing might lead to another.

RAISED "STIR"

"This humble, modest plan announced as the policy of Her Majesty's government raised a considerable stir all over the place. And though we have not yet been able to persuade our trusted Allies to adopt it in the form suggested no one can say that it is dead.

"I still think that the leading men of the various nations ought to be able to meet together—without trying to cut attitudes before excitable publics or using regiments of experts to marshal all the difficulties and objections—and let us try to see whether there is not something better for us all than tearing and blasting each other to pieces, which we can certainly do. . . .

"The interest of Britain, of Europe and of the NATO alliance is not to play Russia against Germany or Germany against Russia but to make them both feel they live in safety with each other in spite of their problems and differences.

"For us to have a very definite part in all of this it is our duty to see our growing influence both with Germany and Russia to relieve them of any anxiety they might feel about each other . . ."

NO ELECTION IN 1953-54

MARGATE (CP) — Prime Minister Churchill told Conservatives gathered in this Kentish seaside resort that his government had no intention of calling a general election in Britain this year or next.

There had been much speculation during the party conference here that the Conservatives might call for an election next year.

EDC Action Demanded by Churchill

MARGATE, Eng. (Reuters)—Prime Minister Churchill today bluntly warned France that if she does not implement the European army plan he will demand West Germany's rearmament within the 14-nation North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Speaking before the annual Conservative party conference, Churchill urged France to stop dithering over the six-nation European Defense Community which was conceived by France herself three years ago.

Under the plan Germany is to contribute 500,000 troops and thousands of planes to Western Defense against communism. France's traditional fears of Germany have delayed progress in putting the project into effect.

FBI Probes All Tangled Angles Of Kidnap Tale

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Methodical investigation of all facets of the Greenlease kidnap-slaying was pushed today by authorities seeking to clear up discrepancies in stories told by the boy's admitted abductors.

Carl Austin Hall, 34, who planned the kidnapping, and Bonnie Brown Heady, 41-year-old divorcee who took Bobby Greenlease, 6, from his private school, were to be brought here from St. Louis where they were arrested Wednesday.

Officials in St. Louis said details of the transfer were being withheld for security reasons.

Florida Croplands Threatened by Hurricane Blow

MIAMI (UP)—U.S. Engineers alerted sandbag crews as floods swollen by a tropical deluge spilled across 10,000 square miles of Florida croplands today and threatened to engulf canals.

Forty-man teams equipped with two-way radios patrolled miles of dikes guarding south Florida truck farms from brimfull drainage canals in the wake of a tempest that already had delt crops a $7,000,000 blow Friday.

U.S. Troops Point Guns At Seoul

PANMUNJOM (AP)—United States "alert troops" with tanks and flame-throwers took up positions pointing south today in an ominous warning against South Korean threats to attack Indian soldiers guarding war prisoners in the neutral zone.

The show of strength followed an Indian appeal for American aid in curbing any South Korean drive toward the compounds housing 22,600 anti-Communist North Korean and Chinese PWs.

The U.S. state department only Friday assured India it would take precautions to head off possible South Korean interference.

The state department also disclosed that it had—prior to the Indian appeal—warned South Korea that the United Nations command will forcibly resist any attempt to free the PWs or attack Indian troops.

South Korea, which considers India pro-Communist, has repeatedly threatened to drive the Indians from Korea by force, if necessary.

Reds Propose New Talks

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UP) — Communist China and North Korea proposed today that details for a political conference on Korea's future be settled in a meeting at Panmunjom, and first unofficial reaction was that it would be accepted.

Washington sources said "Panmunjom would be no problem" if the Reds really want to make necessary pre-conference arrangements.

The latest Red proposal came in the midst of mounting tension over the Korean situation, including fears that the whole truce structure might collapse.

FAVORABLE REACTION

In separate notes, China Premier Chou En-Lai and North Korean Foreign Minister Nam Il asked that the time, place and membership of the conference be discussed in the war-flattened farm village where the armistice was signed.

The Communist message was addressed through Sweden to United Nations Secretary Gen. Dag Hammarskjold and Assembly President Madame Pandit and was received at UN headquarters Saturday morning. It had been broadcast earlier by Peiping radio.

Immediate state department and UN reaction was unofficial but favorable.

Bullet-Riddled Cabbie Is Own Ambulance Driver

PORT ARTHUR (CP) — A Port Arthur taxi driver, his body riddled with bullets fired by a passenger, drove himself to hospital unassisted Friday night after chasing the unidentified gunman.

MAJOR HOCKEY SERIES NEW WEEKEND FEATURE

With the hockey season just starting every fan will be interested in a new series which opens in Weekend Magazine today. It is Dick Irvin's story of how he has won the Stanley Cup four times as coach of the Montreal Canadiens.

Another feature of interest to all Victorians is "Night Boat," Dave Willock's story about the boat between here and Vancouver. Turn to Weekend Magazine for this special reading.

Murky Thanksgiving Prospect for City

Showery Monday May Not Spoil Holiday Week-End Sports Card

Passage of a storm Friday left clear skies that will continue well into Saturday night, weatherman William Mackie said today.

"It's even better than we'd hoped for," he said, "but I don't think it will last. A storm still in the Pacific should give increasing cloud Sunday morning, and rain by Sunday afternoon."

Most of the many sports events planned for the holiday week-end (see page 8 for detailed program) will proceed as scheduled, but too heavy rain could upset the B.C. championship auto racing meet at Shearing Speedway, Monday at 2.45, and the Victoria Motorcycle Club hill climb at Mount Douglas, Monday at 1.30.

The weatherman expects showery weather Monday morning and partial clearing in the afternoon. Temperatures on the week-end will range between 48 and 60 degrees, and winds will be light.

Heavy fog at Patricia Bay airport "washed out" all TCA flights between Victoria and Vancouver, from 9 p.m. Friday to 6.15 a.m. today.

The 9 p.m. plane from Vancouver crossed from the mainland to Pat Bay, but was compelled to return when the low ceiling prevented landing.

Airline traffic, which was exceptionally heavy because of the Thanksgiving holiday weekend, was diverted to the Canadian Pacific's night steamers. The midnight boat out of Vancouver arrived here today with every stateroom occupied, as well as every chair on board.

CPR announced today that Ss. Princess Patricia will make a special stop off Portlock Point on the east side of Prevost Island, at 4 p.m. Monday to pick up Gulf Islands passengers bound for Vancouver.

NO PAPER ON MONDAY

Thanksgiving Day, Monday, will be observed as a holiday by the Times staff. There will be no regular editions of the paper.

Smooth Passage Seen For New Liquor Bill

In Full Operation in 18 Months to Two Years Bonner Predicts as Second Reading Given

The provincial government's liquor bill failed to stir up any heated debating in the Legislature Friday as all parties generally agreed with its principle.

The bill, which completely revamps the province's drinking system for the first time in 32 years, is expected to have a much smoother passage through the House than predicted before the session.

Only a few members spoke on the second reading which will continue Tuesday afternoon.

There was no really harsh criticism of the bill, which sets up a system of serving hard liquor by the glass for the first time.

Among the criticisms were: Liquor Control Board given too much authority; no definite statement that ICB will be increased to three members; no provision made to spend some of liquor profits on alcohol research, education and rehabilitation. Some opposition members also criticized the local option clause.

The CCF party did not have a policy on the bill. Individual members gave their own opinions which were not necessarily those of the party, it was explained.

Attorney-General Robert Bonner was the only Socred to speak to the bill. He said he expected the new liquor laws would be in full operation within 18 months to two years.

Observers are wondering if any of the well-known "dries" on the government side will participate in the debate.

Main objection came from the Liberals who, however, said they would support the bill.

Liberal Leader Art Laing said there should be no local option clause. He called for open competition.

Would Be 'Sure Hope' Of Averting New War

MARGATE, England (CP)—Prime Minister Churchill said today he had a "sure hope" that an East-West non-aggression pact supported by the United States would prevent a third world war.

The 78-year-old statesman, addressing the Conservative party conference, renewed his call for an informal meeting of the Big Four heads of state.

Reviving his proposal for a non-aggression pact patterned after the 1925 Treaty of Locarno, Churchill declared:

"When . . . I spoke about the master thought of Locarno in a speech on May 11 I meant of course the plan of everybody going against the aggressor whoever he may be and helping the victim, large or small.

"That is no more than the United Nations was set up to do.

"We are told that the Locarno Treaty failed and did not prevent war. There was a very good reason for that. The United States was not in it.

"Had the United States taken before the First World War or between the wars the same interest and made the same exertions to preserve peace and uphold freedom which—I thank God—she is doing now, there might never have been a first war and there would certainly never have been a second.

"With their mighty aid, I have sure hope there will not be a third."

FRIENDLY TALKS

Churchill became ill shortly after this May 11 proposal and had been out of action since.

Of his proposal for a meeting of President Eisenhower, Soviet Premier Georgi Malenkov and French Premier Joseph Laniel, Churchill declared:

"Five months ago on May 11, I made a speech in the House of Commons. I have not spoken since. This is the first time in my political life that I have kept quiet for so long.

"I asked for very little. I held out no glittering or exciting hopes about Russia. I thought that friendly, informal, personal talks between the leading figures in the countries mainly involved might do good and would not easily do much harm, and that good thing might lead to another.

RAISED "STIR"

"This humble, modest plan announced as the policy of Her Majesty's government raised a considerable stir all over the place. And though we have not yet been able to persuade our trusted Allies to adopt it in the form suggested no one can say that it is dead.

"I still think that the leading men of the various nations ought to be able to meet together—without trying to cut attitudes before excitable publics or using regiments of experts to marshal all the difficulties and objections—and let us try to see whether there is not something better for us all than tearing and blasting each other to pieces, which we can certainly do. . . .

"The interest of Britain, of Europe and of the NATO alliance is not to play Russia against Germany or Germany against Russia but to make them both feel they live in safety with each other in spite of their problems and differences.

"For us to have a very definite part in all of this, it is our duty to see our growing influence both with Germany and Russia to relieve them of any anxiety they might feel about each other . . ."

'Act on EDC' British PM Warns France

MARGATE, Eng. (Reuters)—Prime Minister Churchill today bluntly warned France that if she does not implement the European army plan he will demand West Germany's rearmament within the 14-nation North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Speaking before the annual Conservative party conference, Churchill urged France to stop dithering over the six-nation European Defense Community which was conceived by France herself three years ago.

Under the plan Germany is to contribute 500,000 troops and thousands of planes to Western Defense against communism. France's traditional fears of Germany have delayed progress in putting the project into effect.

TITO'S TROOPS ENTER TRIESTE TROUBLE ZONE

Angry Premier Warns Italians

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP)—President Tito sent tough Slav troop reinforcements into the Yugoslav Zone B of Trieste today and angrily warned that Italian military entry into Allied Zone A of free territory would be considered "an act of aggression."

Angrily rejecting the decision by Britain and the United States to withdraw their troops and turn zone A over to the Italians, Tito offered a counter-proposal which he said would be his last.

Tito's new "solution" to the seven-year problem called for turning zone B into an autonomous unit under Yugoslav sovereignty for "10 or more years" and making the big port city of Trieste—Allied-occupied zone A—another autonomous unit under Italian sovereignty.

The Yugoslav leader warned the West if this proposal was not given serious consideration "then there will be no peace in this part of Europe."

In a fiery speech at the southern Serbian textile city of Leskovac, Tito told a huge throng "we have decided to protect our rights in the spirit of the United Nations, which also include the right to use armed force."

"The peoples of Yugoslavia in their demonstrations asked that our army be sent to zone B and I may declare that units of the Yugoslav army have already entered into zone B."

ANGRY PROTESTS

Tito spoke just two days after Britain and the United States announced their decision to withdraw their occupation troops from zone A and turn its administration over to Italy. The decision touched off a wave of angry protest demonstrations in Yugoslavia. They continued today.
